Legality Of Commission Is Question At Wellsville

Wellsville City Council acted at a special meeting Friday night to have Solicitor William Bush determine the legal status of the Civil Service Commission, even if it means a suit in Common Pleas Court.

Wellsville Fraternal Order of Police Lodge II and its civilian affiliate, FOP Associates Lodge 51, also held a special meeting last night and voted to use all the monies in the treasury to assist ousted John Hephner regain his police chief job.

THESE WERE the latest developments in the battle between the city administration and City Council and the Police Department.

Meanwhile, the Civil Service Commission announced today that a public hearing on Hephner's appeal will be held Wednesday night at 7. There had been some uncertainty about it after the announcement appeared in Friday's Review.

Edward M. Welch, chairman, said the hearing will be conducted in Council Chambers at City Hall.

Letters have been sent Mayor William Daugherty and Hephner notifying them of the hearing.

The motion adopted by Council last night authorizes the city solicitor to obtain a "decision from what ever source necessary, immediately" on the legal standing of the Civil Service Commission.

Councilman Paul Todd made the motion, seconded by Councilman Dwight MacLean. Todd said he wants a definite legal ruling, even if it requires a hearing before Common Pleas Court.

The dispute is over the political affiliation of Richard Lloyd, commission member. Lloyd was appointed as the minority Republican member. He was named by Mayor Daugherty earlier this year.

LLOYD SAYS he is a Republican. Others claim he is a Democrat. Council, in a formal letter, asked Bush for a ruling. The solicitor sent a formal inquiry to the attorney general's office in Columbus. The reply was that it would take a court hearing to establish the legality of the commission, or in essence, determine whether or not Lloyd is a Republican or a Democrat.

Lloyd, by his own admission, has at times voted Democratic, some in primary elections, but said he is of the other political faith.

Todd commented at the opening of the meeting that he had called the session along with two other councilmen.

He said the purpose was for one specific reason. "I am glad to see so many here, as I believe they know the seriousness of the situation," he said.

TODD CONTINUED that the trouble was brought on by a series of events and mostly confusions. "I am concerned with the legality of the Civil Service Commission."

"In the beginning, Council did not find out about the appointments to this board or who the

American Faces Cuba Jail Term

30-Year Sentence Requested For Ohio Man For 'Spying'

HAVANA, Cuba (AP) — The Castro government has demanded a 30-year prison sentence for an American convicted by a Cuban military tribunal of working for the U.S. Central Intelligence Agency.

The prosecution first asked for the death penalty for Frank Carl Emmick, a former president of Havana's American Club, and six Cubans allegedly hired by him to spy, but then suggested the same prison term for all.

The trial took place Thursday and was disclosed Friday by the Swiss Embassy, which represents U.S. interests in Cuba. Sentencing is expected shortly.

Emmick, 49, who comes from Rossford, Ohio, arrived in Cuba in 1959 intending to sell tractors. Later, he went into the frog legs business.

When Emmick was arrested Dec. 12, he was president of the American Club, last remaining private club in Havana. It has not been closed because most of its members now are Britons, Cuban sources said.

The Havana press did not report Emmick's arrest or trial.

Swiss Ambassador Emil Stadelhoffer and Swiss Consul Jacob Etter provided Emmick with a lawyer and a translator, and attended the trial.

Etter said the prosecution contended Emmick provided military and other intelligence information to John Hlavacek, a former National Broadcasting Co. correspondent in Havana. The prosecution accused Hlavacek of being a CIA agent.

The government also charged that Emmick hired the Cubans to photograph military installations, including missile sites, and provided them with cameras.

In Omaha, Neb., where he is employed by television station KMTV, Hlavacek denied the charges. He said he had chatted with Emmick at the American Club, but that Emmick had never handled any photographic equipment for him.

FUNERAL SERVICES for Gen. Douglas MacArthur this morning at Norfolk, Va., were attended by Attorney General and Mrs. Robert Kennedy. Final rites for the famed general were held at the MacArthur Memorial where he was buried in a crypt. (UPI Telephoto)

Insisting Parties Use Strike Delay To Come To Terms

WASHINGTON (AP)— Federal mediators continue efforts today to settle the knotted railroad work-rules dispute in talks at the White House under the watchful eye of President Johnson.

The President, who has staked his personal prestige on achieving a voluntary agreement, was reportedly maintaining "absolute insistence" that the parties use a 15-day strike postponement to come to terms.

While exchanging comments with newsmen from a White House balcony Friday, Johnson said "there is not a word of truth" in a broadcast report he had engineered the truce to get time for Congress to pass emergency antistrike legislation.

But, the sources said, this does not mean the administration would let the 15 days slip by without preparing emergency legislation as a last resort if necessary.

Johnson Friday dropped in four times on talks the mediators were holding with the unions and with management. He asked the mediators for a progress report Wednesday.

White House press secretary George Reedy said Johnson had arranged to have the sessions held at the White House and at the Executive Office Building next door so he could keep closest personal touch with the situation.

Until Johnson stepped in, a strike at 12:01 a.m. Friday had seemed a certainty.

At that hour nearly 200 railroads were to post revised work rules governing wages and working conditions, and some 200,000 members of five operating brotherhoods were to retaliate by walking off their jobs.

The railroads' work-rules changes were announced after four of the unions had called a surprise strike Wednesday against the Illinois Central Railroad.

On Thursday night, Johnson talked the unions into calling off the Illinois Central strike and Children End Visit With Governor

MENA, Ark. (AP) — Three children left the governor's mansion in Little Rock, returned home to a 65-acre farm in western Arkansas and said they were glad to be back.

Wayne Cude, 12, and his sisters Delia Marie, 11, and Linda May, 8, were back with their parents after a four-day stay with Gov. Orval E. Faubus.

"The Faubuses are pretty nice people," Wayne said. "Extra nice. But I missed home cooking. And mostly Momma and Daddy."

Archie T. B. Cude Sr. kept the three children out of school because the school board insisted they have a smallpox vaccination. He says reading the Bible has taught him that use of medicines makes one spiritually impure. Faith in God is all that is needed to be healed, he claims.

State law requires children to attend school until they reach the age of 16 or complete the eighth grade, ruled Chancellor Wesley Howard of Texarkana.

The Arkansas Supreme Court, upholding Howard's ruling, ordered the State Welfare Department to place the three youngsters in a foster home, vaccinate them, enroll them in school and then take them home.

But Faubus took the children to the mansion, and, through Atty. Gen. Bruce Bennett, worked out an arrangement by which the children could return home until the state vs. religion conflict is settled.

Cude says he will appeal to the U.S. Supreme Court.

The Arkansas court refused Friday to rescind its order, but it said the children could go home if Howard consented.

Cude vows he will not accept the children if the state vaccinates them.

The Cudes have five other children who are too young or too old to be affected by the Arkansas compulsory attendance law.

Senate Rights Debate Enters Its 28th Day

Democrat Leaders Sure Of Enough To Stay In Session

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate's civil rights debate goes into its 28th day today with Democratic leaders convinced they will have enough senators on hand to stay in session.

Last Saturday, administration forces were plagued with absenteeism and called for adjournment after 41 minutes when they couldn't mass the 51 senators needed for a quorum.

But Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey of Minnesota, the assistant Democratic leader and floor manager for the bill, said, "That was a good lesson and today we'll have more than enough senators."

Many senators are taking part in a late - morning parade, but first they planned to report for a quick quorum call when the Senate convenes.

On tap to speak against the antidiscrimination measure were Sens. Sam J. Ervin Jr., D-N.C., and Olin D. Johnston, D-S.C.

Meanwhile, Humphrey and Senate Republican Leader Everett M. Dirksen of Illinois told reporters there may be some initial steps toward action on the bill by the middle of next week.

Dirksen said he has been revising and discarding his amendments to the fair employment practices section — proposals which stirred up a storm when he revealed them Thursday.

2 Poolroom Owners Cited At Wellsville

Wellsville police Friday night cited two poolroom operators and several juveniles found patronizing the establishments were ordered to appear before County Juvenile Officer James Miller.

Terry Thompson of Main St., owner and operator of the Thompson Poolroom, 1745 Main St., was charged with keeping a place for gambling. Police said there was a card game in progress at the time of the raid.

Marion Arnette of Broadway was cited at the 4th St. Recreation at Main St. on the Public Square for permitting minors to be in a poolroom.

This case has been turned over to the juvenile authorities. Several juveniles and their parents reported to City Hall this morning for questioning.

The raids were conducted by Patrolmen Robert Wellington and Frank Daniels, who were on duty last night.

Fog Engulfs Valley; Showers Due Tonight

Dense fog blanketed the Tri-State District early today and it took a lot of sunshine to disperse the cotton-like atmosphere by mid-morning.

Temperatures mounted, however, and were expected to reach near 70 this afternoon with a chance of scattered showers tonight, ending Sunday morning then clearing and continued mild.

The downtown had a below-freezing 31 about 7 a.m. when the fog was thickest. It was the heaviest fog this spring, taking in even the hilltop areas which usually are clear.

Gen. Branco Due Post

Brazilian Congress Set To Elect New President

BRASILIA, Brazil (AP)—With Brazil's revolutionary military command watching from the sidelines, Congress today elects a new president already armed with the most sweeping powers ever accorded a Brazilian chief executive.

The new president will serve the remainder of Goulart's term, ending Jan. 31, 1966. He will have the burden of trying to solve the many problems of Latin America's ailing giant, including rampant inflation and widespread social unrest.

The revolution's military leaders have empowered the president to purge left wing extremists and corrupt officeholders no matter what immunity they have enjoyed. They also have suspended the political rights of more than 20 congressmen.

The president's extraordinary powers are contained in an "institutional act" proclaimed by the military leadership without congressional consent. The act's life is for the presidential term. It calls for national elections to name a new president Oct. 3, 1965.

Under the measure, Congress must pass or reject legislation proposed by the President within 30 days. Otherwise the proposals automatically become law.

Brazilian presidents long have complained of difficulty in getting a bickering Congress to pass their social and financial proposals.

Some newspapers contend the institutional act amounts to rule by military junta, but the independent Jornal de Brasil in Rio de Janeiro said the price was worth paying for the "constitutional, material and moral restoration of the country."

With little choice in the matter, Congress prepared halfheartedly for the election. A fistfight nearly broke out when a lawmaker denounced the crackdown on suspected subversives Friday.

Cannon Roar Salute

MacArthur Rites Held In Norfolk

NORFOLK, Va. (AP)— With measured cannon fire and the sad notes of Taps, the nation sent its old soldier, Douglas MacArthur, to his earthly peace today.

It was a moving ceremony—one of massed flags dipping in waves, of stirring band music, and of quiet prayers and the sadness of the 84-year-old general of the Army's widow, Jean, and son, Arthur, 26.

The Stars and Stripes were removed from MacArthur's steel casket before he was to be lowered into his tomb in a crypt in the MacArthur Memorial in this old Navy town where his mother was born.

And thus, the five-star general and hero of three wars who died Sunday—fading away as he once eloquently predicted—was laid to rest.

There were dignitaries and old comrades on hand, their heads bowed as the benediction was read at the crypt after church services at St. Paul Episcopal Church two blocks away.

Representing President Johnson, who paid his respects to MacArthur in earlier ceremonies in Washington, was Atty. Gen. Robert F. Kennedy, who less than five months ago saw his brother, President John F. Kennedy, buried with similar honors.

Before the entombment, MacArthur's body was carried to the church for Episcopal funeral services.

As the horse-drawn caisson slowly rolled past, ranks of troops lowered the bright colorful flags of all the states and territories and of the 26 Army units MacArthur had been associated with in a half-century of war and peace.

After the half-hour service, with Mrs. MacArthur and her son in the front pew, the cortege retraced its slow way back to the memorial building.

A former courthouse with stately columns, it was turned into a memorial for the legendary warrior who won fame and controversy in two world wars and in Korea—controversy that lives on.

At the crypt there were the final prayers, the bowed heads.

City Trucker Posts Bond On Manslaughter

Pennsylvania Man Killed When Auto Is Struck Broadside

A Washington County glass-worker was killed early Friday evening when a tractor - trailer rig operated by an East Liverpool man crashed broadside into his car on Route 31, three miles east of Washington, Pa.

Harold Cecil McClelland, 60, of Washington R. D. 2 was pronounced dead on arrival at Washington Hospital. He was pinned in the wreckage of his car for more than an hour.

Pennsylvania State Police at Washington said Donald C. Nicholson, 30, of 357 Ogden St., escaped unhurt. He was charged with voluntary manslaughter, but was later released under $1,000 bond, State police reported.

Officers said both the car and the rig were eastbound when the victim attempted a left turn as the rig driver tried to pass. The car was struck broadside, officers said.

Mr. McClelland, a bachelor, was employed at the Hazel-Atlas Division of Continental Can Co. in Washington. He was a native of Waynesburg in Greene County.

Nicholson was en route to Donora with a load of sulphur from the terminal in Wellsville. He is employed by the Shaffer Trucking Co. of Wellsville. The tractor of the rig was demolished.

The accident happened at 6:45 on two-lane Route 31, state police reported. An inquest is planned by the county coroner.

Grand Jury's Docket Ready

Hancock Panel Will Be Seated Tuesday

At least five cases await the Hancock County Grand Jury slated to convene Tuesday morning at 9:30 in New Cumberland for the spring term of Circuit Court.

Prosecutor Floyd R. Tarr said the docket includes the case of Morton H. Rosenshine, 47, of Weirton, accused of three counts of embezzlement and grand larceny.

Rosenshine's license to practice law in West Virginia was suspended indefinitely April 1 by Judge James G. McClure after he pleaded "no contest" to one of four malpractice complaints lodged by the ethics committee of the Hancock County Bar Association.

Rosenshine is named in warrants charging grand larceny and embezzlement of funds totaling almost $9,000 from residents of Weirton and New Cumberland since October 1961.

He was bound over to the April Grand Jury by Squire John D. Herron of New Cumberland on March 17.

The prosecutor said he will seek indictments charging breaking and entering against Ronald Hemline, Robert Hickman, Thomas Riffee and August Martello.

MacArthur's Post-Korean Plan On Cold War Bared

WASHINGTON (AP) — General of the Army Douglas MacArthur's post-Korean plan to end the cold war involved threatening Soviet dictator Joseph Stalin that Germany and Japan would be completely rearmed unless the people of the European Red satellite countries were granted self-determination, a congressman has said.

Rep. William Jennings Bryan Dorn, D-S.C., said MacArthur freely told him of this plan to bring the Soviet Union into line in an interview at the general's Waldorf-Astoria tower suite in New York. Dorn said he was uncertain of the year, but thought it was 1956.

The gist of MacArthur's plan was the missing part of newspaper accounts this week that projected the general into a swirl of posthumous controversy.

In a 10-year-old interview published Wednesday as MacArthur was lying in state in the Capitol rotunda, Bob Considine of the Hearst Headline Service disclosed the existence of the plan and described how MacArthur tried to convince Dwight D. Eisenhower, then the president-elect, to put it into effect.

Consodine wrote that MacArthur told him, "I don't feel it would be fair to reveal my plan to you. It would be an unfair burden on you as a reporter."

Dorn said there was no such reluctance when he and two other congressmen visited MacArthur in 1956. He said MacArthur revealed to him "for the first time, and I have kept it confidential, the nature of his conversation with President-elect Eisenhower and John Foster Dulles in December 1952." Dulles became Eisenhower's secretary of state.

"The plan suggested by MacArthur to President-elect Eisenhower and John Foster Dulles was to threaten Russia with a complete rearmament of Germany and Japan, possibly including nuclear power, unless Stalin agreed to live up to his

Police Arrest 2 In Midland Picket Clash

Midland police broke up the fight which began between Waso Padezanin of Economy Borough, employe of the A. E. Anderson Co. firm, and a picket, Harold H. Allen, of Rochester.

Police said Padezanin and Allen exchanged words as the former left the plant at 4:25 p.m., and the pair began fighting. Allen is a member of the International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers of Beaver.

Witnesses said four other men with Allen moved to aid him.

2 Poolroom Owners Cited At Wellsville

Wellsville police Friday night cited two poolroom operators and several juveniles found patronizing the establishments were ordered to appear before County Juvenile Officer James Miller.

Terry Thompson of Main St., owner and operator of the Thompson Poolroom, 1745 Main St., was charged with keeping a place for gambling. Police said there was a card game in progress at the time of the raid.

Marion Arnette of Broadway was cited at the 4th St. Recreation at Main St. on the Public Square for permitting minors to be in a poolroom.

This case has been turned over to the juvenile authorities. Several juveniles and their parents reported to City Hall this morning for questioning.

The raids were conducted by Patrolmen Robert Wellington and Frank Daniels, who were on duty last night.

Grand Jury's Docket Ready

Hancock Panel Will Be Seated Tuesday

At least five cases await the Hancock County Grand Jury slated to convene Tuesday morning at 9:30 in New Cumberland for the spring term of Circuit Court.

Prosecutor Floyd R. Tarr said the docket includes the case of Morton H. Rosenshine, 47, of Weirton, accused of three counts of embezzlement and grand larceny.

Rosenshine's license to practice law in West Virginia was suspended indefinitely April 1 by Judge James G. McClure after he pleaded "no contest" to one of four malpractice complaints lodged by the ethics committee of the Hancock County Bar Association.

Rosenshine is named in warrants charging grand larceny and embezzlement of funds totaling almost $9,000 from residents of Weirton and New Cumberland since October 1961.

He was bound over to the April Grand Jury by Squire John D. Herron of New Cumberland on March 17.

The prosecutor said he will seek indictments charging breaking and entering against Ronald Hemline, Robert Hickman, Thomas Riffee and August Martello.

Pennsylvania Man Killed When Auto Is Struck Broadside

A Washington County glass-worker was killed early Friday evening when a tractor - trailer rig operated by an East Liverpool man crashed broadside into his car on Route 31, three miles east of Washington, Pa.

Harold Cecil McClelland, 60, of Washington R. D. 2 was pronounced dead on arrival at Washington Hospital. He was pinned in the wreckage of his car for more than an hour.

Pennsylvania State Police at Washington said Donald C. Nicholson, 30, of 357 Ogden St., escaped unhurt. He was charged with voluntary manslaughter, but was later released under $1,000 bond, State police reported.

Officers said both the car and the rig were eastbound when the victim attempted a left turn as the rig driver tried to pass. The car was struck broadside, officers said.

Mr. McClelland, a bachelor, was employed at the Hazel-Atlas Division of Continental Can Co. in Washington. He was a native of Waynesburg in Greene County.

Nicholson was en route to Donora with a load of sulphur from the terminal in Wellsville. He is employed by the Shaffer Trucking Co. of Wellsville. The tractor of the rig was demolished.

The accident happened at 6:45 on two-lane Route 31, state police reported. An inquest is planned by the county coroner.

Gen. Branco Due Post

Brazilian Congress Set To Elect New President

BRASILIA, Brazil (AP)—With Brazil's revolutionary military command watching from the sidelines, Congress today elects a new president already armed with the most sweeping powers ever accorded a Brazilian chief executive.

The new president will serve the remainder of Goulart's term, ending Jan. 31, 1966. He will have the burden of trying to solve the many problems of Latin America's ailing giant, including rampant inflation and widespread social unrest.

The revolution's military leaders have empowered the president to purge left wing extremists and corrupt officeholders no matter what immunity they have enjoyed. They also have suspended the political rights of more than 20 congressmen.

The president's extraordinary powers are contained in an "institutional act" proclaimed by the military leadership without congressional consent. The act's life is for the presidential term. It calls for national elections to name a new president Oct. 3, 1965.

Under the measure, Congress must pass or reject legislation proposed by the President within 30 days. Otherwise the proposals automatically become law.

Brazilian presidents long have complained of difficulty in getting a bickering Congress to pass their social and financial proposals.

Some newspapers contend the institutional act amounts to rule by military junta, but the independent Jornal de Brasil in Rio de Janeiro said the price was worth paying for the "constitutional, material and moral restoration of the country."

With little choice in the matter, Congress prepared halfheartedly for the election. A fistfight nearly broke out when a lawmaker denounced the crackdown on suspected subversives Friday.

Fog Engulfs Valley; Showers Due Tonight

Dense fog blanketed the Tri-State District early today and it took a lot of sunshine to disperse the cotton-like atmosphere by mid-morning.

Temperatures mounted, however, and were expected to reach near 70 this afternoon with a chance of scattered showers tonight, ending Sunday morning then clearing and continued mild.

The downtown had a below-freezing 31 about 7 a.m. when the fog was thickest. It was the heaviest fog this spring, taking in even the hilltop areas which usually are clear.

Local 9 Sets Meeting In Laughlin's Dispute

Another special meeting of Local 9 will be held tonight at 7:30 at the old IBOP headquarters to hear a report on the status of 13 kilnplacers at the Homer Laughlin China Co. who were discharged Thursday for what the firm said was refusal to obey a foreman's order.

Police Arrest 2 In Midland Picket Clash

Midland police broke up the fight which began between Waso Padezanin of Economy Borough, employe of the A. E. Anderson Co. firm, and a picket, Harold H. Allen, of Rochester.

Police said Padezanin and Allen exchanged words as the former left the plant at 4:25 p.m., and the pair began fighting. Allen is a member of the International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers of Beaver.

Witnesses said four other men with Allen moved to aid him.

The two men were charged with disorderly conduct and released under $20 bond for a hearing Monday before Mayor Eli Corak.

"I don't know Lloyd, wouldn't if I saw him," Todd continued. He then explained the question over Lloyd's political standing and reviewed the queries and answers from the solicitor.

"WE CAN'T SEEM to get the legal advice we ask for," he said. He then told of the mayor asking for the private meeting following Council's regular session Tuesday night. He said the mayor was questioned about the commission and was asked if he would change the appointment.

"He (the mayor) wouldn't do that. I have no other recourse and since the serious charge brought against a city employe, we are not sure the man will be tried by a legal board."

Hephner's hearing of appeal over his dismissal on charges of alleged misconduct will be before the Civil Service Commission. If the dismissal is upheld, Hephner then can appeal to Common Pleas Court at Lisbon.

Councilman William Stoddard was absent. E. L. Bemis spoke briefly from the audience and said the mayor and the police should be given the fullest and best efforts to protect their interests.

AFTER adjournament, Councilman Walter Henthorne asked the mayor for a meeting on pinball machines. He said he was unable to attend the other meeting, and would like another.

Mayor Daugherty asked if the meeting was adjourned. When told it was, he asked Henthorne if he wanted to talk privately. Henthorne said "not particularly" and it was dropped.

The mayor and Henthorne exchanged words Tuesday night over the meeting to which he referred.

Henthorne had asked for the session. The mayor said he didn't appear. Henthorne claimed he had other obligations.

Practically all the seats in the audience were filled. During the meeting, Hephner, Capt. Pete Trainer, Patrolmen Denton Kevan, Robert Wellington and Frank Daniels arrived, along with Charles Amato, an extra patrolman, and others. They stood at the rear of the Council Chamber. Hephner left as soon as Council adjourned.

WELLINGTON, FOP secretary, said about 20 attended the joint meeting of the two lodges. The meeting had been called to give financial support to Hephner.

Hephner's counsel is Atty. Frank Springer of East Palestine and Atty. Ben Berman of East Liverpool.

The attorneys also represent Amato, who is fighting the mayor and Safety - Service Director Fred Baldasare for appointment to the police force.

Joseph Heiney resigned almost a year ago. At the time there was an eligibility list with three names. After a court fight, the man appointed failed to report for duty, leaving Amato and Leonard Hephner, the chief's son, on the list.

The mayor has since refused to act, asking for a full list of three names.

Education Group Cites Needs For Promoting Levy

The need for public awareness in the Southern Local School District concerning the proposed 8.8-mill school levy was discussed at a meeting of a teachers committee of the district's Education Association Friday.

Thomas Jones, president of the association, said plans were furthered for an information campaign about the levy on the May 5 primary ballot.

The revenue is vital to the financial structure of the district, which will have less state foundation money if the levy is not approved, it was explained.

The levy includes a 4.4-mill renewal and a new 4.4-mill issue.

A report on the session will be presented at a meeting of the association Monday.

The dispute, which has exhausted all provisions of existing federal law, involves the industry's proposed changes in mileage pay rates, longer train runs before crews are relieved, and job classification changes.

The unions claim this would eliminate many jobs and result in lower pay for many railroad workers. They have countered with demands for improved pay including overtime, night differential, out-of-town expenses and more paid holidays.

Reedy described Friday's talks as exploratory and refused to characterize them as either optimistic or pessimistic, although he added that "there is always progress when there is an exchange of information."

Mediators working under the personal direction of Johnson are Secretary of Labor W. Willard Wirtz, Asst. Secretary James Reynolds, Chairman Francis A. O'Neill of the National Mediation Board and two private labor experts, Theodore Kheel of New York and George Taylor of Philadelphia.

The mediators met separately with both sides Friday after a brief joint meeting with Johnson who told them their actions will affect deeply the future of all collective bargaining in the United States.

The 11th-hour postponement of the strike did not allow enough time to get word to all the union elements across the country, and there were scattered walkouts.

Parked Truck Struck As Auto Rounds Turn

A parked truck was struck by a turning auto Friday afternoon at Locust and Mulberry Sts. in East End, but only the car was damaged, police reported.

The mishap at 12:51 involved a 1960 four - door sedan driven by Geneva E. Tarver, 50, of 2132 Pennsylvania Ave. and a parked 1948 model truck owned by William M. Ice of Beaver Falls and driven by Chester C. Ice Jr., 26, of 228½ Ravine St., officers said.

The mishap damaged the right headlight rim of the car, officers said. The woman said she bumped the truck as she made a left turn from Mulberry St. to Locust St. Patrolman William A. Devon, who investigated, reported the truck was parked illegally and the driver was in a nearby store.

300 Prisoners Stage Riot In Jail In Florida

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — More than 300 prisoners rioted today in the Dade County Jail, smashing windows, flooding some cells and corridors and hurling debris to the jail yard below.

A dozen ringleaders were dragged, kicking and screaming, out of cells and placed in solitary confinement.

Three hours after the rioting began in a protest against jail conditions, sporadic outbursts still were continuing.

"I believe this riot is a planned political thing to embarrass Sheriff T. A. Buchanan," said Capt. Robert Charlau, a jail supervisor.

"Either that, or it was stirred up by some Black Muslims."

About 70 per cent of the rioters were Negroes, Charlau said.

More than 50 Metropolitan Miami police converged on the jail in an effort to bring the rioting under control "without hurting anybody if we can."

More than 30 windows were smashed on the fifth and sixth floors. Articles of burning clothing and flaming newspapers were thrown into the upper limbs of trees in the jail yard. The yard was littered with tin cups, trays, garbage and other debris.

Fairfield And Wayne Groups Set Meetings

A social affair will be held for the Fairfield Friendly Neighbors Home Demonstration Group Wednesday at 10:30 a.m. at the home of Mrs. Herman Swope of Leetonia R.D., according to Don Myers, county extension agent in agriculture.

City And Columbiana Permit Hearings Set

An East Liverpool permit holder and pair at Columbiana are due hearings before the State Liquor Control Commission at Columbus Wednesday on citations for alleged infractions of liquor laws.

Sylvia M. Blazer, operator of Sylvia's Lounge, 1314 Pennsylvania Ave., was cited Oct. 10, 1963, for after hours consumption, and Eugene R. Miner and Katherine Sertic, operators of Miner's Tavern on Route 30 at Kensington, are charged with Sunday sales and Sunday consumption March 22, 1963.

400 At Stanton Play

HAMMONDSVILLE — An estimated 400 attended the annual play of the Junior Class of Stanton Local High School Friday in the school auditorium. It was a comedy, "Hillbilly Wedding." George Summers, director, said the attendance was one of the largest for a class play in several years.

MacArthur

That description was written by Dorn Monday night and inserted in the Congressional Record, as a minor part of a long eulogy of MacArthur. It escaped notice until Friday, when a reporter interviewed Dorn about it and was given details. The printed Dorn account predated the publication of the Considine account.

In Mankato, Kan., former Rep. Wint Smith, one of the two congressmen who accompanied Dorn, said he agreed with Dorn's description except that "I don't remember that MacArthur said he had told Eisenhower those things."

Smith said it was his recollection that the interview took place in 1954.

MacArthur's aide, Maj. Gen. Courtney Whitney, who Dorn said also attended the meeting, declined comment.

The Considine interview and one by Scripps-Howard reporter Jim G. Lucas published this week also after a lapse of 10 years both mentioned the general's plans to win the Korean War by using nuclear bombs across the Yalu in Red China, sowing a five-mile belt of radioactive cobalt along the border, and bringing in Nationalist Chinese troops from Formosa to mop up the Reds.

Dorn said he visited MacArthur in 1951 in Tokyo just before he was fired as Far East commander by President Harry S. Truman.

"I didn't know about the cobalt thing," Dorn said. "He didn't mention that to me in Tokyo.

"What he might have said two years later—when Lucas and Considine interviewed him—when he was embittered, I don't know. But to me he made no wild statements about cobalt or atom bombs. He just said with airpower he could lick the Red Chinese in three months."

In the interview about the plan to end the cold war, Dorn said MacArthur emphasized to Eisenhower that Stalin was an old man who might die at any moment, and that Eisenhower should act immediately after taking office.

"Stalin is a realist and you could threaten him," Dorn quoted MacArthur as telling the president-elect.

Funeral

Then came the slow, measured thunder of the 19-gun salute—the roar he heard from many battlefields in life.

There were the three volleys of rifle fire and then the bugler blowing Taps.

Outside the flags lining City Hall Avenue dipped until the final sound of Taps faded away.

A military band struck up patriotic music and the flag was removed from MacArthur's casket and handed to Mrs. MacArthur.

MacArthur could have been buried in Arlington National Cemetery, the resting place of so many of the nation's heroes. But in remembrance of his mother, who was born here, he wanted to be buried in Norfolk.

As they moved through the rotunda of the memorial they saw emblazoned on the circular walls the names of his campaigns — beginning with Vera Cruz, Mexico, in 1914, and ending with Yalu, on the Red Chinese border.

To bring history around to one of its remarkable turning points, many high-stationed Japanese were in today's funeral audience.

They came to pay tribute because this American occupation commander after World War II dealt with them leniently and tried to teach them the ways of democracy.

MacArthur died Sunday.

LISBON — Approximately 350 attended the initial performance of the American Legion Post's 19th annual minstrel Friday night at Lisbon High School. Tonight's performance will be at 8 with a capacity crowd expected.

Man, 68, Hurt In Street Fall

A 68-year-old city man was in "fairly good" condition today at City Hospital with injuries suffered in a fall on 2nd St. Five other area residents were treated at the hospital Friday.

Elder Mayes, 216 Jefferson St., suffered a puncture wound of the forehead when he fell over a brick on 2nd St.

City workers told police Mayes fell on E. 2nd St. near Union St. at 3:20 p. m. Mayes told officers he stumbled over a brick on the sidewalk.

Clair Hickman, 39, of Wellsville R. D. 1, employe of the Seaforth Mineral & Ore Co. of Pennsylvania Ave., was treated for a puncture wound of the hand received from a piece of a chisel which broke.

In a fall from a wood pile onto a nail, Floyd Boggs, 58, of 441 Buckeye Ave., Wellsville, suffered a puncture wound of the lower leg.

Charles Bole, 36, of 240 W. 7th St. received a cut of the head when he fell down cellar steps and his head struck a beam.

Legion Group Nominations List City Man

James Cregar of American Legion Post 374 in East End has been nominated for commander of the County Council. Two from Glenmoor Post 736 are on the slate for other offices accepted at the council's meeting Friday night at Columbiana Post 290, with Bert Keck of Glenmoor post, commander, presiding. Others nominated were:

Olan Sanor, Post 574 North Georgetown, first vice commander; Dean Wright, Post 442, Salineville, and William Grate, Post 290, second vice commander; J. V. Hughes, Post 70, Wellsville, finance officer; Russ Turner, and John Bartholow, both of Post 736, chaplain, and Darrell Carder, Post 290, sergeant - at - arms.

Cregar, county first vice commander, reported that six teams have shown an interest in entering the Columbiana County American Legion Junior Baseball League.

Sanor, second vice commander, said the County Legion Bowling League Banquet will be held at the North Georgetown Post May 9.

American Legion Day will be observed at Cedar Point June 21, and any Legionnaire desiring to attend may purchase tickets at a reduced rate in advance from the Ohio Department at Columbus.

Vandals Damage Cars; 3rd Looted

A motorist reported a theft from his car and two others said their parked autos were damaged by vandals Friday police said.

Clinton Davis of Lisbon St. said a thief broke a vent window on his car parked at the rear of the Senate Cafe on St. Clair Ave. and then opened the door and stole a case of beer.

The theft occurred between 7 and 10:45 p.m., Davis said.

Leroy Blakely, 778 Dresden Ave., told officers a boulder was thrown through the windshield of his 1957 auto while it was parked in the Hall China Co. lot between 6:30 a.m. and 3 p.m. Friday.

Daniel C. Copestick of Irondale Rd., Wellsville, reported to police at 5 p.m. that vandals scratched the trunk lid, roof and hood of his auto while it was parked in a city-owned lot on 3rd St.

Insects AND YOUR HEALTH

by Jim Fisher

SPRING AND INSECTS

Spring and all its beauty is often marred by the presence of insects . . . in the home, on trees and shrubs, in the lawn and all around the house. The insects you control today are just a minute fraction of the millions that inhabit the earth. There are over 800,000 individual kinds or species . . . a number greater than that of all other animals combined! Not only are insects numerous, their adaptability, combined with their tremendous rate of reproduction, gives them an unequalled potential for survival!

THE CHALLENGE

Insects and all kinds of household pests have offered a real challenge to the home owner for centuries. Many carry diseases that threaten the well being of our families; others destroy property! Controlling these pests is one of the greatest challenges facing a home owner, or apartment dweller. Knowing what to do is vitally important!

GOOD ADVICE

Few if any, home owners make a study of household pests and ways and means of control. Many home owners waste money on the wrong chemicals and use them in a way that could harm the health of children and pets. My advice to you is to save your time, your efforts, and the money you spend on do-it-yourself remedies and call a qualified pest control operator. Let him handle the problem while you do other things. Call us anytime at FU 5-5720. Fisher Pest Control.

"Either that, or it was stirred up by some Black Muslims."

About 70 per cent of the rioters were Negroes, Charlau said.

More than 50 Metropolitan Miami police converged on the jail in an effort to bring the rioting under control "without hurting anybody if we can."

More than 30 windows were smashed on the fifth and sixth floors. Articles of burning clothing and flaming newspapers were thrown into the upper limbs of trees in the jail yard. The yard was littered with tin cups, trays, garbage and other debris.

Fairfield And Wayne Groups Set Meetings

LISBON — A program on "Emergency Preparedness" will be presented at a meeting of the Wayne Township Home Demonstration Group Wednesday from 10:30 a.m. to 2:30 p.m. at the home of Mrs. Wilbur McKarns of Hanoverton R. D. 1.

A social affair will be held for the Fairfield Friendly Neighbors Home Demonstration Group Wednesday at 10:30 a.m. at the home of Mrs. Herman Swope of Leetonia R.D., according to Don Myers, county extension agent in agriculture.

City And Columbiana Permit Hearings Set

An East Liverpool permit holder and pair at Columbiana are due hearings before the State Liquor Control Commission at Columbus Wednesday on citations for alleged infractions of liquor laws.

Sylvia M. Blazer, operator of Sylvia's Lounge, 1314 Pennsylvania Ave., was cited Oct. 10, 1963, for after hours consumption, and Eugene R. Miner and Katherine Sertic, operators of Miner's Tavern on Route 30 at Kensington, are charged with Sunday sales and Sunday consumption March 22, 1963.

400 At Stanton Play

HAMMONDSVILLE — An estimated 400 attended the annual play of the Junior Class of Stanton Local High School Friday in the school auditorium. It was a comedy, "Hillbilly Wedding." George Summers, director, said the attendance was one of the largest for a class play in several years.

MacArthur

promise of the self-determination of the peoples of Poland, East Germany and Central Europe."

That description was written by Dorn Monday night and inserted in the Congressional Record, as a minor part of a long eulogy of MacArthur. It escaped notice until Friday, when a reporter interviewed Dorn about it and was given details. The printed Dorn account predated the publication of the Considine account.

In Mankato, Kan., former Rep. Wint Smith, one of the two congressmen who accompanied Dorn, said he agreed with Dorn's description except that "I don't remember that MacArthur said he had told Eisenhower those things."

Smith said it was his recollection that the interview took place in 1954.

The third congressman, Rep. Lawrence K. Smith, R-Wis., died in 1958.

MacArthur's aide, Maj. Gen. Courtney Whitney, who Dorn said also attended the meeting, declined comment.

The Considine interview and one by Scripps-Howard reporter Jim G. Lucas published this week also after a lapse of 10 years both mentioned the general's plans to win the Korean War by using nuclear bombs across the Yalu in Red China, sowing a five-mile belt of radioactive cobalt along the border, and bringing in Nationalist Chinese troops from Formosa to mop up the Reds.

Dorn said he visited MacArthur in 1951 in Tokyo just before he was fired as Far East commander by President Harry S. Truman.

"I didn't know about the cobalt thing," Dorn said. "He didn't mention that to me in Tokyo.

"What he might have said two years later—when Lucas and Considine interviewed him—when he was embittered, I don't know. But to me he made no wild statements about cobalt or atom bombs. He just said with airpower he could lick the Red Chinese in three months."

In the interview about the plan to end the cold war, Dorn said MacArthur emphasized to Eisenhower that Stalin was an old man who might die at any moment, and that Eisenhower should act immediately after taking office.

"Stalin is a realist and you could threaten him," Dorn quoted MacArthur as telling the president-elect.

Funeral

Then came the slow, measured thunder of the 19-gun salute—the roar he heard from many battlefields in life.

There were the three volleys of rifle fire and then the bugler blowing Taps.

Outside the flags lining City Hall Avenue dipped until the final sound of Taps faded away.

A military band struck up patriotic music and the flag was removed from MacArthur's casket and handed to Mrs. MacArthur.

MacArthur could have been buried in Arlington National Cemetery, the resting place of so many of the nation's heroes. But in remembrance of his mother, who was born here, he wanted to be buried in Norfolk.

As they moved through the rotunda of the memorial they saw emblazoned on the circular walls the names of his campaigns — beginning with Vera Cruz, Mexico, in 1914, and ending with Yalu, on the Red Chinese border.

To bring history around to one of its remarkable turning points, many high-stationed Japanese were in today's funeral audience.

They came to pay tribute because this American occupation commander after World War II dealt with them leniently and tried to teach them the ways of democracy.

MacArthur died Sunday.

Vandals Damage Cars; 3rd Looted

A motorist reported a theft from his car and two others said their parked autos were damaged by vandals Friday police said.

Clinton Davis of Lisbon St. said a thief broke a vent window on his car parked at the rear of the Senate Cafe on St. Clair Ave. and then opened the door and stole a case of beer.

The theft occurred between 7 and 10:45 p.m., Davis said.

Leroy Blakely, 778 Dresden Ave., told officers a boulder was thrown through the windshield of his 1957 auto while it was parked in the Hall China Co. lot between 6:30 a.m. and 3 p.m. Friday.

Daniel C. Copestick of Irondale Rd., Wellsville, reported to police at 5 p.m. that vandals scratched the trunk lid, roof and hood of his auto while it was parked in a city-owned lot on 3rd St.

Insects AND YOUR HEALTH

SPRING AND INSECTS

Spring and all its beauty is often marred by the presence of insects . . . in the home, on trees and shrubs, in the lawn and all around the house. The insects you control today are just a minute fraction of the millions that inhabit the earth. There are over 800,000 individual kinds or species . . . a number greater than that of all other animals combined! Not only are insects numerous, their adaptability, combined with their tremendous rate of reproduction, gives them an unequalled potential for survival!

THE CHALLENGE

Insects and all kinds of household pests have offered a real challenge to the home owner for centuries. Many carry diseases that threaten the well being of our families; others destroy property! Controlling these pests is one of the greatest challenges facing a home owner, or apartment dweller. Knowing what to do is vitally important!

GOOD ADVICE

Few if any, home owners make a study of household pests and ways and means of control. Many home owners waste money on the wrong chemicals and use them in a way that could harm the health of children and pets. My advice to you is to save your time, your efforts, and the money you spend on do-it-yourself remedies and call a qualified pest control operator. Let him handle the problem while you do other things. Call us anytime at FU 5-5720. Fisher Pest Control.

Serves In Pacific

LISBON — Firemen App. Roland L. Hall, son of Mr. and Mrs. Roland Hall of R. D., is serving aboard the anti-submarine support aircraft carrier Bennington, operating out of Long Beach, Calif. The ship is cruising in the Far East for six months and is slated to visit Yokosuka, Japan.

Reaction, However, Varied

Most In South Applauded Wallace Wisconsin Vote

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP)—Relishing the role of interested bystanders, Southerners generally applauded the vote polled by Gov. George C. Wallace of Alabama in his Wisconsin politicking.

Reaction was varied. Comments from about 35 political leaders and newspaper editors in an Associated Press survey included:

"A great victory."

"A wild-goose chase."

"A political revolution."

"A reaction to Negro militancy."

But most of the spokesmen viewed Wallace's showing as an indication of widespread opposition to the civil rights bill. Wallace got nearly 25 per cent of the presidential primary vote in a race with Gov. John W. Reynolds of Wisconsin, who carried the banner for President Johnson.

On his return to Montgomery, Wallace said the vote was "for the people of Alabama and the people throughout the country who stand up for constitutional government."

He did not say anything directly about racial issues which catapulted him into the national spotlight with his doorway stand against University of Alabama desegregation last year. But he plugged for support of an independent elector slate in Alabama.

Said the Montgomery Advertiser:

"The excursion to the Far North by the little Alabama giant has shaken the Democratic party and alerted the Republican party to the possibility of a new national mood."

The Mobile Press called it a "political revolution. A defeat for President Lyndon Johnson and the ultra-liberal crowd to which he constantly caters."

Roy Mahall, Alabama's Democratic chairman, said the vote should show how "all the people felt about the civil rights issue."

Wallace's vote was viewed as reaction to the civil rights bill by both the Birmingham News and Post-Herald.

In Mississippi, Louisiana, Virginia and Arkansas there also were warm words for the Alabama governor.

"All Mississippi is thrilled," Gov. Paul Johnson wired Wallace.

Library Sets Observance; Variety Of Films Available

"Reading Is the Key" will be the theme of National Library Week to be observed next week at the Carnegie Public Library, Mrs. Beatrice Davidson, librarian, announced.

While emphasis will be on reading during the observance, other phases include phonograph records, films and film strips which are available. New books will be on display.

About 40 new recordings for children are also available, Mrs. Davidson said. Interested groups may arrange to visit the library during the week.

The library is open daily from 9 a.m. to 9 p.m. except Saturday, when it closes at 6.

There are 17 color films and nine black and white films available during April, the librarian said.

Color films include "Alaska: The 49th State" 16 minutes viewing time, "Animal Town of the Prairie," 10; "Burma, People of the River," 14; "Chaparral Classroom," a story of outdoor education, 19; "Children In Spring," 11.

"Corky the Crow", 11; "Dolls of Many Lands," 9; "Eyes of Outer Space," 30; "The French and Indian War" 16; "Great Lakes—How They Were Formed", 11.

"Migrations of Birds — the Canada Goose," 11; "Our World of Science," 11; "Pakistan", 14; "Roots of Plants," 10; "Safety With Electricity," 10; "Taxco—Village of Art," 17, and "Turkey—Emergence of a Modern Nation," 17 minutes.

Black and white films consist of "Bill of Rights of the United States," 19; "Declaration of Independence by the Colonies," 19; "Drug Addiction," 22; "Greek Children," 16, "Medieval Knights," 22; "Safety Begins at Home," 10; "Scandinavia-Norway, Sweden, Denmark," 15 "A Storm Called Maria," 48; and "Terrible Twos and Trusting Threes," 20 minutes.

Sen. Smith Reported Serious About Seeking Nomination

"Would I get up at six in the morning and work until eleven at night if I weren't?" she is quoted as replying in the current issue of the Saturday Evening Post.

But the article, by Maxine Cheshire, a Washington Post reporter who covered the senator's 1960 Senate campaign, says "almost no one," including Mrs. Smith, expects her to get the presidential nod from delegates at the GOP National Convention in July.

"It is the vice presidency she is after," the article says, "and she has wanted it now for more than a decade. Perhaps, in this year of startling upsets, she could actually get it."

Mrs. Smith, 66, is the first woman to seek the presidential nomination of a major political party. She fared badly in New Hampshire's first - in - the - nation presidential primary, finishing fifth in a field of six.

The article quotes Sen. Thruston B. Morton of Kentucky, a former national Republican chairman, as saying: "We want to win. If she proves in the primaries she can bring us the suffragettes and the old maids, she's in."

Farmer Found Guilty

CINCINNATI (AP)—A Colerain Twp. farmer, Roland Bernhardt, 43, was found guilty of a cruelty to animals charge Friday. County Court Judge Donald L. Hoge imposed a 67-day jail sentence and $200 fine, but suspended 60 days and $100 of this.

Beaver Lists 90,736 Voters For Primary

The Beaver County Registration Commission today listed voter registration figures for the April 28 primaries in the county's 124 voting districts.

The breakdown by party shows 26,605 men and 25,431 women registered as Democrats while Republicans have 18,900 men and 19,129 women.

A breakdown by voting districts shows Midland with 2,887 registered voters, including 2,090 Democrats, 783 Republicans and 14 others; Ohioville, 668 Democrats, 419 Republicans and five others.

Industry, 530 Democrats, 455 Republicans and eight others; Georgetown, 37 Democrats, 72 Republicans and four others; Glasgow, 39 Democrats, 17 Republicans; Greene Township, 172 Democrats, 285 Republicans and one other; Hookstown, 30 Democrats, 84 Republicans and three others, and Raccoon Township, 337 Democrats, 522 Republicans and 10 others.

In the boroughs with more than one voting district, the registration is broken down into individual districts.

12 At Salineville Visit Greenhouse

Twelve members of the Buds and Blossoms Flower and Garden Club of Salineville toured the Grohar Greenhouse in the West End Wednesday.

Transplanting and culture of flowers was discussed, and each member received a potted plant.

A spaghetti supper will be sponsored by the VFW Post 5306 tonight at 6 at the post home for members and guests. Mark Wolfe is chairman.

Mrs. Earl Rinehart and daughter of Kensington R. D. visited here Wednesday.

Newell Man Cited In Wellsville Crash

A Newell motorist was cited for driving while under the influence of alcohol after a three-car collision Friday night at 8:50 at 9th and Main Sts., Wellsville.

Elkton Child Hurt By Car

A 5-year-old Elkton girl was injured when struck by a car near her home Friday afternoon in one of three area traffic mishaps reported to the State Highway Patrol.

Marcia K. Bettis, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Bettis of Elkton, ran onto the road and into the side of a passing auto when she was frightened by a loud car motor while returning from a store.

The car, headed west on County Rd. 419, was driven by Thomas M. Custer, 60, of Rossiter, Pa. The child was taken to a Lisbon physician for treatment. The accident occurred at 5 p.m.

Maxine Louise Fulton, 48, of 1736 Lincoln Ave., Wellsville, escaped injury when her car went into a ditch on Route 7 about two miles north of Route 30 yesterday afternoon.

She was headed north when the car veered off the right side and hit the ditch, officers said. There was moderate damage.

Ralph Miller of Sebring was cited after his car hit the rear of one operated by Raymond Rotolo of Conway on Route 14 about a mile west of Unity last night at 10:45. Damage was moderate.

3 American Fliers Killed

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP) —A U. S. helicopter plunged to earth and burned on a combat mission near the southern tip of Viet Nam Friday, killing three American crewmen and seven South Vietnamese soldiers.

The only survivor, the American co-pilot, was taken to Saigon in serious condition.

U. S. authorities said there was no indication the helicopter was brought down by Communist ground fire, although it crashed in an area heavily infiltrated by Viet Cong guerrillas. The tail section of the helicopter, including its rear stabilizing rotor, broke off in the air.

The unarmed craft was ferrying Vietnamese troops into an action near the provincial capital of Ca Mau, 150 miles southwest of Saigon.

The helicopter was the third lost by U. S. forces in three days. Communist gunners brought down two U.S. Army helicopters Thursday in heavy fighting in the farming center of Mo Cay, 50 miles south of the capital. One American crew member was slightly injured.

Doctors Keep Strike Going In Belgium

Premier Theo Lefevre and some of his ministers were to meet strike leaders again in the third attempt in three days to find some agreement.

Early today when the two sides broke up after negotiating for seven hours, Interior Minister Arthur Gilson said, "I am still optimistic."

Discussions so far have dealt with negotiating procedures. Once these are accepted, the two sides can begin the complex task of settling differences over provisions of the law.

The government wants the doctors to end the strike as a condition for discussing possible revision of the statute. The strikers have said they will hold out until they get a firm commitment from the government on changes demanded by the 10,000 physicians and 2,000 dentists.

The law has been approved by Parliament but decrees must be issued before it goes into effect. The strikers are demanding that decrees be withheld on 26 of the law's articles.

Burial services for Knapp Arthur Gonion, 629 3rd St., Chester, will be held Monday at 11 a. m. at the Belmont Ave. Cemetery, Girard. He died Wednesday.

Friends may call at the Chester Arner Funeral Chapel Sunday afternoon and evening.

Physical Fitness Club Meeting Attracts 38

Thirty-eight, including guests from Wellsville, attended a meeting of the East Liverpool Women's Physical Fitness Class Wednesday night at the Eagles Lodge.

The Wellsville class entertained with a marching team and kitchen band. The visitors included Mrs. Gloria Tice, queen of the visiting group. Mrs. Martha Sanford led exercises, along with Carol Flasco and Brenda Dotson.

Next meeting will be Monday night at 7.

Serves In Pacific

LISBON — Firemen App. Roland L. Hall, son of Mr. and Mrs. Roland Hall of R. D., is serving aboard the anti-submarine support aircraft carrier Bennington, operating out of Long Beach, Calif. The ship is cruising in the Far East for six months and is slated to visit Yokosuka, Japan.

Reaction, However, Varied

Most In South Applauded Wallace Wisconsin Vote

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP)—Relishing the role of interested bystanders, Southerners generally applauded the vote polled by Gov. George C. Wallace of Alabama in his Wisconsin politicking.

Reaction was varied. Comments from about 35 political leaders and newspaper editors in an Associated Press survey included:

"A great victory."

"A wild-goose chase."

"A reaction to Negro militancy."

But most of the spokesmen viewed Wallace's showing as an indication of widespread opposition to the civil rights bill. Wallace got nearly 25 per cent of the presidential primary vote in a race with Gov. John W. Reynolds of Wisconsin, who carried the banner for President Johnson.

On his return to Montgomery, Wallace said the vote was "for the people of Alabama and the people throughout the country who stand up for constitutional government."

He did not say anything directly about racial issues which catapulted him into the national spotlight with his doorway stand against University of Alabama desegregation last year. But he plugged for support of an independent elector slate in Alabama.

He did not say anything directly about racial issues which catapulted him into the national spotlight with his doorway stand against University of Alabama desegregation last year. But he plugged for support of an independent elector slate in Alabama.

Said the Montgomery Advertiser:

"The excursion to the Far North by the little Alabama giant has shaken the Democratic party and alerted the Republican party to the possibility of a new national mood."

The Mobile Press called it a "political revolution. A defeat for President Lyndon Johnson and the ultra-liberal crowd to which he constantly caters."

Roy Mahall, Alabama's Democratic chairman, said the vote should show how "all the people felt about the civil rights issue."

Wallace's vote was viewed as reaction to the civil rights bill by both the Birmingham News and Post-Herald.

In Mississippi, Louisiana, Virginia and Arkansas there also were warm words for the Alabama governor.

"All Mississippi is thrilled," Gov. Paul Johnson wired Wallace.

Library Sets Observance; Variety Of Films Available

"Reading Is the Key" will be the theme of National Library Week to be observed next week at the Carnegie Public Library, Mrs. Beatrice Davidson, librarian, announced.

While emphasis will be on reading during the observance, other phases include phonograph records, films and film strips which are available. New books will be on display.

About 40 new recordings for children are also available, Mrs. Davidson said. Interested groups may arrange to visit the library during the week.

The library is open daily from 9 a.m. to 9 p.m. except Saturday, when it closes at 6.

There are 17 color films and nine black and white films available during April, the librarian said.

Color films include "Alaska: The 49th State" 16 minutes viewing time, "Animal Town of the Prairie," 10; "Burma, People of the River," 14; "Chaparral Classroom," a story of outdoor education, 19; "Children In Spring," 11.

"Corky the Crow", 11; "Dolls of Many Lands," 9; "Eyes of Outer Space," 30; "The French and Indian War" 16; "Great Lakes—How They Were Formed", 11.

"Migrations of Birds — the Canada Goose," 11; "Our World of Science," 11; "Pakistan", 14; "Roots of Plants," 10; "Safety With Electricity," 10; "Taxco—Village of Art," 17, and "Turkey—Emergence of a Modern Nation," 17 minutes.

Black and white films consist of "Bill of Rights of the United States," 19; "Declaration of Independence by the Colonies," 19; "Drug Addiction," 22; "Greek Children," 16, "Medieval Knights," 22; "Safety Begins at Home," 10; "Scandinavia-Norway, Sweden, Denmark," 15 "A Storm Called Maria," 48; and "Terrible Twos and Trusting Threes," 20 minutes.

Sen. Smith Reported Serious About Seeking Nomination

"Would I get up at six in the morning and work until eleven at night if I weren't?" she is quoted as replying in the current issue of the Saturday Evening Post.

But the article, by Maxine Cheshire, a Washington Post reporter who covered the senator's 1960 Senate campaign, says "almost no one," including Mrs. Smith, expects her to get the presidential nod from delegates at the GOP National Convention in July.

"It is the vice presidency she is after," the article says, "and she has wanted it now for more than a decade. Perhaps, in this year of startling upsets, she could actually get it."

Mrs. Smith, 66, is the first woman to seek the presidential nomination of a major political party. She fared badly in New Hampshire's first - in - the - nation presidential primary, finishing fifth in a field of six.

The article quotes Sen. Thruston B. Morton of Kentucky, a former national Republican chairman, as saying: "We want to win. If she proves in the primaries she can bring us the suffragettes and the old maids, she's in."

Farmer Found Guilty

CINCINNATI (AP)—A Colerain Twp. farmer, Roland Bernhardt, 43, was found guilty of a cruelty to animals charge Friday. County Court Judge Donald L. Hoge imposed a 67-day jail sentence and $200 fine, but suspended 60 days and $100 of this.

Beaver Lists 90,736 Voters For Primary

The Beaver County Registration Commission today listed voter registration figures for the April 28 primaries in the county's 124 voting districts.

The breakdown by party shows 26,605 men and 25,431 women registered as Democrats while Republicans have 18,900 men and 19,129 women.

A breakdown by voting districts shows Midland with 2,887 registered voters, including 2,090 Democrats, 783 Republicans and 14 others; Ohioville, 668 Democrats, 419 Republicans and five others.

Industry, 530 Democrats, 455 Republicans and eight others; Georgetown, 37 Democrats, 72 Republicans and four others; Glasgow, 39 Democrats, 17 Republicans; Greene Township, 172 Democrats, 285 Republicans and one other; Hookstown, 30 Democrats, 84 Republicans and three others, and Raccoon Township, 337 Democrats, 522 Republicans and 10 others.

In the boroughs with more than one voting district, the registration is broken down into individual districts.

12 At Salineville Visit Greenhouse

Twelve members of the Buds and Blossoms Flower and Garden Club of Salineville toured the Grohar Greenhouse in the West End Wednesday.

Transplanting and culture of flowers was discussed, and each member received a potted plant.

A spaghetti supper will be sponsored by the VFW Post 5306 tonight at 6 at the post home for members and guests. Mark Wolfe is chairman.

Mrs. Earl Rinehart and daughter of Kensington R. D. visited here Wednesday.

Newell Man Cited In Wellsville Crash

A Newell motorist was cited for driving while under the influence of alcohol after a three-car collision Friday night at 8:50 at 9th and Main Sts., Wellsville.

Elkton Child Hurt By Car

A 5-year-old Elkton girl was injured when struck by a car near her home Friday afternoon in one of three area traffic mishaps reported to the State Highway Patrol.

Marcia K. Bettis, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Bettis of Elkton, ran onto the road and into the side of a passing auto when she was frightened by a loud car motor while returning from a store.

The car, headed west on County Rd. 419, was driven by Thomas M. Custer, 60, of Rossiter, Pa. The child was taken to a Lisbon physician for treatment. The accident occurred at 5 p.m.

Maxine Louise Fulton, 48, of 1736 Lincoln Ave., Wellsville, escaped injury when her car went into a ditch on Route 7 about two miles north of Route 30 yesterday afternoon.

She was headed north when the car veered off the right side and hit the ditch, officers said. There was moderate damage.

Ralph Miller of Sebring was cited after his car hit the rear of one operated by Raymond Rotolo of Conway on Route 14 about a mile west of Unity last night at 10:45. Damage was moderate.

3 American Fliers Killed

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP) —A U. S. helicopter plunged to earth and burned on a combat mission near the southern tip of Viet Nam Friday, killing three American crewmen and seven South Vietnamese soldiers.

The only survivor, the American co-pilot, was taken to Saigon in serious condition.

U. S. authorities said there was no indication the helicopter was brought down by Communist ground fire, although it crashed in an area heavily infiltrated by Viet Cong guerrillas. The tail section of the helicopter, including its rear stabilizing rotor, broke off in the air.

The unarmed craft was ferrying Vietnamese troops into an action near the provincial capital of Ca Mau, 150 miles southwest of Saigon.

The helicopter was the third lost by U. S. forces in three days. Communist gunners brought down two U.S. Army helicopters Thursday in heavy fighting in the farming center of Mo Cay, 50 miles south of the capital. One American crew member was slightly injured.

Doctors Keep Strike Going In Belgium

Premier Theo Lefevre and some of his ministers were to meet strike leaders again in the third attempt in three days to find some agreement.

Early today when the two sides broke up after negotiating for seven hours, Interior Minister Arthur Gilson said, "I am still optimistic."

Discussions so far have dealt with negotiating procedures. Once these are accepted, the two sides can begin the complex task of settling differences over provisions of the law.

The government wants the doctors to end the strike as a condition for discussing possible revision of the statute. The strikers have said they will hold out until they get a firm committment from the government on changes demanded by the 10,000 physicians and 2,000 dentists.

The law has been approved by Parliament but decrees must be issued before it goes into effect. The strikers are demanding that decrees be withheld on 26 of the law's articles.

We Believe Gov. Scranton

There is no reason to doubt Pennsylvania Gov. Scranton's sincerity when he says he is not interested in the Republican nomination for president this year.

The man plainly means what he says. Nevertheless, his name will continue to be mentioned in connection with the GOP nomination for the best and simplest of reasons.

It is because everybody knows what he has not and cannot deny — that if ordinary members of the Republican party started a clamor for him he would accept their support. But what he knows that not everybody knows is that no such think ever has happened. There is no such thing in organized politics as an unorganized movement to place a candidate in nomination.

On occasions, there has been an appearance of spontaneity. But investigation disclosed that the appearance, itself, was contrived — that the clamor for Franklin D. Roosevelt in 1940 was started by one voice — the "voice from the sewer"; that the clamor for Wendell Willkie was started by a claque in the gallery; that the spontaneous demonstration for Adlai Stevenson in 1960 was arranged in advance.

If Gov. Scranton makes no effort in his own behalf, he will not be considered for the GOP nomination, barring a miracle of spontaneity or a deadlock that would cause delegates to look beyond the active candidates for a new face.

He says he is making no effort. We believe him.

But presidential politics being what it is, a trial-and-error shuffle of personalities and circumstances, Gov. Scranton's name will continue to be mentioned because he is an attractive new face in a year when voters are showing signs of being tired of all the old faces.

The Right Tone

The Civic Music Association's decision to continue the annual concert program was gratifying not just to district music lovers.

Many with no ear for harmony or a graceful cadenza, but with a concern for East Liverpool's cultural future were heartened by the Association's determination to provide exceptionally good music at the local level.

Progress on the district front requires consistent endeavor not just in seeking new industry, but in improving the general community at all levels and in all areas—education, appearance, traffic, services, recreation, cultural facilities.

The Civic Music Association has set the right tone for this theme.

Showdown On Private Enterprise

The country has been spared the man-made disaster of a railroad strike by another federal intervention — this one for only 15 days.

The reprieves are getting shorter.

The issues are getting no simpler.

Solutions are no closer now than they have been any time for the last half dozen years while animosities increased and convictions deepened.

How much longer can federal intervention and last-minute reprieves postpone a strike disaster that would set this country back on its heels?

Even more to the point and tougher to answer: Is there any way for railroads to practice private ownership and operation without a strike crisis that would leave them, their employes and the public gasping for economic survival?

IS THE ultimate consequence of the deadlock that has shown no signs of breaking after years of mounting tension going to be government seizure of railroads as the alternative to a disastrous strike?

This is no ordinary labor dispute.

Railroads are indispensable public utilities. They are regulated by the federal government. Their regulation became imperative when they threatened to monopolize transportation, before anyone dreamed of huge fleets of high-speed trucks and buses and airplanes carrying passengers and cargo.

Railroads claim with good cause that they have been regulated half to death. They say government has discriminated against them. Yet they do not say government should do to their highway, air and water competitors what it has done to them. They say, instead, that government should let the transportation industry, including railroads, run its own affairs.

This would mean that thousands of railroad employes who still have jobs would have to be reconciled to one of two courses —getting "phased out" of the work they're doing now or "phased into" some other kind of railroad work through a retraining program. Rail unions won't stand for this.

RAILROAD management claims it could survive and flourish as private enterprise if it could do what it wants to do.

Railroad labor claims if this happened its job rights would be violated; that it is fighting for the right to live and will strike rather than capitulate.

Government, in the name of all of us—railroad management, railroad labor and everybody else depending on railroads — says this must not happen.

Presidential Attention

The 1964 baseball season opens Monday when President Johnson throws out the first ball at D.C. Stadium for the Senators and the Los Angeles Angels. Only baseball gets this kind of presidential attention.

President Johnson boasts limited credentials as a baseball fan, and hence his performance as thrower of the first ball at the season opener on Monday will have a rather pro forma atmosphere. He spilled the baseball beans last February when — in an attempt to compliment St. Louis on its 200th anniversary — the printed text of his address read: "St. Louis is — as your saying goes — first in many things and no longer last in the American League."

The "grapefruit form" this year is as curious as ever. The world champion Dodgers of Los Angeles are bumping along near the bottom in National League standings. The New York Yankees, seeking their fifth straight American League pennant, are playing less than .500 ball and trailing the feckless Washington Senators.

The National League shows a better balance than the Yankee-dominated American League, with four different pennant winners in the past five years. Only the Dodgers, who crowned their 1963 comeback with four straight World Series wins over the Yanks, led the league twice. That is one reason N.L. teams outdrew those of the American League in attendance last year — 11,383,233 to 9,095,232.

Professional football and basketball hold draft sessions on all available talent, in which tail - end teams get a fairer shake than the champions. Baseball tends to favor the top teams.

The rich teams get richer because they can buy better players and recruit more actively. Television and radio help the imbalance. "Broadcasting" magazine estimates total baseball broadcast rights this year at $13.575 million, up $.575 million from last year. Of this, the Yankees will get $1.2 million, the Athltics a mere $300,000.

President Johnson is acutely aware that the baseball fan of today is the voter of November. President Eisehower deliberately passed up the season opener in 1959 for golf in Augusta. The mistake was not repeated.

Big Brother

By Truman Twill

Closed-circuit television, predicted Orwell, would be keeping everybody under surveillance by "1984." Even in his own home, no one ever could be safe from "Big Brother," who always would be watching and listening.

A subcommittee of the U. S. House of Representatives is conducting hearings this week on something George Orwell didn't think about — the use of the polygraph in U. S. industry. Industry already has television cameras watching its people and hidden microphones picking up what they say. We're only 20 years from 1984, come to think of it.

Liberty lovers are taking a dark view of this latest twist in electronic snooping. Wiretapping, spies, closed-circuit television and now polygraphs to make doubly certain the last embarrassing fact has been wrung out of every employe ... where will it all end?

I WILL TELL you where it will end.

There will be an electronic box, just big enough to accommodate one human being at a time.

Employes will have to spend a turn each year in the box throughout their term of employment. All new employes will be checked out in the box before they get on the payroll. Dials will give the results.

Electronic gear will plumb the depths of the human mind, all the way into the innermost id. There will be no secrets from The Box.

A pressure button will wring the last abject confession of irregular thinking from the most self-willed employe.

IT WILL MAKE a girl secretary spill her innermost longings. If the boss ever is silly enough to get into the box for a gag, he will spill his life story and bare his thoughts on wage raises for an encore.

Because in the box, right about here, is where a needle will come out of a little fitting and jab the occupant in the posterior. The needle will inject truth serum and what happens thereafter will be tape-recorded and become an integral part of the employe's dossier. Meanwhile the electronic gear will be at work, prodding and provoking the victim.

Big Brother not only will be watching everybody but jabbing them with truth serum, to make certain nobody gets away with anything. And don't think it's preposterous. So are hidden cameras, concealed mikes, spies and polygraphs. We're living in a preposterous age.

A Lot Of Mileage Out Of Very Little

California Politics Called Strange

By Raymond Moley

Some suggestion may be conveyed by this piece that I neither love nor admire California. This suggestion I repudiate at once. My love and admiration for this state are unbonded.

California's unbelievable natural advantages need no elabroation here. I have found after many visits over many years that its people are worthy of its mountains, its fertile valleys, and its coastline.

California spends an enormous amount on schools, and some of the product is education. Its pursuit of fine culture is notable. Its compassion for the needy and unfortunate is unusual. And its outlook upon and interest in the world are comprehensive.

Its political life is what concerns me here. California's interest in politics is, like Sam Weller's knowledge of London, "extensive but peculiar."

IN CALIFORNIA, politics is never what it seems to be. It would require the genius of a Lewis Carroll to describe it. I have witnessed political campaigns here for a long time, and every year some new fantasy greets the eye and ear. This year follows the familiar eccentric pattern.

There are many campaigns going on for many offices, but I limit myself in this instance to two: The contest for the Republican delegation which will represent the state at the San Francisco convention next summer, and the contest for the Senate seat now somewhat uneasily filled by Clair Engle.

As the deadline for the qualification of candidates for delegates to the Republican convention was reached, three slates were entered. Sen. Goldwater's candidates were qualified well in advance. Gov. Rockefeller has poured into the office of the Secretary of State sufficient signatures to qualify and Harold Stassen, who actually has a sort of organization here, was in time with his 13,702 signatures.

IT'S HARD to believe that 12,703 voters really take Stassen seriously. But this is a very populous state, and I have no doubt that if the Abominable Snowman might have been a terrific contender in New Hampshire. He is said to reside in Asia, and he has said nothing about the issues. Physically, he would have been well equipped to stand the rigors of campaigning in the Granite State's ice and snow.

Goldwater has been in California and will come here again and again. As this is written, Rockefeller is busily shaking all hands within reach.

He also is busily attacking Goldwater and defending Lodge. The last time Rockefeller was here, he was critical of Lodge. But that is part of the confusing picture.

ROCKEFELLER HAS several notable business leaders active in his behalf. But my information is that these supporters are not so much for Rockefeller as they are against Goldwater.

That motive is always present in California politics. In 1962 the vote for Brown was really a vote against Nixon.

On the Democratic side, interest centers on the senatorial nomination. The desperately ill Engle is determined to be reelected. His supporters claim that he is, despite his physical limitations, "putting in eight hours a day" in his office in Washington.

Assuming that Engle will either retire or be defeated, several other candidates are entered, including Pierre Salinger. While Salinger has not been qualified to vote, he has been permitted to run for senator. That is another California oddity.

Several versions of the reason for the Salinger candidacy are advanced. One is that the astute Jesse Unruh, the Democratic colossus in Sacramento, wanted him to enter the primary to scatter the non-Engle vote and thus permit Engle to win the nomination. Then, according to this version, Engle will retire and the Democratic State Committee under the law will substitute Unruh on the November ballot.

Thus, as I noted before, nothing in California politics is what it seems to be.

MacArthur Controversy

By James Marlow

WASHINGTON

Even after his burial, General of the Army Douglas MacArthur remains a hinge of controversy. The many threads of his complicated life, and his feelings of being conspired against, will be a long time in the unraveling.

Two newspapermen have just tried their hand at it: Jim Lucas of the Scripps-Howard Newspapers and Bob Considine of the Hearst Headline Service. This week both released interviews they had with him 10 years ago but promised not to publish until he died.

Promptly Maj. Gen. Courtney Whitney, long-time friend and aide of MacArthur, branded the Lucas interview "fictional nonsense." He didn't mention Considine. The Lucas piece had more sting. It painted MacArthur as bitingly critical of some of his famous contemporaries: presidents and generals.

Whitney is no impartial observer. He wrote a book—"MacArthur: His Rendezvous with History"—which is a justification and glorification of the famous general. Sometimes it's hard to tell who's talking: MacArthur or Whitney.

Lucas listed former President Dwight D. Eisenhower and Gen. George C. Marshall, secretary of defense during the Korean War, as critical targets of MacArthur.

Whitney, in denying the accuracy of the Lucas interview, didn't mention Marshall, but of the others, including Eisenhower, he said:

"The general never spoke in any but the highest terms of such officers and held them all in the warmest affection."

Lucas quoted MacArthur on Eisenhower as "once a man of integrity" (Considine quoted MacArthur on Eisenhower as "Naive but honest") and on Marshall as "an errand boy."

Although Whitney indicates MacArthur spoke only in the highest terms of Eisenhower, Marquis Childs, another newspaperman, in his book—"Eisenhower: Captive Hero"—says MacArthur called him 'the apotheosis of mediocrity" and a biographer of MacArthur, Clark Lee, says the general referred to Eisenhower as a "clerk."

As for Marshall—in 1956 MacArthur publicly stated that Marshall, and Gen. Omar Bradley, chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff in the Korean War when MacArthur was fired from command by President Harry S. Truman, were "personally hostile to me" and that Marshall's "enmity was an old one."

Lucas said MacArthur frequently expressed bitterness when he spoke of Truman but quoted the general: "The little bastard honestly believes he is a patriot."

Whitney said: "The general's comments regarding Mr. Truman were always couched in terms of moderation and dignity and he never used the word 'bastard' in describing him or anyone else."

But MacArthur on the subject of Truman wasn't exactly restrained in 1956—two years after the Lucas-Considine interviews—when the former president, in the second volume of his memoirs, explained firing MacArthur. MacArthur called Truman "vengeful" and didn't leave much doubt about what he thought of his truthfulness.

He described Truman's account of his firing as a "labyrinth of fancy and fiction." Whitney himself wasn't very laudatory about Truman.

GRIN AND BEAR IT By George Lichty

"Be that as it may, madam ... The government still takes the position that the husband is the head of the family!"

Omen In Wisconsin

By David Lawrence

Primary Vote Believed Sign Of Resentment

The results of the balloting in the Wisconsin primary will give Congress pause. It may teach a lesson often forgotten—that a substantial segment of the American people resent intrusion into their private lives and their freedom to choose their associates black or white or brown or yellow, on the basis of their own judgment and their own likes or dislikes.

David Lawrence

If resentment already evidenced across the Northern states — not merely in the South — is beginning to be expressed in the form of votes at the polls, then a crisis of major proportions may come again to America.

The last crisis of this kind — governmental coercion in an attempt to achieve prohibition of the sale of intoxicating liquors—ended in a debacle. It was largely the fault of the prohibitionists, who could not see that their methods were wrong.

Today, the cause of civil rights, which in many respects is a just cause, is headed for another debacle, largely because its proponents have chosen the wrong methods to win public support.

It's easy enough to say that in Wisconsin mostly Republicans gave a symbolic vote for the arguments of Gov. Wallace of Alabama. Unquestionably there were Democrats who felt the same way.

THE EXPECTATION at first had been that the Alabama governor would get only 5 per cent of the vote. He finally received 25 per cent of all votes cast. Indeed, in the Democratic primary itself he got 34 per cent.

The significant development is that, in a state as far from the South as Wisconsin — known for its progressive thinking — an election was actually conducted in which civil rights was an issue, and 25 per cent of the voters registered their protest against it.

On the same day, moreover, that the Wisconsin primary was being held, a tragedy occurred in Cleveland, Ohio, where an impassioned minister was killed behind a bulldozer. In that city, the mayor has been trying to halt the violent demonstrations in a school-segregation crisis. The trespassers on public-school property were trying to get the city to abandon the construction of certain schools. This method of demonstration touched off sporadic violence and at least 15 persons were injured and 26 persons were arrested on charges of disorderly conduct or resisting arrest.

The responsibility for these tragic happenings rests on some of the leaders in the civil rights movement, particularly on those leaders who misconstrued demonstrations like the famous March on Washington as seeming to give the stamp of approval to demonstrations of all kinds.

TODAY, MANY of the Northern cities, including New York and Chicago, are conscientiously striving to handle the difficult problem of racial integration. They find themselves occupied not merely with what the Constitution and the law require — namely, that there shall be no racial discrimination in citizenship rights. They are instead being stampeded to correct "racial imbalance" by methods which introduce a counter-discrimination — as, for instance, against those white citizens whose children are being prevented from going to their own neighborhood schools.

Also, the newspapers in Cleveland report that a local rifle club is being formed to protect the civil rights demonstrators. There are said to be about 16 such rifle clubs in the country, and their avowed object is to intervene wherever police guarantees are deemed inadequate.

How can public sentiment express itself against encroachments on private rights? The citizens of Wisconsin found a way, and so did the voters in Kansas City, Mo., this week when they voted on a city obdinance which dealt with public accommodations.

THE ORDINANCE was designed to enlarge the number of places in which discrimination would be prohibited and went beyond the provisions of the pending bill in Congress. The measure was under vigorous attack by tavern owners, and the vote was about 50-50, as the ordinance won by a narrow margin.

Why, in a place as far distant from Alabama as Kansas City, would the citizens be divided evenly on this question if the issues were as clear as some of the supporters of the so-called civil rights legislation have described them?

The problem in Kansas City, just as in other cities, is one that turns on the extent to which an effort to prevent discrimination results in a drive whereby governmental authorities control freedom of association and freedom of choice of customers in private business.

All this adds up to civic resentment, the first signs of which are beginning to appear in different sections of the country. The pending civil rights bill is only a first step in the crusade.

THE REAL CRISIS will come when the federal government tries to enforce the provisions of the proposed law not only in public accommodations but in the handling of employment in various kinds of businesses.

Demands that racial quotas become paramount guidelines of employment can only provoke deep-seated antagonisms if the government agencies set up their own methods of determining efficiency and qualifications for a job in private business in America.

Down Through The Years

From The Review Files

THIRTY YEARS AGO — George Croxall was the first place winner and Miss Jane Lisk, second, in the Lions Club's fifth annual eighth grade oratorical contest.

James Dunlop of East Liverpool, formerly of Scotland, was granted a citizenship certificate at the naturalization court in Lisbon.

Workman completed the building of a road from the Midland-Beaver highway to the stone quarry on the Brown farm on the eastern boundary of Industry.

TWENTY YEARS AGO — Mr. and Mrs. George Brewer and sons, formerly of Westfield, N.J. moved to 2601 St. Clair Ave.

Miss Betty Kathryn Hines of W. 5th St. and Robert Ray Bloor of John St. were named among the honor students at Ohio University in Athens.

Fred Hilditch, pottery warehouseman, had the highest marks in a civil service examination given three applciants.

Reorgainzation of the Milligan Hardware and Supply Co. was completed with the election of T. V. Milligan as president.

TEN YEARS AGO — Miss Joy Kaufman, daughter of Assistant Postmaster and Mrs. R. T. Kaufman of Vine St., was placed on the honor roll for the second quarter at Northwestern University at Evanston, Ill.

Ray Pyle, Avondale St. potter, was elected president of Eagles Aerie 457, succeeding Enoch Siddel.

An Explorer Post was set up in Wellsville by leaders of Boy Scout Troop 20. Homer Sims was named adviser and Paul Wilson, assistant.

We Believe Gov. Scranton

There is no reason to doubt Pennsylvania Gov. Scranton's sincerity when he says he is not interested in the Republican nomination for president this year.

The man plainly means what he says. Nevertheless, his name will continue to be mentioned in connection with the GOP nomination for the best and simplest of reasons.

It is because everybody knows what he has not and cannot deny — that if ordinary members of the Republican party started a clamor for him he would accept their support. But what he knows that not everybody knows is that no such think ever has happened. There is no such thing in organized politics as an unorganized movement to place a candidate in nomination.

On occasions, there has been an appearance of spontaneity. But investigation disclosed that the appearance, itself, was contrived — that the clamor for Franklin D. Roosevelt in 1940 was started by one voice — the "voice from the sewer"; that the clamor for Wendell Willkie was started by a claque in the gallery; that the spontaneous demonstration for Adlai Stevenson in 1960 was arranged in advance.

If Gov. Scranton makes no effort in his own behalf, he will not be considered for the GOP nomination, barring a miracle of spontaneity or a deadlock that would cause delegates to look beyond the active candidates for a new face.

He says he is making no effort. We believe him.

But presidential politics being what it is, a trial-and-error shuffle of personalities and circumstances, Gov. Scranton's name will continue to be mentioned because he is an attractive new face in a year when voters are showing signs of being tired of all the old faces.

The Right Tone

The Civic Music Association's decision to continue the annual concert program was gratifying not just to district music lovers.

Many with no ear for harmony or a graceful cadenza, but with a concern for East Liverpool's cultural future were heartened by the Association's determination to provide exceptionally good music at the local level.

Progress on the district front requires consistent endeavor not just in seeking new industry, but in improving the general community at all levels and in all areas—education, appearance, traffic, services, recreation, cultural facilities.

The Civic Music Association has set the right tone for this theme.

Showdown On Private Enterprise

The country has been spared the man-made disaster of a railroad strike by another federal intervention — this one for only 15 days.

The reprieves are getting shorter.

The issues are getting no simpler.

Solutions are no closer now than they have been any time for the last half dozen years while animosities increased and convictions deepened.

How much longer can federal intervention and last-minute reprieves postpone a strike disaster that would set this country back on its heels?

Even more to the point and tougher to answer: Is there any way for railroads to practice private ownership and operation without a strike crisis that would leave them, their employes and the public gasping for economic survival?

IS THE ultimate consequence of the deadlock that has shown no signs of breaking after years of mounting tension going to be government seizure of railroads as the alternative to a disastrous strike?

This is no ordinary labor dispute.

Railroads are indispensable public utilities. They are regulated by the federal government. Their regulation became imperative when they threatened to monopolize transportation, before anyone dreamed of huge fleets of high-speed trucks and buses and airplanes carrying passengers and cargo.

Railroads claim with good cause that they have been regulated half to death. They say government has discriminated against them. Yet they do not say government should do to their highway, air and water competitors what it has done to them. They say, instead, that government should let the transportation industry, including railroads, run its own affairs.

This would mean that thousands of railroad employes who still have jobs would have to be reconciled to one of two courses —getting "phased out" of the work they're doing now or "phased into" some other kind of railroad work through a retraining program. Rail unions won't stand for this.

RAILROAD management claims it could survive and flourish as private enterprise if it could do what it wants to do.

Railroad labor claims if this happened its job rights would be violated; that it is fighting for the right to live and will strike rather than capitulate.

Government, in the name of all of us—railroad management, railroad labor and everybody else depending on railroads — says this must not happen.

Presidential Attention

The 1964 baseball season opens Monday when President Johnson throws out the first ball at D.C. Stadium for the Senators and the Los Angeles Angels. Only baseball gets this kind of presidential attention.

President Johnson boasts limited credentials as a baseball fan, and hence his performance as thrower of the first ball at the season opener on Monday will have a rather pro forma atmosphere. He spilled the baseball beans last February when — in an attempt to compliment St. Louis on its 200th anniversary — the printed text of his address read: "St. Louis is — as your saying goes — first in many things and no longer last in the American League."

The "grapefruit form" this year is as curious as ever. The world champion Dodgers of Los Angeles are bumping along near the bottom in National League standings. The New York Yankees, seeking their fifth straight American League pennant, are playing less than .500 ball and trailing the feckless Washington Senators.

The National League shows a better balance than the Yankee-dominated American League, with four different pennant winners in the past five years. Only the Dodgers, who crowned their 1963 comeback with four straight World Series wins over the Yanks, led the league twice. That is one reason N.L. teams outdrew those of the American League in attendance last year — 11,383,233 to 9,095,232.

Professional football and basketball hold draft sessions on all available talent, in which tail - end teams get a fairer shake than the champions. Baseball tends to favor the top teams.

The rich teams get richer because they can buy better players and recruit more actively. Television and radio help the imbalance. "Broadcasting" magazine estimates total baseball broadcast rights this year at $13.575 million, up $.575 million from last year. Of this, the Yankees will get $1.2 million, the Athltics a mere $300,000.

President Johnson is acutely aware that the baseball fan of today is the voter of November. President Eisehower deliberately passed up the season opener in 1959 for golf in Augusta. The mistake was not repeated.

Big Brother

By Truman Twill

Closed-circuit television, predicted Orwell, would be keeping everybody under surveillance by "1984." Even in his own home, no one ever could be safe from "Big Brother," who always would be watching and listening.

A subcommittee of the U. S. House of Representatives is conducting hearings this week on something George Orwell didn't think about — the use of the polygraph in U. S. industry. Industry already has television cameras watching its people and hidden microphones picking up what they say. We're only 20 years from 1984, come to think of it.

Liberty lovers are taking a dark view of this latest twist in electronic snooping. Wiretapping, spies, closed-circuit television and now polygraphs to make doubly certain the last embarrassing fact has been wrung out of every employe ... where will it all end?

I WILL TELL you where it will end.

There will be an electronic box, just big enough to accommodate one human being at a time.

Employes will have to spend a turn each year in the box throughout their term of employment. All new employes will be checked out in the box before they get on the payroll. Dials will give the results.

Electronic gear will plumb the depths of the human mind, all the way into the innermost id. There will be no secrets from The Box.

A pressure button will wring the last abject confession of irregular thinking from the most self-willed employe.

IT WILL MAKE a girl secretary spill her innermost longings. If the boss ever is silly enough to get into the box for a gag, he will spill his life story and bare his thoughts on wage raises for an encore.

Because in the box, right about here, is where a needle will come out of a little fitting and jab the occupant in the posterior. The needle will inject truth serum and what happens thereafter will be tape-recorded and become an integral part of the employe's dossier. Meanwhile the electronic gear will be at work, prodding and provoking the victim.

Big Brother not only will be watching everybody but jabbing them with truth serum, to make certain nobody gets away with anything. And don't think it's preposterous. So are hidden cameras, concealed mikes, spies and polygraphs. We're living in a preposterous age.

A Lot Of Mileage Out Of Very Little

California Politics Called Strange

By Raymond Moley

Some suggestion may be conveyed by this piece that I neither love nor admire California. This suggestion I repudiate at once. My love and admiration for this state are unbonded.

California's unbelievable natural advantages need no elabroation here. I have found after many visits over many years that its people are worthy of its mountains, its fertile valleys, and its coastline.

California spends an enormous amount on schools, and some of the product is education. Its pursuit of fine culture is notable. Its compassion for the needy and unfortunate is unusual. And its outlook upon and interest in the world are comprehensive.

Its political life is what concerns me here. California's interest in politics is, like Sam Weller's knowledge of London, "extensive but peculiar."

IN CALIFORNIA, politics is never what it seems to be. It would require the genius of a Lewis Carroll to describe it. I have witnessed political campaigns here for a long time, and every year some new fantasy greets the eye and ear. This year follows the familiar eccentric pattern.

There are many campaigns going on for many offices, but I limit myself in this instance to two: The contest for the Republican delegation which will represent the state at the San Francisco convention next summer, and the contest for the Senate seat now somewhat uneasily filled by Clair Engle.

As the deadline for the qualification of candidates for delegates to the Republican convention was reached, three slates were entered. Sen. Goldwater's candidates were qualified well in advance. Gov. Rockefeller has poured into the office of the Secretary of State sufficient signatures to qualify and Harold Stassen, who actually has a sort of organization here, was in time with his 13,702 signatures.

IT'S HARD to believe that 12,703 voters really take Stassen seriously. But this is a very populous state, and I have no doubt that if the Abominable Snowman might have been a terrific contender in New Hampshire. He is said to reside in Asia, and he has said nothing about the issues. Physically, he would have been well equipped to stand the rigors of campaigning in the Granite State's ice and snow.

Goldwater has been in California and will come here again and again. As this is written, Rockefeller is busily shaking all hands within reach.

He also is busily attacking Goldwater and defending Lodge. The last time Rockefeller was here, he was critical of Lodge. But that is part of the confusing picture.

ROCKEFELLER HAS several notable business leaders active in his behalf. But my information is that these supporters are not so much for Rockefeller as they are against Goldwater.

That motive is always present in California politics. In 1962 the vote for Brown was really a vote against Nixon.

On the Democratic side, interest centers on the senatorial nomination. The desperately ill Engle is determined to be reelected. His supporters claim that he is, despite his physical limitations, "putting in eight hours a day" in his office in Washington.

Assuming that Engle will either retire or be defeated, several other candidates are entered, including Pierre Salinger. While Salinger has not been qualified to vote, he has been permitted to run for senator. That is another California oddity.

Several versions of the reason for the Salinger candidacy are advanced. One is that the astute Jesse Unruh, the Democratic colossus in Sacramento, wanted him to enter the primary to scatter the non-Engle vote and thus permit Engle to win the nomination. Then, according to this version, Engle will retire and the Democratic State Committee under the law will substitute Unruh on the November ballot.

Thus, as I noted before, nothing in California politics is what it seems to be.

MacArthur Controversy

By James Marlow

WASHINGTON

Even after his burial, General of the Army Douglas MacArthur remains a hinge of controversy. The many threads of his complicated life, and his feelings of being conspired against, will be a long time in the unraveling.

Two newspapermen have just tried their hand at it: Jim Lucas of the Scripps-Howard Newspapers and Bob Considine of the Hearst Headline Service. This week both released interviews they had with him 10 years ago but promised not to publish until he died.

Promptly Maj. Gen. Courtney Whitney, long-time friend and aide of MacArthur, branded the Lucas interview "fictional nonsense." He didn't mention Considine. The Lucas piece had more sting. It painted MacArthur as bitingly critical of some of his famous contemporaries: presidents and generals.

Whitney is no impartial observer. He wrote a book—"MacArthur: His Rendezvous with History"—which is a justification and glorification of the famous general. Sometimes it's hard to tell who's talking: MacArthur or Whitney.

Lucas listed former President Dwight D. Eisenhower and Gen. George C. Marshall, secretary of defense during the Korean War, as critical targets of MacArthur.

Whitney, in denying the accuracy of the Lucas interview, didn't mention Marshall, but of the others, including Eisenhower, he said:

"The general never spoke in any but the highest terms of such officers and held them all in the warmest affection."

Lucas quoted MacArthur on Eisenhower as "once a man of integrity" (Considine quoted MacArthur on Eisenhower as "Naive but honest") and on Marshall as "an errand boy."

Although Whitney indicates MacArthur spoke only in the highest terms of Eisenhower, Marquis Childs, another newspaperman, in his book—"Eisenhower: Captive Hero"—says MacArthur called him 'the apotheosis of mediocrity" and a biographer of MacArthur, Clark Lee, says the general referred to Eisenhower as a "clerk."

As for Marshall—in 1956 MacArthur publicly stated that Marshall, and Gen. Omar Bradley, chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff in the Korean War when MacArthur was fired from command by President Harry S. Truman, were "personally hostile to me" and that Marshall's "enmity was an old one."

Lucas said MacArthur frequently expressed bitterness when he spoke of Truman but quoted the general: "The little bastard honestly believes he is a patriot."

Whitney said: "The general's comments regarding Mr. Truman were always couched in terms of moderation and dignity and he never used the word 'bastard' in describing him or anyone else."

But MacArthur on the subject of Truman wasn't exactly restrained in 1956—two years after the Lucas-Considine interviews—when the former president, in the second volume of his memoirs, explained firing MacArthur. MacArthur called Truman "vengeful" and didn't leave much doubt about what he thought of his truthfulness.

He described Truman's account of his firing as a "labyrinth of fancy and fiction." Whitney himself wasn't very laudatory about Truman.

GRIN AND BEAR IT By George Lichty

Omen In Wisconsin

By David Lawrence

Primary Vote Believed Sign Of Resentment

The results of the balloting in the Wisconsin primary will give Congress pause. It may teach a lesson often forgotten—that a substantial segment of the American people resent intrusion into their private lives and their freedom to choose their associates black or white or brown or yellow, on the basis of their own judgment and their own likes or dislikes.

David Lawrence

If resentment already evidenced across the Northern states — not merely in the South — is beginning to be expressed in the form of votes at the polls, then a crisis of major proportions may come again to America.

The last crisis of this kind — governmental coercion in an attempt to achieve prohibition of the sale of intoxicating liquors—ended in a debacle. It was largely the fault of the prohibitionists, who could not see that their methods were wrong.

Today, the cause of civil rights, which in many respects is a just cause, is headed for another debacle, largely because its proponents have chosen the wrong methods to win public support.

It's easy enough to say that in Wisconsin mostly Republicans gave a symbolic vote for the arguments of Gov. Wallace of Alabama. Unquestionably there were Democrats who felt the same way.

THE EXPECTATION at first had been that the Alabama governor would get only 5 per cent of the vote. He finally received 25 per cent of all votes cast. Indeed, in the Democratic primary itself he got 34 per cent.

The significant development is that, in a state as far from the South as Wisconsin — known for its progressive thinking — an election was actually conducted in which civil rights was an issue, and 25 per cent of the voters registered their protest against it.

On the same day, moreover, that the Wisconsin primary was being held, a tragedy occurred in Cleveland, Ohio, where an impassioned minister was killed behind a bulldozer. In that city, the mayor has been trying to halt the violent demonstrations in a school-segregation crisis. The trespassers on public-school property were trying to get the city to abandon the construction of certain schools. This method of demonstration touched off sporadic violence and at least 15 persons were injured and 26 persons were arrested on charges of disorderly conduct or resisting arrest.

The responsibility for these tragic happenings rests on some of the leaders in the civil rights movement, particularly on those leaders who misconstrued demonstrations like the famous March on Washington as seeming to give the stamp of approval to demonstrations of all kinds.

TODAY, MANY of the Northern cities, including New York and Chicago, are conscientiously striving to handle the difficult problem of racial integration. They find themselves occupied not merely with what the Constitution and the law require — namely, that there shall be no racial discrimination in citizenship rights. They are instead being stampeded to correct "racial imbalance" by methods which introduce a counter-discrimination — as, for instance, against those white citizens whose children are being prevented from going to their own neighborhood schools.

Also, the newspapers in Cleveland report that a local rifle club is being formed to protect the civil rights demonstrators. There are said to be about 16 such rifle clubs in the country, and their avowed object is to intervene wherever police guarantees are deemed inadequate.

How can public sentiment express itself against encroachments on private rights? The citizens of Wisconsin found a way, and so did the voters in Kansas City, Mo., this week when they voted on a city obdinance which dealt with public accommodations.

THE ORDINANCE was designed to enlarge the number of places in which discrimination would be prohibited and went beyond the provisions of the pending bill in Congress. The measure was under vigorous attack by tavern owners, and the vote was about 50-50, as the ordinance won by a narrow margin.

Why, in a place as far distant from Alabama as Kansas City, would the citizens be divided evenly on this question if the issues were as clear as some of the supporters of the so-called civil rights legislation have described them?

The problem in Kansas City, just as in other cities, is one that turns on the extent to which an effort to prevent discrimination results in a drive whereby governmental authorities control freedom of association and freedom of choice of customers in private business.

All this adds up to civic resentment, the first signs of which are beginning to appear in different sections of the country. The pending civil rights bill is only a first step in the crusade.

THE REAL CRISIS will come when the federal government tries to enforce the provisions of the proposed law not only in public accommodations but in the handling of employment in various kinds of businesses.

Demands that racial quotas become paramount guidelines of employment can only provoke deep-seated antagonisms if the government agencies set up their own methods of determining efficiency and qualifications for a job in private business in America.

HE REGREW HAIR

H. M. Lile will be in East Liverpool, Ohio, at the Travelers Hotel on Monday, April 13, 1964. Hours: 1 to 8:30 p. m.

Now is the time to act on this great opportunity. Every hair-worried person (man or woman) should take advantage of this FREE CONSULTATION. If your scalp is still creating hair and you have dandruff, or excessive hair fall, excessive oiliness, dryness or itchy scalp, why not take 20 minutes of your time to see if you can be helped?

H. M. Lile is a Staff Director of the Ebb Hair Specialists. He is qualified by expreience and training to recommend the proper method to assure you of the fastest possible results in the shortest period of time at the least amount of cost to you.

The Ebb Method will not help those who are slick bald after years of gradual hair loss. We want to make it clear that Male Pattern Baldness is the cause of the great majority of cases of baldness and excessive hair loss, for which neither the Ebb Method nor any other method is effective.

But if there are other reasons for your hair problems, it is possible that you can be helped. Results are guaranteed (in writing) from the beginning to the end on a pro-rated basis by the Ebb Hair Specialists.

You have no reason to be skeptical. We make regular, scheduled visits to East Liverpool, Ohio. How could we do this unless we gave results?

Why burden yourself with unhealthy hair and scalp. It costs you nothing to learn how so many people have benefited from the Ebb Method. Know how, experience and training offers you opportunity, satisfaction and results.

Mrs. Virginia Barnes (above) shows how she saved her hair and now has handsome, healthy hair. She did not have Male Pattern Baldness.

SEE H. M. Lile at the Travelers Hotel in East Liverpool, Ohio, between 1 and 8:30 p.m. He will do the rest.

Interviews are in private. You will not be obligated or embarrassed in any way.

Remember, for hair problems, see:

Mrs. Wilda Boyce was installed as president of the Ann Judson Missionary Society of the First Baptist Church at the meeting Tuesday night in the social rooms.

Other officers inducted were Mrs. Dorothy Baur, vice president; Mrs. Gladys Durham, secretary, and Mrs. Mary Wagers, treasurer.

Vice presidents named were Mrs. Jackie Pearch, missions; Mrs. Bertha Woods, Christian service, and Mrs. Edythe Kittridge, Christian training.

Chairmen appointed were Mrs. Baur, program; Mrs. Dottie Woods, conference; Mrs. Durham, literature; Mrs. Arzelia Green, missionary and stewardship education; Mrs. Helen Schell, special interest missionaries; Mrs. Pearce, missions and interpreters; Mrs. Phyllis Davis and Mrs. Etta Serafy, White Cross, and Mrs. Rose Peterson, love gift.

Mrs. Mae Littell, Christian social relations; Mrs. Kittridge, spiritual life; Mrs. Edith Rodenhausen, family; Mrs. Grace Taylor, leadership; Mrs. Esther Hadfield, scholarship, and Mrs. Wagers, Mrs. Hazel Tittle, co-chairmen, and Mrs. Jessie McCune, Mrs. Margaret Bangor and Mrs. Schell, social.

Mrs. Pearce, installing officer, used this year's theme, "Breaking Through the Walls," for her service.

Mrs. Schell conducted devotions at the worship table arranged for Communion. Mrs. Rodenhausen offered prayer. The group sang "Break Thou the Bread of Life" with Mrs. Kittridge accompanist. Mrs. Rose Peterson dedicated the love gift.

Annual reports were heard. Monetary gifts will be sent to Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Carder of Thailand and Miss Nancy Maxton of South India.

The group will be represented at the United Church Women's institute Wednesday and the May Fellowship Day luncheon May 1, both at St. Stephen's Episcopal Church.

Lunch was served by Mrs. Littell, Mrs. Bertha Woods and Mrs. Davis.

Next session will be May 5.

Newell Junior Women's Group Adopts Park Project

Development of a park on a Homer Laughlin China Co. owned tract of land adjoining Wells Junior High School has been chosen by the Newell Junior Women's Club as a conservation project.

The wooded site is to be cleared of brush and made available to the public, with the work to begin when the weather permits. The club will build benches for the shady area, which was a community park years ago. A small stream passes through the property.

Mrs. Donna Nalley, conservation chairman, is heading the working committees. Dates for "work days" will be set later and the club has asked the Boy Scouts and Lions Club for aid.

At Tuesday night's meeting in the American Legion home, the ways and means committee reported it plans two traveling bake sales, May 16 and Aug. 18, a square dance Oct. 17, and a public card party Nov. 10.

The club will enter a float in the Newell firemen's parade. A queen and a court of four girls from the junior high school will be named to ride on the entry. The candidates are to attend the club meeting early in May. A stand will be entered in the firemen's carnival.

The club has also agreed to sponsor an intermediate Girl Scout troop in Newell, wth Mrs. Phyllis Jividen to be chairman.

Letters welcoming the club into the federation were received from clubs in Wheeling and Weirton. Hostesses were Miss Susan McKenna, Miss Nila Jo Bailey and Mrs. Penny Arnott, who led devotions.

Refreshments were served 21 at tables covered with silver cloths and decorated with yellow and orange sunflowers and orange candles. Next meeting will be April 21.

HE REGREW HAIR

H. M. Lile will be in East Liverpool, Ohio, at the Travelers Hotel on Monday, April 13, 1964. Hours: 1 to 8:30 p. m.

Now is the time to act on this great opportunity. Every hair-worried person (man or woman) should take advantage of this FREE CONSULTATION. If your scalp is still creating hair and you have dandruff, or excessive hair fall, excessive oiliness, dryness or itchy scalp, why not take 20 minutes of your time to see if you can be helped?

H. M. Lile is a Staff Director of the Ebb Hair Specialists. He is qualified by expreience and training to recommend the proper method to assure you of the fastest possible results in the shortest period of time at the least amount of cost to you.

The Ebb Method will not help those who are slick bald after years of gradual hair loss. We want to make it clear that Male Pattern Baldness is the cause of the great majority of cases of baldness and excessive hair loss, for which neither the Ebb Method nor any other method is effective.

But if there are other reasons for your hair problems, it is possible that you can be helped. Results are guaranteed (in writing) from the beginning to the end on a pro-rated basis by the Ebb Hair Specialists.

You have no reason to be skeptical. We make regular, scheduled visits to East Liverpool, Ohio. How could we do this unless we gave results?

Why burden yourself with unhealthy hair and scalp. It costs you nothing to learn how so many people have benefited from the Ebb Method. Know how, experience and training offers you opportunity, satisfaction and results.

Mrs. Virginia Barnes (above) shows how she saved her hair and now has handsome, healthy hair. She did not have Male Pattern Baldness.

SEE H. M. Lile at the Travelers Hotel in East Liverpool, Ohio, between 1 and 8:30 p.m. He will do the rest.

Interviews are in private. You will not be obligated or embarrassed in any way.

Bethany College Host

Convocation To Be Held For Christian Churches

Dr. Perry E. Gresham, Bethany College president, will be the keynote speaker of a 'Centennial Convocation" of Christian Churches (Disciples of Christ) of the Northern Panhandle - Doddridge district at 2:30 p. m. Sunday, at the Bethany Memorial Church.

The meeting is one of four state convocations to initiate a series of programs pointing to the 100th anniversary of the beginning of the Christian Churches (Disciples of Christ) in West Virginia. The centennial year programs in 1969-70, will be held at two of the state's oldest Christian Church institutions, First Christian Church of Wheeling and Bethany College.

Other speakers at the program tomorrow will include Dr. Ralph Valentine of Huntington, general secretary of the Christian Churches of West Virginia; the Rev. Hubert L. Barnett, minister of the First church of Wheeling; the Rev. Andrew Laney, minister of the First church of Moundsville; Harold C. Doster, alumni director of Bethany College, and the Rev. George H. McGhee, minister of the First church of Wellsburg.

Approximately 250 persons from area churches are expected to attend. The first convocation was at Huntington last Sunday and others are scheduled for the Monongahela District on April 19 at Clarksburg and for the Southern District on April 26 at Beckley.

The Christian Church (Disciples of Christ), America's largest indigenous church movement, had its origins in the Ohio Valley in the 19th Century. Alexander Campbell, founder and first president of Bethany College, was one of the principal leaders in the founding of this church body.

Maryland College Choir Due For Concert At Salineville

SALINEVILLE — The Concert Choir of the Eastern Christian College at Bel Air, Md., will present a program of sacred music Thursday at 7:30 p. m. at the Church of Christ. The public is invited.

The choir is under the direction of Prof. Adam J. Korenczuk and accompanied by Mrs. Addie Maye Segroves. The 17 members of the choir come from six different states and four other countries, including Poland, Argentina, Mexico and Canada.

President J. Thomas Segroves will accompany the choir and tell about the work and progress of the college.

The college is one of 40 sponsored and supported by congregations and members of the Churches of Christ and Christian Churches throughout the United States. It is dedicated to the training of ministers, missionaries and other church workers.

Several of the numbers will be Russian hymns arranged and translated into English by Korenczuk.

Choir members will be guests at a coverdish supper in the church at 6 p. m.

Gerald C. Finnie is minister.

Ministerial Candidate To Give Sermon

The Rev. Robert H. Schondelmayer of Griffith, Ind., will conduct worship at the Chester First Christian Church Sunday as a prospective pastor.

Rev. Schondelmayer, 45, will speak at the 9:45 a.m. and 7:30 p.m. services, Robert Gray, chairman of the pulpit committee, said.

Rev. Schondelmayer is married and has two sons. He has served in Illinois, the Philippine missions, Akron and Indiana. He has a degree from Cincinnati Bible Seminary, as does his wife.

The Chester church has been without a minister for four months. The Rev. A. F. Hanes of Brownsville, former pastor, has served as interim minister.

New Hope Fund Drive Will End

The New Hope Baptist Church will close its financial drive with a program Sunday at 3 p. m., featuring the Rev. J. M. Wooden of the Baptist Church of Steubenville and his congregations as guests.

Officially Dead

WASHINGTON (AP) — Edward L. Maas Jr. of East Cleveland, Ohio, has been officially listed as dead by the Navy Department. Maas, pilot of a Four-C attack plane which crashed Wednesday during night operations in the Mediterranean, had been listed as missing.

Seminarian's Program Set

Seminary Day will be observed Sunday at the Chester First United Presbyterian Church during the 11 a.m. worship.

Van Hunter, a senior at the Pittsburgh Theological Seminary, will be the guest speaker. An offering for the building expansion program of the seminary will be received.

English Pastor Will Be Guest At St. Matthew's

The Rev. and Mrs. James F. West of Pilton Vicarage, Barnstaple, England, are guests of the Rev. William E. Swing, rector of St. Matthew's Episcopal Church in Chester, and Mrs. Swing.

They arrived Friday in connection with a program sponsored by the Episcopal Diocese of West Virginia in which clergyman from West Virginia reside in England for a month with English clergymen following the same program in America.

Rev. Swing will speak at the Chester church Sunday at 9 a. m. In the afternoon, Mrs. William Wedgewood will have tea for the Rev. and Mrs. West, with a pot-luck supper to follow at 5:30 p.m. in the Parish Hall. An informal talk by Rev. West with a question-and-answer period will climax the program.

Rev. and Mrs. West will visit in this area for a week and then go to Keyser, W. Va.

Convocation To Be Held For Christian Churches

Dr. Perry E. Gresham, Bethany College president, will be the keynote speaker of a 'Centennial Convocation" of Christian Churches (Disciples of Christ) of the Northern Panhandle - Doddridge district at 2:30 p. m. Sunday, at the Bethany Memorial Church.

The meeting is one of four state convocations to initiate a series of programs pointing to the 100th anniversary of the beginning of the Christian Churches (Disciples of Christ) in West Virginia. The centennial year programs in 1969-70, will be held at two of the state's oldest Christian Church institutions, First Christian Church of Wheeling and Bethany College.

Other speakers at the program tomorrow will include Dr. Ralph Valentine of Huntington, general secretary of the Christian Churches of West Virginia; the Rev. Hubert L. Barnett, minister of the First church of Wheeling; the Rev. Andrew Laney, minister of the First church of Moundsville; Harold C. Doster, alumni director of Bethany College, and the Rev. George H. McGhee, minister of the First church of Wellsburg.

Approximately 250 persons from area churches are expected to attend. The first convocation was at Huntington last Sunday and others are scheduled for the Monongahela District on April 19 at Clarksburg and for the Southern District on April 26 at Beckley.

The Christian Church (Disciples of Christ), America's largest indigenous church movement, had its origins in the Ohio Valley in the 19th Century. Alexander Campbell, founder and first president of Bethany College, was one of the principal leaders in the founding of this church body.

Maryland College Choir Due For Concert At Salineville

SALINEVILLE — The Concert Choir of the Eastern Christian College at Bel Air, Md., will present a program of sacred music Thursday at 7:30 p. m. at the Church of Christ. The public is invited.

The choir is under the direction of Prof. Adam J. Korenczuk and accompanied by Mrs. Addie Maye Segroves. The 17 members of the choir come from six different states and four other countries, including Poland, Argentina, Mexico and Canada.

President J. Thomas Segroves will accompany the choir and tell about the work and progress of the college.

The college is one of 40 sponsored and supported by congregations and members of the Churches of Christ and Christian Churches throughout the United States. It is dedicated to the training of ministers, missionaries and other church workers.

Several of the numbers will be Russian hymns arranged and translated into English by Korenczuk.

Choir members will be guests at a coverdish supper in the church at 6 p. m.

Gerald C. Finnie is minister.

Pennsylvania Primary Seen Getting Okay

HARRISBURG (AP) — Pennsylvania's chief legal officer said Friday he believes that a Federal Court judge will permit the commonwealth to hold its primary elections April 28 despite a ruling that state constitutional provisions on legislative reapportionment violate the U. S. Constitution.

Atty. Gen. Walter E. Alessandroni told a news conference he would ask Judge Albert B. Maris of Philadelphia on Monday to stay an order enjoining the commonwealth from holding the elections.

"I assume he will grant the stay, which is normal in these cases," Alessandroni added.

Maris, of the U. S. Third Circuit Court of Appeals was a member of a three - judge federal panel which Thursday ruled Pennsylvania's constitution in violation of the 14th Amendment to the U. S. Constitution. It also held the 1963 reapportionment acts invalid and forbade holding the primary elections for state Senate and state House of Representatives.

Pennsylvania Primary Seen Getting Okay

HARRISBURG (AP) — Pennsylvania's chief legal officer said Friday he believes that a Federal Court judge will permit the commonwealth to hold its primary elections April 28 despite a ruling that state constitutional provisions on legislative reapportionment violate the U. S. Constitution.

Atty. Gen. Walter E. Alessandroni told a news conference he would ask Judge Albert B. Maris of Philadelphia on Monday to stay an order enjoining the commonwealth from holding the elections.

"I assume he will grant the stay, which is normal in these cases," Alessandroni added.

Maris, of the U. S. Third Circuit Court of Appeals was a member of a three - judge federal panel which Thursday ruled Pennsylvania's constitution in violation of the 14th Amendment to the U. S. Constitution. It also held the 1963 reapportionment acts invalid and forbade holding the primary elections for state Senate and state House of Representatives.

2 Huge Ore Bridges Serve As Crucible's 'Workhorses'

Mountains Of Ore Stocked For Iron Process

Cranes Supply Blast Furnaces

Two of Crucible Steel Company's biggest "workhorses" are the giant ore bridges which have towered against the skyline of Midland for over four decades.

The two traveling cranes — 105 feet high — feed the huge appetites of the firm's three blast furnaces, handling the red iron ore with buckets capable of carrying 17 tons each.

The bridges are about 374 feet long, and travel 2,100 feet in the ore yard which has a capacity of over a million tons.

No. 1 crane was installed at the plant in 1912 and weighs 1,800 tons. No. 2 crane was originally installed at the Panama Canal, later used on the St. Lawrence and arrived in Midland in about 1919, plant officials said. It is a slightly smaller bridge, weighing about 1,490 tons.

BOTH WERE made by the Hoover-Mason Co., now integrated with Wellman Engineering Co. of Cleveland.

The bridges have two sets of trucks each, with each truck having 16 sets of standard gauge railroad wheels. They move on railroad tracks, pulled by 2,300-foot cable —1¾-inches thick — on a large drum. Power is supplied by electric motors.

Each bridge is operated by one man in the trolley cab which moves along the bridge. An oiler for maintenance is also assigned to each bridge. The crane operator communicates to the rest of the ore operation by radio-telephone.

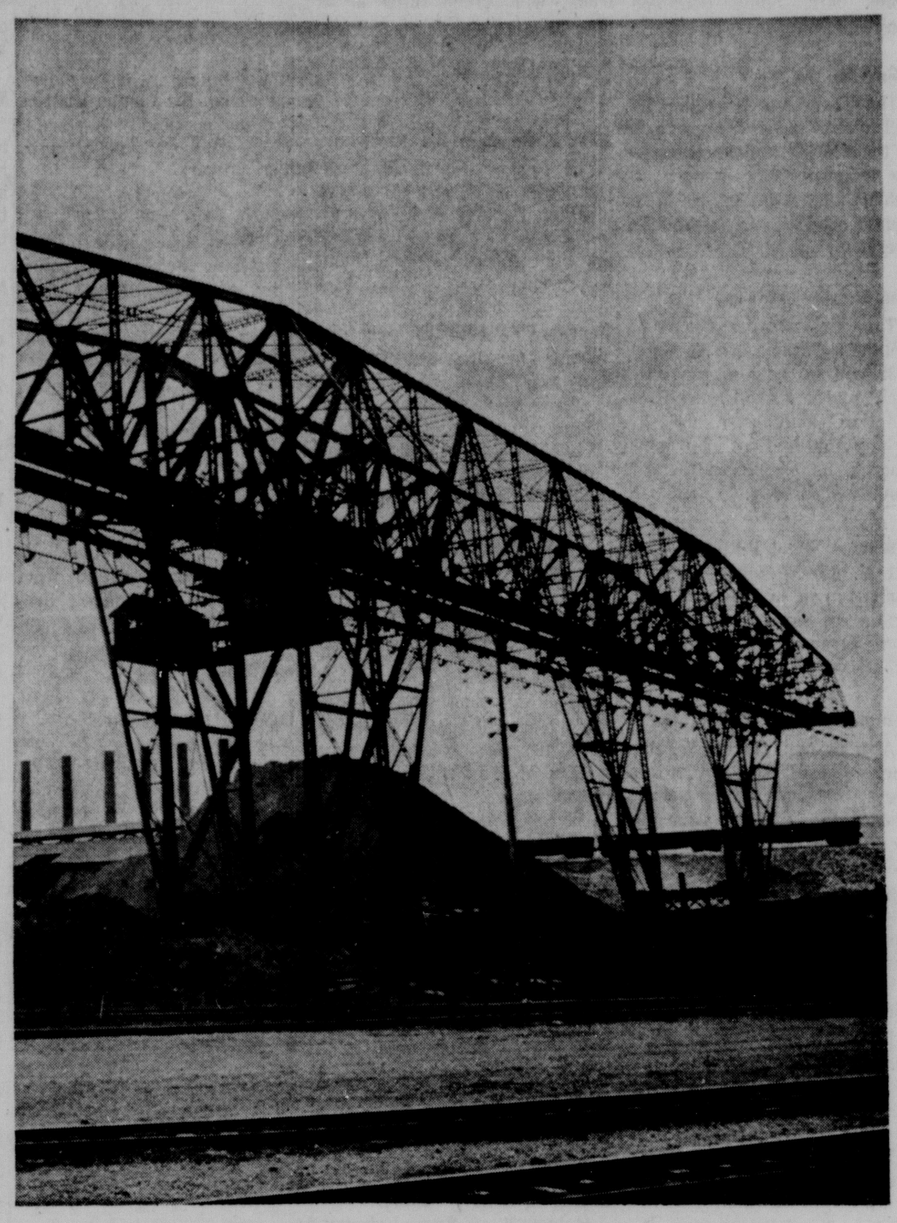

DURING THE busy ore season, the bridges work constantly, the night operation lighted by lamps on the trolley and on the trucks.

Various metallic ores are brought to the Midland plant by rail, and are stored in the vast yard. They include limestone, coarse ores, pellets, coke, taconite sinter and dolomite. Also in the yard are flue dust piles, scrap piles and open hearth slag.

The ore bridges provide material for the blast furnace bins, to traveling ore transfer cars or to traveling coke cars.

The steel latticework of the bridges have long been a familiar background for those in Crucible and Midland, but to visitors, they often appear to be busy monsters, hard at work in their burdensome tasks. They are truly important "work horses" in the supply system of the steel plant.

Some Travel, Some Stay At Home

Steelworkers Love Those 13-Week Vacations!

Workers In District Plan For Upcoming Rest Series

By CHARLES R. CRONIN

The call of the open road is being answered more frequently than ever these days by veteran employs of the Crucible Steel Co. in Midland.

Old-time mill hands are scattering to all four points of the compass to reach vacation spots away from the sweat and toil of the steel industry.

They began this year for the first time, 13-week paid vacations granted in the current steel labor contract.

Worked out in negotiations in 1963 between major basic steel producers and the United Steelworkers Union, the vacation program covers 450,000 workers in basic steel, and has since spread to other steel-related plants.

CRUCIBLE'S 6,000 employes at Midland are covered. The plan provides 13 - week paid vacations each five years for the 50 per cent of the work force with the most seniority, 15 years service the minimum. Roughly 422 employes at the huge plant in Midland will receive the extended sabbaticals this year.

Forty have already completed the first round of their 13 weeks of free time, and returned to their jobs the past week, reluctantly to say the least.

Since early January, they have been on vacation, enjoying more free time with pay than few of them ever dared to dream of years ago.

Where did they go, and how did they spend their 2,184 hours of free time with pay?

Because their vacations began in January, when subfreezing temperatures and snowstorms abounded locally, a warmer climate appealed to many.

In addition, the long vacations provided plenty of time to drive to and from the West Coast without hurrying, time to visit friends and relatives along the way and take in the scenery.

BUT NOT ALL traveled. A few stayed home, leisurely tackling odd chores around the house, loafing and relishing the opportunity to sleep late in the mornings.

Miller Biach of Smiths Ferry, R. D. 1, employed in the open hearth maintenance department for 38 years, was one of those who chose to relax at home. "I loafed, relaxed, went down town, and enjoyed it all very much," Biach said.

"It was a short vacation, the time went quickly," he added. Biach did travel to Cleveland before returning to work on April 5.

David Campbell of Apt. 37-A, Midland Hgts., also chose to stay at home, sleeping late and just relaxing. Campbell had traveled to California last year. He works in the transportation department, and is a veteran of 38 years service.

Peter Vukas of Midland Heights and his wife, her sister, Mrs. Frank Todoff, and a brother, Louis Vince, the latter of Westfield Rd., rolled up the miles on the family car.

EMPLOYED in the open hearth for 30 years, Vukas traveled the coast line from Florida to Long Beach, Calif., stopping briefly for a visit in Tijuana, Mexico. Returning on the 10-weeks motor trip, the group visited in Las Vegas. The Vukases visited their children in Long Beach and San Antonio, Tex., while on the drive.

Louis Suffeletta and Frank Collins were other Crucible employes visiting California. An engineer in transportation, Collins also visited in New Jersey.

CONTENT WITH short motor trips, George Petrosky of 65 8th St., Midland, traveled to Cleveland, Latrobe, Tionesta and Ligonier. He is employed in transportation.

Steve plans to stay busy around the house at odd jobs until his son, Steven, begins summer vacation from the Presentation Parochial School. Then the family will set out for Washington to visit two daughters.

The trip will take him and Mrs. Gregor to Texas and Mexico City, California and Las Vegas. "We'll be gone five to six weeks, after I get caught up at home," Gregor chuckles. An employe in the open hearth for 31 years, John is looking forward to his next 13 - weeks vacation in five years already.

UNDECIDED but enjoying the task of thinking about a vacation site is Vincent Maola, 525 Wedgewood St., East Liverpool. Vincent starts his long vacation in October, re- He is employed in the open hearth and has worked at Crucible for 30 years.

Carman Cananzi, 465 Ohio Ave., Midland will combine business and pleasure, so to speak, on his vacation which starts June 28.

Carman's hobby is show dogs and he owns an international champion, silky terrier breed. Mr. and Mrs. Cananzi will begin the show circuit in Connecticut, then set out for Seattle, Wash., and the Pacific Coast. They will make the return trip through the Southern states. Cananzi works in the blooming mill maintenance department.

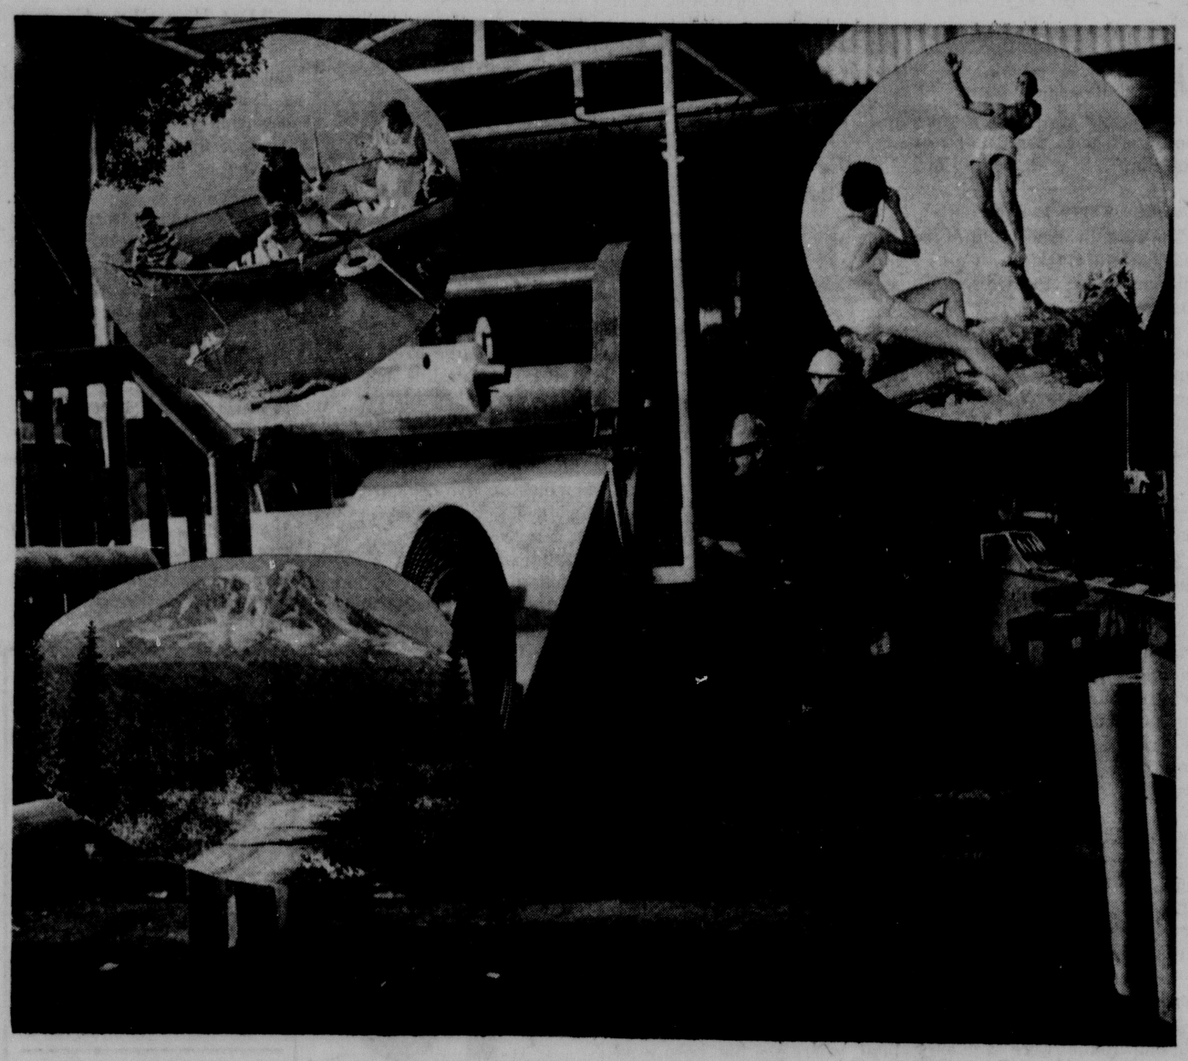

A bad break kept Franklin Conner of 122 Virginia Ave., Chester, at home this time. He began his vacation Jan. 5, but Mrs. Conner fractured her shoulder in a fall in November and didn't feel in shape for a long motor trip.

Employed in the coke plant, Conner got in some bowling and golf. And watching a new colored television helped make his vacation enjoyable.

ABOUT HALF of Crucible's employes, or roughly 2,500 men, are expected to receive the long vacations in the next five years.

Those eligible have a choice of receiving their vacation pay in a lump sum — the average about $2,000 — or drawing it in portions each two weeks. The lump sum is the most popular choice.

"You have to be careful, though, one employe who chose the lump sum plan explained. "If you get it all now, you can't spend it all on vacation, for the next payday won't come for a month after you return to work."

The Law

Nowhere in the world today is the press allowed more freedom than in America. This freedom had its beginnings in one of the most important cases in legal history, the trial of John Peter Zenger in 1735.

Zenger was the printer and publisher of a paper known as the New York Weekly Journal. He criticized the administration of Royal Governor Cosby of New York in print. The tyrannical Cosby had Zenger jailed on a charge of libel.

Zenger had editorialized that the Governor had deeds to lands destroyed, judges arbitrarily displaced, new courts established without the consent of the Legislature and had denied the right to vote to certain landowners. All of these accusations were true, but truth was held to be no defense in a prosecution for seditious libel, which was defined as 'a written censure upon public men for their conduct as such".

Zenger was brought to trial and his New York counsels were disbarred because they came to his defense. After disbarment they secured the services of Andrew Hamilton of the Philadelphia Bar to continue the defense. Hamilton offered his services to Zenger without fee.

Displaying great moral courage he defied the judges who were controlled by the Governor, and told the jury that it was not considering the cause of just a poor printer. Instead, it was considering the cause of "the liberty both of exposing and opposing arbitrary power by speaking and writing truth".

The Chief Justice instructed the jury that the printed words of Zenger were libelous and that if the jury found he had published them, (and he admitted he had) then Zenger should be found guilty.

Under such circumstances it seemed obvious that Zenger would be convicted. Fortunately, the jury, which was not controlled by the Governor, defied the court. Zenger was found not guilty, and was freed.

Governor Morris, one of the members of the Constitutional Convention, said years later, "The trial of Zenger in 1735 was the germ of American freedom, the morning star of that liberty which subsequently revolutionized America".

The trial of Zenger kindled the idea of a free press in America — an idea and an ideal that still survives with vigor after more than 200 years.

Mountains Of Ore Stocked For Iron Process

Cranes Supply Blast Furnaces

Two of Crucible Steel Company's biggest "workhorses" are the giant ore bridges which have towered against the skyline of Midland for over four decades.

The two traveling cranes — 105 feet high — feed the huge appetites of the firm's three blast furnaces, handling the red iron ore with buckets capable of carrying 17 tons each.

The bridges are about 374 feet long, and travel 2,100 feet in the ore yard which has a capacity of over a million tons.

No. 1 crane was installed at the plant in 1912 and weighs 1,800 tons. No. 2 crane was originally installed at the Panama Canal, later used on the St. Lawrence and arrived in Midland in about 1919, plant officials said. It is a slightly smaller bridge, weighing about 1,490 tons.

BOTH WERE made by the Hoover-Mason Co., now integrated with Wellman Engineering Co. of Cleveland.

The bridges have two sets of trucks each, with each truck having 16 sets of standard gauge railroad wheels. They move on railroad tracks, pulled by 2,300-foot cable —1¾-inches thick — on a large drum. Power is supplied by electric motors.

Each bridge is operated by one man in the trolley cab which moves along the bridge. An oiler for maintenance is also assigned to each bridge. The crane operator communicates to the rest of the ore operation by radio-telephone.

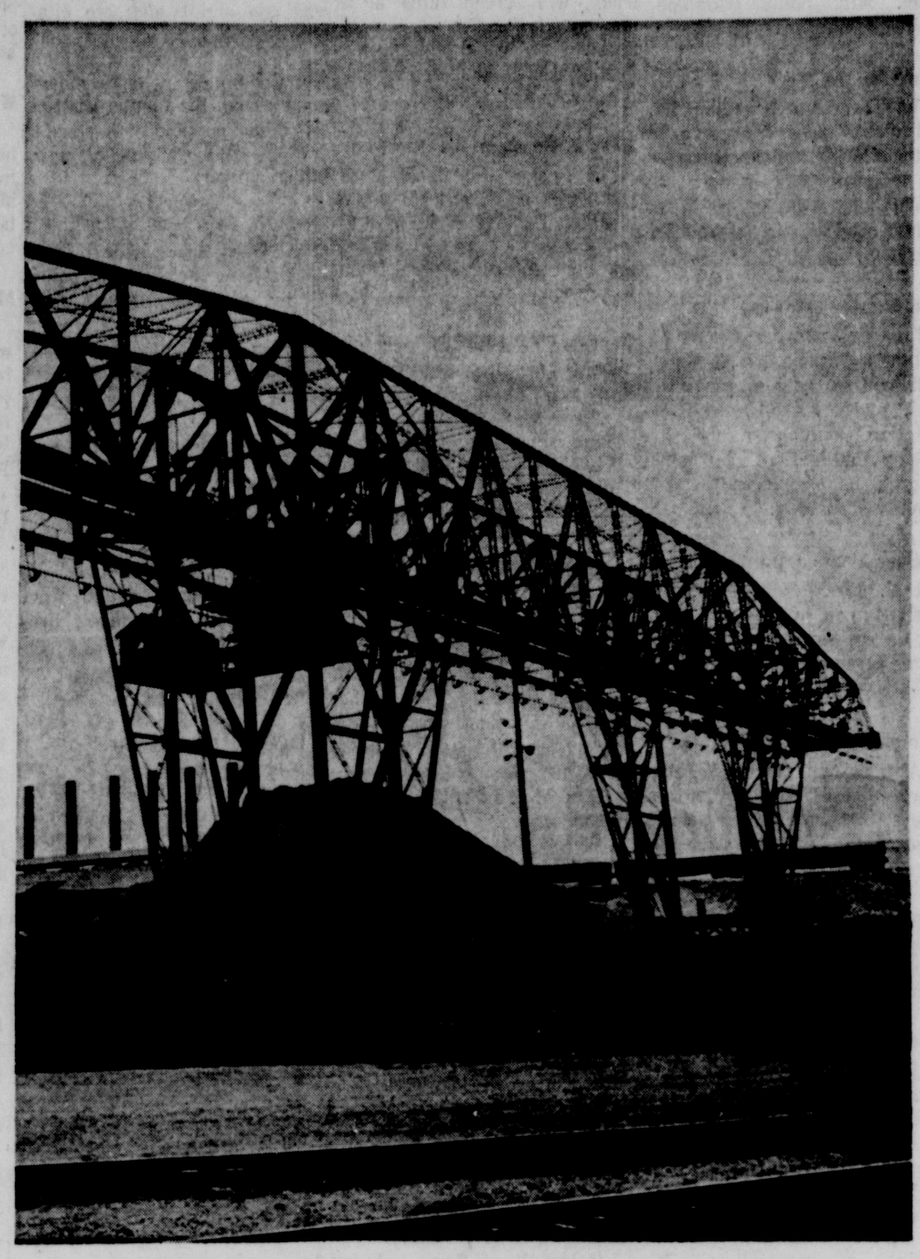

DURING THE busy ore season, the bridges work constantly, the night operation lighted by lamps on the trolley and on the trucks.

Various metallic ores are brought to the Midland plant by rail, and are stored in the vast yard. They include limestone, coarse ores, pellets, coke, taconite sinter and dolomite. Also in the yard are flue dust piles, scrap piles and open hearth slag.

The ore bridges provide material for the blast furnace bins, to traveling ore transfer cars or to traveling coke cars.

The steel latticework of the bridges have long been a familiar background for those in Crucible and Midland, but to visitors, they often appear to be busy monsters, hard at work in their burdensome tasks. They are truly important "work horses" in the supply system of the steel plant.

Steelworkers Love Those 13-Week Vacations!

Workers In District Plan For Upcoming Rest Series

By CHARLES R. CRONIN

The call of the open road is being answered more frequently than ever these days by veteran employs of the Crucible Steel Co. in Midland.

Old-time mill hands are scattering to all four points of the compass to reach vacation spots away from the sweat and toil of the steel industry.

They began this year for the first time, 13-week paid vacations granted in the current steel labor contract.

Worked out in negotiations in 1963 between major basic steel producers and the United Steelworkers Union, the vacation program covers 450,000 workers in basic steel, and has since spread to other steel-related plants.

CRUCIBLE'S 6,000 employes at Midland are covered. The plan provides 13 - week paid vacations each five years for the 50 per cent of the work force with the most seniority, 15 years service the minimum. Roughly 422 employes at the huge plant in Midland will receive the extended sabbaticals this year.

Forty have already completed the first round of their 13 weeks of free time, and returned to their jobs the past week, reluctantly to say the least.

Since early January, they have been on vacation, enjoying more free time with pay than few of them ever dared to dream of years ago.

Where did they go, and how did they spend their 2,184 hours of free time with pay?

Because their vacations began in January, when subfreezing temperatures and snowstorms abounded locally, a warmer climate appealed to many.

In addition, the long vacations provided plenty of time to drive to and from the West Coast without hurrying, time to visit friends and relatives along the way and take in the scenery.

BUT NOT ALL traveled. A few stayed home, leisurely tackling odd chores around the house, loafing and relishing the opportunity to sleep late in the mornings.

Miller Biach of Smiths Ferry, R. D. 1, employed in the open hearth maintenance department for 38 years, was one of those who chose to relax at home. "I loafed, relaxed, went down town, and enjoyed it all very much," Biach said.

"It was a short vacation, the time went quickly," he added. Biach did travel to Cleveland before returning to work on April 5.

David Campbell of Apt. 37-A, Midland Hgts., also chose to stay at home, sleeping late and just relaxing. Campbell had traveled to California last year. He works in the transportation department, and is a veteran of 38 years service.

Peter Vukas of Midland Heights and his wife, her sister, Mrs. Frank Todoff, and a brother, Louis Vince, the latter of Westfield Rd., rolled up the miles on the family car.

EMPLOYED in the open hearth for 30 years, Vukas traveled the coast line from Florida to Long Beach, Calif., stopping briefly for a visit in Tijuana, Mexico. Returning on the 10-weeks motor trip, the group visited in Las Vegas. The Vukases visited their children in Long Beach and San Antonio, Tex., while on the drive.

Louis Suffeletta and Frank Collins were other Crucible employes visiting California. An engineer in transportation, Collins also visited in New Jersey.

CONTENT WITH short motor trips, George Petrosky of 65 8th St., Midland, traveled to Cleveland, Latrobe, Tionesta and Ligonier. He is employed in transportation.

Steve plans to stay busy around the house at odd jobs until his son, Steven, begins summer vacation from the Presentation Parochial School. Then the family will set out for Washington to visit two daughters.

The trip will take him and Mrs. Gregor to Texas and Mexico City, California and Las Vegas. "We'll be gone five to six weeks, after I get caught up at home," Gregor chuckles. An employe in the open hearth for 31 years, John is looking forward to his next 13 - weeks vacation in five years already.

UNDECIDED but enjoying the task of thinking about a vacation site is Vincent Maola, 525 Wedgewood St., East Liverpool. Vincent starts his long vacation in October, re-He is employed in the open hearth and has worked at Crucible for 30 years.

Carman Cananzi, 465 Ohio Ave., Midland will combine business and pleasure, so to speak, on his vacation which starts June 28.

Carman's hobby is show dogs and he owns an international champion, silky terrier breed. Too Valuable To Replace

Fire Alarm Panel Serves At 65

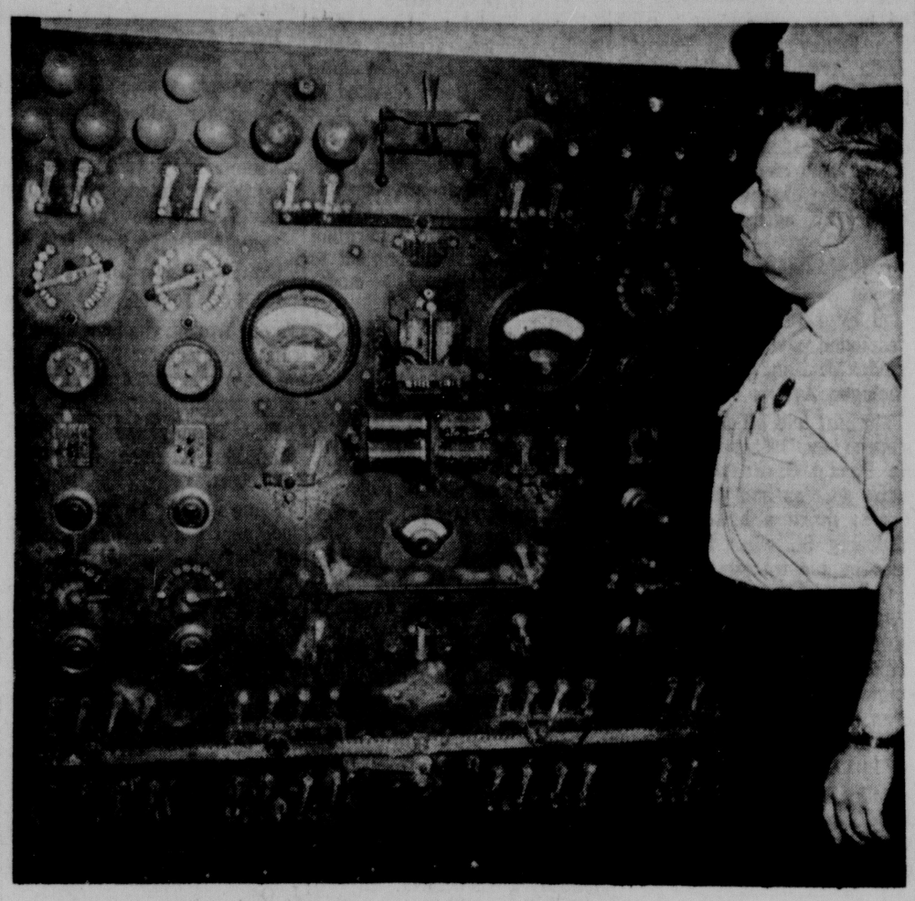

By HARRY STEWART

A piece of electrical equipment which controls Wellsville's fire alarm system has passed "Social Security age," but is in top shape and will remain on the job—because it would cost them between $75,000 and $100,000 to replace it.

The heavy 66-year-old control board, located on the second floor of the Fire Station at 9th and Main Sts., consists of a complex series of relay switches, rectifiers, transformers and meters.

It was originally purchased in 1898 through the efforts of the volunteer fire department, and is one of the oldest in use in this district.

After it was secured, it was presented to the city for a token sum of $1. The actual cost is not known, but Fire Chief Robert Lewis said the entire system in use today, including alarm boxes on the streets, would cost well over $75,000 to replace.

WHEN THE system was first purchased, the main control board was installed in the City Hall. It was moved to the present location in 1908, when the building—then the Catholic Church—was secured as a fire station.

About 15 to 20 alarm boxes were hooked up when the system was first utilized. As the city grew, more were added until there are now 28 connected.

From time to time the old street boxes have been replaced and the system remodeled to take advantage of the latest innovations, but the board remains the same.

Lewis said the amazing thing is how little the system of alarms has changed since they were first manufactured. Basically, there is very little difference, he said, pointing out it proves the fundamental principle was sound.

When Wellsville installed the alarms, direct current from the streetcar lines was utilized. These were owned by the Steubenville, East Liverpool & Beaver Valley Traction Co.

WHEN THE streetcars were replaced by buses, the board was converted to operate from alternating current which is changed into DC before it actually enters the switches and lines.

Many renovations have been made in the call boxes, Lewis commented. In the old days, when two alarms were turned in simultaneously, one would interfere with the other. Later developments allow multiple alarms to be handled without any confusion. While one alarm is being completed, the other signal "waits" until the first gets through.

The new ones will operate even if one of the two wires is downed. The signal will transmit over the remaining wire. About 20 miles of wire are used.

Just half of the old board is utilized today. Old light bulbs, some of which look as if they were hand-made, light up on the board when a signal is received. These filter out any alternating current that might creep into the system through the rectifiers.

IF ANYTHING goes wrong with the system, such as failure of the power source, a bell immediately begins to ring. It also alerts the department in event a wire is downed.

The board was constructed by the Gamewell Fire Alarm Telegraph Co. of Newton, Mass. The firm still is in operation and is one of the largest manufacturers of alarm systems. The instruments on the panel, such as old meters to tell the current flow, were built by Weston Electrical Instrument Co. of Newark, N. J.

The patents on the board go back to 1889.

LEWIS SAID the newer models are only about a quarter the size. The board stands over 6-feet tall.

The old contact points are made of extremely heavy copper. These show very little signs of wear. The new board definitely are not built as heavy, although they provide many more advantages.

Basically, the old system operates soundly and does not cause any undue trouble, the chief said, although it's operation is limited, because some new types of equipment require different relays and switches.

Girl Describes Quake

Daughter Of Ex-City Man Writes Of Disaster

The girls had just finished dying Easter Eggs and were writing names on chocolate ones when the house began to rock and dishes and glassware began to crash to the floors. There were screams, "Get to the doors!"

That's the way the 14-year-old daughter of a former city man described the catastrophic earthquake which rocked Alaska March 27, leaving 129 dead or missing and damage exceeding $350 billion.

Cheryl Givens, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Givens of Anchorage, wrote this week to her cousin, Janet Haught of 9th Ave., LaCroft, a senior at East Liverpool High School.

Cheryl, born and raised in the nation's 49th state where her father is employed at the Anchorage Airport, wrote she was at her grandmother's home when the violent quake struck. Her mother was at home and her father was working.

She said the group at her grandmother's home stood under doorways, holding onto the doorframes.

"We were facing the cupboards with dishes in them. When it really started to rock, the dishes were flying at us.

"Amazing as it seems, we only got a few cuts on the bottom of our feet." Another cousin — Marita — suffered a larger cut on one foot.

"We kept rocking for it seemed hours." When the shaking ended, they thought it was over. "We started through the broken glass on the floor to the living room when it started shaking again. The second time it didn't last as long."

Altogether, the quake lasted four minutes and 37 seconds, she said.

"Boy, was I scared—I still haven't stopped shaking. Everybody was all shook up and crying. Especially me, I was so worried abour Mom and Dad and all our relatives."

"As soon as she could get through the traffic, Mom came over. Then Dad came to see if we were all right, but he had to get back to work. He told us that three men were trapped in the airport tower."

"We decided to go over to our house because we had a fireplace — there wasn't any heat or electricity or water or sewer all over town.

"We had to use a camp stove to cook the baby's formula and the fireplace to keep warm. We slept in our clothes until Monday night—in fact, Friday, we slept with our boots on — we were afraid of another earthquake or a tidal wave."

"Friday night nine people slept in our house, and Saturday night 19 people, because we had a fireplace to keep warm."

Cheryl said they began to learn of the tremendous destruction and the loss of friends. "My biology teacher was killed in her home and her husband is in critical condition."

"All our biggest and newest buildings were destroyed or are going to be because they are condemned." She said she had a new $22 bathing suit laid away at one of the large stores which was wrecked.

"Our new $6 million West High School was destroyed—It is only about nine blocks from our house."

"The area where we live was the worst hit. Homes were completely destroyed. They have been working since the quake to salvage items from these houses."

"You could never imagine how wrecked everything is. Some buildings were just flattened, others went into big cracks in the earth, some fell off a cliff into the sea."

"So many people have been left homeless. We are taking care of a little girl who lost her home. We lost all our lamps and almost all our dishes; I guess the next time we will have to buy some new dishes when we are there."

"We've been out of school all week, and won't go back until Monday (April 6) because they are repairing the schools."

Cheryl, obviously gripped by the staggering effects of the quake, but still feeling responsible to her duties, concluded,

"Well, I have to get to my homework. I really don't want to, but it has to be done."

Stamps In The News

Twenty - eight years before Columbus discovered America, the first meeting of the Dutch States General was held. To commemorate the 500th anniversary of this historical event, the Netherlands has issued a new 12 - cent stamp.

The stamp which is yellowish green was designed by T. Kurpershoek at Amsterdam and depicts the Knight's Hall at the Hague. Above the building is the inscription in Dutch "Five Hundredth Anniversary States General 9 January 1964." Also reported from the Netherlands is a stamp commemorating the 150th anniversary of the foundation of the Kingdom of the Netherlands.

This is a 5-cent value and the second in the series. Previously a four center was issued. Both have the same design featuring the arrival of the Prince of Orange at Schevingen.

The U. S. commemorative stamp honoring John James Audubon is a best seller, announces the Post Office Department in Washington. In fact it has proved so popular that 20 million additional stamps have been printed. Only infrequently do plates go back on the press after a stamp run. This particular stamp was issued last December and depicted an Audobon aquatint of Columbia jays.

The initial printing was 130 million. It was the third in the fine arts series of stamps based on the works of American painters. Earlier, Frederic Remington's "The Smoke Signal" and Winslow Homer's "Breezing Up" were also highly regarded. The 1964 stamp described in this column previously reproduces an oil by Charles M. Russell, artist of the Old West, and is a scene at cattle round-up time.

Italy has issued two new stamps honoring the 400th anniversary of the birth of Galileo. The 30 lire and 70 lire bear a portrait of his signature. Another famous Italian to be honored philatelically is Michelangelo who appears on a 30 lire and 185 lire.

It was announced by Robert L. Davidson, president of the American Philatelic Congress, that plans are now being made for a Civil War Centennial Philatelic luncheon to be held Sept. 18 in Washington. To celebrate the 30th anniversary of the congress, special efforts are being made to prepare an outstanding program. Unusual Civil War philatelic material will be displayed and discussed.

Formed In 1932

Midland Area Served By Active Chamber Unit

VETERAN SECRETARY. Truman E. Rodfong, first fulltime secretary of the Midland Chamber of Commerce who served from 1935 to 1954, is shown with Earl Rankin, present secretary.

A vital force behind the development and improvement of Midland and vicinity has been the Midland Area Chamber of Commerce, founded in 1932 as the Business Men's Association.

With their goals set at the growth and promotion of the borough, the organization continued as the Board of Trade until 1954 when the title of Chamber of Commerce was adopted under the leadership of David Schwerha, president.

WITH ENLARGEMENT of the scope of development, the Chamber in 1962 took on the present name of Midland Area Chamber of Commerce.

The organization has been instrumental in starting or aiding many service activities, such as the traditional school-community picnic, and has cooperated with Council and the steelworkers union in pushing projects like the Veterans Swimming Pool and the new Midland - Shippingport Bridge.

Through the Retail Division, headed by Marvin Bahm, several sales promotions, including two semi-annual "Dollar Days," are held.

The Chamber also sponsors a Mother-of-the-Year contest, prizes for Halloween decorating, Christmas street decorations and other events.

THE ORGANIZATION'S furthur interest in civic affairs is shown in making arrangements for the annual visit of the mobile X-ray unit (due Tuesday), participating in the Fourth of July fete, support of air pollution control, aiding the United Fund drive and helping set up the Western Beaver County Area Development Committee.

The membership currently numbers about 90, with merchants, professional men, industrial figures and others represented.

Eighteen men have served as presidents in the past. The present officers are Guy E. Gengerella, president; Glenn Dawson, vice president; Charles Finley, treasurer, and Earl Rankin, executive secretary.

Medical News

CHICAGO — An epileptic is no more a potential murderer than the so-called normal individual, Dr. Samuel Livingston of Baltimore said in an editorial in the current Journal of the American Medical Association.

The impression that epilepsy was related to murder and crimes of passion which might have been gained from the Jack Ruby trial also was refuted in a letter signed by five expert witnesses published in the Journal.

"To my knowledge, there are no reports in the current medical literature which prove that there is a higher rate of criminal action among epileptics than among other individuals," Dr. Livingston said.

"Based on my 27 years of specializing in the treatment, study, and contact with the course of living of some 15,000 epileptic patients on every social level, I can state positively that the instance of crimes committed by these patients was no greater than —even showed no difference from — that in a similar number of nonepileptics."

Dr. Livingston pointed out that about 1 in-100 persons suffer epilepsy, more than the number of persons with diabetes or tuberculosis. The epileptic, he added, like the person with tuberculosis or poliomyelitis has a better chance than ever before of recovering and living normally, with good medical care and understanding from his associates.

Midland Meters Net $550 Monthly

There are 223 units along Midland Ave. between 2nd and 9th Sts. while another 65 are along the side streets from 4th to 8th Sts.

On three streets -- 6th, 7th and 8th — the meters extend to Beaver Ave.

The remaining 65 meters are the newest, installed in the three borough parking lots in 1963. Parking Lot One, adjacent to Isaly's Store, and Parking Lot Two, next to the Steelworkers headquarters, have 18 meters each while Lot Three by the A. & P. Store has 24 meters.

These meters cost $65 each. The borough's original meters were first installed in 1947.

Parking meter coins are collected by the police department about twice a month. The funds are turned over to the Municipal Authority which governs the metering program.

Meters are used primarily to control parking, giving motorists equal opportunity to find a place to leave their autos.

Man Got All Flying Lessons In One Day

Anxious to start using the plane his employer recently bought, Devine made 70 takeoffs and landings at St. Cloud Airport Friday between 6 a.m. and 7:15 p.m., when he was checked out on two required solo flights.

DeVine, 30, the father of four, will use the plane in his job of selling printed forms to banks.

Too Valuable To Replace

Fire Alarm Panel Serves At 65

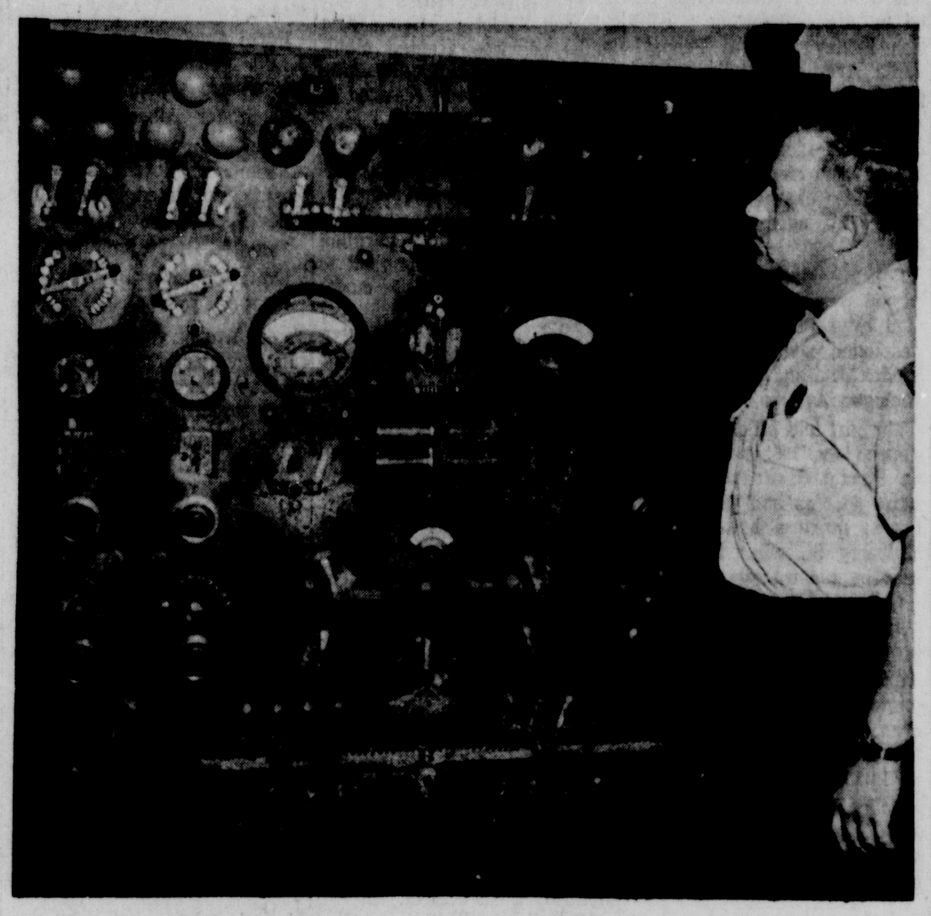

By HARRY STEWART

A piece of electrical equipment which controls Wellsville's fire alarm system has passed "Social Security age," but is in top shape and will remain on the job—because it would cost them between $75,000 and $100,000 to replace it.

The heavy 66-year-old control board, located on the second floor of the Fire Station at 9th and Main Sts., consists of a complex series of relay switches, rectifiers, transformers and meters.

It was originally purchased in 1898 through the efforts of the volunteer fire department, and is one of the oldest in use in this district.

After it was secured, it was presented to the city for a token sum of $1. The actual cost is not known, but Fire Chief Robert Lewis said the entire system in use today, including alarm boxes on the streets, would cost well over $75,000 to replace.

WHEN THE system was first purchased, the main control board was installed in the City Hall. It was moved to the present location in 1908, when the building—then the Catholic Church—was secured as a fire station.

About 15 to 20 alarm boxes were hooked up when the system was first utilized. As the city grew, more were added until there are now 28 connected.

From time to time the old street boxes have been replaced and the system remodeled to take advantage of the latest innovations, but the board remains the same.

Lewis said the amazing thing is how little the system of alarms has changed since they were first manufactured. Basically, there is very little difference, he said, pointing out it proves the fundamental principle was sound.

When Wellsville installed the alarms, direct current from the streetcar lines was utilized. These were owned by the Steubenville, East Liverpool & Beaver Valley Traction Co.

WHEN THE streetcars were replaced by buses, the board was converted to operate from alternating current which is changed into DC before it actually enters the switches and lines.

Many renovations have been made in the call boxes, Lewis commented. In the old days, when two alarms were turned in simultaneously, one would interfere with the other. Later developments allow multiple alarms to be handled without any confusion. While one alarm is being completed, the other signal "waits" until the first gets through.

The new ones will operate even if one of the two wires is downed. The signal will transmit over the remaining wire. About 20 miles of wire are used.

Just half of the old board is utilized today. Old light bulbs, some of which look as if they were hand-made, light up on the board when a signal is received. These filter out any alternating current that might creep into the system through the rectifiers.

IF ANYTHING goes wrong with the system, such as failure of the power source, a bell immediately begins to ring. It also alerts the department in event a wire is downed.

The board was constructed by the Gamewell Fire Alarm Telegraph Co. of Newton, Mass. The firm still is in operation and is one of the largest manufacturers of alarm systems. The instruments on the panel, such as old meters to tell the current flow, were built by Weston Electrical Instrument Co. of Newark, N. J.

The patents on the board go back to 1889.

LEWIS SAID the newer models are only about a quarter the size. The board stands over 6-feet tall.

The old contact points are made of extremely heavy copper. These show very little signs of wear. The new board definitely are not built as heavy, although they provide many more advantages.

Basically, the old system operates soundly and does not cause any undue trouble, the chief said, although it's operation is limited, because some new types of equipment require different relays and switches.

Girl Describes Quake

Daughter Of Ex-City Man Writes Of Disaster

The girls had just finished dying Easter Eggs and were writing names on chocolate ones when the house began to rock and dishes and glassware began to crash to the floors. There were screams, "Get to the doors!"

That's the way the 14-year-old daughter of a former city man described the catastrophic earthquake which rocked Alaska March 27, leaving 129 dead or missing and damage exceeding $350 billion.

Cheryl Givens, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Givens of Anchorage, wrote this week to her cousin, Janet Haught of 9th Ave., LaCroft, a senior at East Liverpool High School.

Cheryl, born and raised in the nation's 49th state where her father is employed at the Anchorage Airport, wrote she was at her grandmother's home when the violent quake struck. Her mother was at home and her father was working.

She said the group at her grandmother's home stood under doorways, holding onto the doorframes.

"We were facing the cupboards with dishes in them. When it really started to rock, the dishes were flying at us.

"Amazing as it seems, we only got a few cuts on the bottom of our feet." Another cousin — Marita — suffered a larger cut on one foot.

"We kept rocking for it seemed hours." When the shaking ended, they thought it was over. "We started through the broken glass on the floor to the living room when it started shaking again. The second time it didn't last as long."

Altogether, the quake lasted four minutes and 37 seconds, she said.

"Boy, was I scared—I still haven't stopped shaking. Everybody was all shook up and crying. Especially me, I was so worried abour Mom and Dad and all our relatives."

"As soon as she could get through the traffic, Mom came over. Then Dad came to see if we were all right, but he had to get back to work. He told us that three men were trapped in the airport tower."

"We decided to go over to our house because we had a fireplace — there wasn't any heat or electricity or water or sewer all over town.

"We had to use a camp stove to cook the baby's formula and the fireplace to keep warm. We slept in our clothes until Monday night—in fact, Friday, we slept with our boots on — we were afraid of another earthquake or a tidal wave."

"Friday night nine people slept in our house, and Saturday night 19 people, because we had a fireplace to keep warm."

Cheryl said they began to learn of the tremendous destruction and the loss of friends. "My biology teacher was killed in her home and her husband is in critical condition."

"All our biggest and newest buildings were destroyed or are going to be because they are condemned." She said she had a new $22 bathing suit laid away at one of the large stores which was wrecked.

"Our new $6 million West High School was destroyed—It is only about nine blocks from our house."

"The area where we live was the worst hit. Homes were completely destroyed. They have been working since the quake to salvage items from these houses."

"You could never imagine how wrecked everything is. Some buildings were just flattened, others went into big cracks in the earth, some fell off a cliff into the sea."

"So many people have been left homeless. We are taking care of a little girl who lost her home. We lost all our lamps and almost all our dishes; I guess the next time we will have to buy some new dishes when we are there."

"We've been out of school all week, and won't go back until Monday (April 6) because they are repairing the schools."

Cheryl, obviously gripped by the staggering effects of the quake, but still feeling responsible to her duties, concluded,

Stamps In The News

Twenty - eight years before Columbus discovered America, the first meeting of the Dutch States General was held. To commemorate the 500th anniversary of this hisorical event, the Netherlands has issued a new 12 - cent stamp.

The stamp which is yellowish green was designed by T. Kurpershoek at Amsterdam and depicts the Knight's Hall at the Hague. Above the building is the inscription in Dutch "Five Hundredth Anniversary States General 9 January 1964." Also reported from the Netherlands is a stamp commemorating the 150th anniversary of the foundation of the Kingdom of the Netherlands.

This is a 5-cent value and the second in the series. Previously a four center was issued. Both have the same design featuring the arrival of the Prince of Orange at Schevingen.

The U. S. commemorative stamp honoring John James Audubon is a best seller, announces the Post Office Department in Washington. In fact it has proved so popular that 20 million additional stamps have been printed. Only infrequently do plates go back on the press after a stamp run. This particular stamp was issued last December and depicted an Audobon aquatint of Columbia jays.

The initial printing was 130 million. It was the third in the fine arts series of stamps based on the works of American painters. Earlier, Frederic Remington's "The Smoke Signal" and Winslow Homer's "Breezing Up" were also highly regarded. The 1964 stamp described in this column previously reproduces an oil by Charles M. Russell, artist of the Old West, and is a scene at cattle round-up time.

It was announced by Robert L. Davidson, president of the American Philatelic Congress, that plans are now being made for a Civil War Centennial Philatelic luncheon to be held Sept. 18 in Washington. To celebrate the 30th anniversary of the congress, special efforts are being made to prepare an outstanding program. Unusual Civil War philatelic material will be displayed and discussed.

Midland Area Served By Active Chamber Unit

A vital force behind the development and improvement of Midland and vicinity has been the Midland Area Chamber of Commerce, founded in 1932 as the Business Men's Association.

With their goals set at the growth and promotion of the borough, the organization continued as the Board of Trade until 1954 when the title of Chamber of Commerce was adopted under the leadership of David Schwerha, president.

WITH ENLARGEMENT of the scope of development, the Chamber in 1962 took on the present name of Midland Area Chamber of Commerce.

The organization has been instrumental in starting or aiding many service activities, such as the traditional school-community picnic, and has cooperated with Council and the steelworkers union in pushing projects like the Veterans Swimming Pool and the new Midland - Shippingport Bridge.

Through the Retail Division, headed by Marvin Bahm, several sales promotions, including two semi-annual "Dollar Days," are held.

The Chamber also sponsors a Mother-of-the-Year contest, prizes for Halloween decorating, Christmas street decorations and other events.

THE ORGANIZATION'S furthur interest in civic affairs is shown in making arrangements for the annual visit of the mobile X-ray unit (due Tuesday), participating in the Fourth of July fete, support of air pollution control, aiding the United Fund drive and helping set up the Western Beaver County Area Development Committee.

The membership currently numbers about 90, with merchants, professional men, industrial figures and others represented.

Eighteen men have served as presidents in the past. The present officers are Guy E. Gengerella, president; Glenn Dawson, vice president; Charles Finley, treasurer, and Earl Rankin, executive secretary.

Medical News

CHICAGO — An epileptic is no more a potential murderer than the so-called normal individual, Dr. Samuel Livingston of Baltimore said in an editorial in the current Journal of the American Medical Association.

The impression that epilepsy was related to murder and crimes of passion which might have been gained from the Jack Ruby trial also was refuted in a letter signed by five expert witnesses published in the Journal.

"To my knowledge, there are no reports in the current medical literature which prove that there is a higher rate of criminal action among epileptics than among other individuals," Dr. Livingston said.

"Based on my 27 years of specializing in the treatment, study, and contact with the course of living of some 15,000 epileptic patients on every social level, I can state positively that the instance of crimes committed by these patients was no greater than —even showed no difference from — that in a similar number of nonepileptics."

Dr. Livingston pointed out that about 1 in-100 persons suffer epilepsy, more than the number of persons with diabetes or tuberculosis. The epileptic, he added, like the person with tuberculosis or poliomyelitis has a better chance than ever before of recovering and living normally, with good medical care and understanding from his associates.

Midland Meters Net $550 Monthly

There are 223 units along Midland Ave. between 2nd and 9th Sts. while another 65 are along the side streets from 4th to 8th Sts.

On three streets -- 6th, 7th and 8th — the meters extend to Beaver Ave.

The remaining 65 meters are the newest, installed in the three borough parking lots in 1963. Parking Lot One, adjacent to Isaly's Store, and Parking Lot Two, next to the Steelworkers headquarters, have 18 meters each while Lot Three by the A. & P. Store has 24 meters.

These meters cost $65 each. The borough's original meters were first installed in 1947.

Parking meter coins are collected by the police department about twice a month. The funds are turned over to the Municipal Authority which governs the metering program.

Meters are used primarily to control parking, giving motorists equal opportunity to find a place to leave their autos.

Man Got All Flying Lessons In One Day

Anxious to start using the plane his employer recently bought, Devine made 70 takeoffs and landings at St. Cloud Airport Friday between 6 a.m. and 7:15 p.m., when he was checked out on two required solo flights.

DeVine, 30, the father of four, will use the plane in his job of selling printed forms to banks.

Judge Issues Injunction In Racial Crisis

CLEVELAND (AP)—Only 10 civil rights demonstrators may picket from now on at each new school construction site in Cleveland and they may not interfere with work or traffic in the area.

These two points are part of a permanent injunction issued Friday night by Common Pleas Judge John V. Corrigan. He acted after hearing both sides in the city's newest racial crisis state their cases at a five-hour hearing.

The judge's ruling lifts a ban on school construction he put into effect Wednesday. The ban followed the death of a young white Presbyterian minister which touched off a wave of violence.

Mayor Ralph S. Locher, who attempted to mediate the dispute, said he was pleased with Judge Corrigan's decision.

"The City of Cleveland will make sure the construction goes forward and that violence will be effectively dealt with," Locher said.

Corrigan made the order permanent at the request of attorneys for civil rights groups. They indicated they would appeal the order to the U. S. Supreme Court if necessary. The temporary order sought by the city could not be appealed.

Limited picketing will be allowed as long as it is restricted to sidewalks and as long as the demonstrators "conscientiously observe this order," the judge said.

Under the order pickets cannot participate in violence, trespass at sites where two grade schools are now under construction, or incite any "mob activity."

Violators may be fined up to $500 and imprisoned up to 10 days.

City officials sought a temporary restraining order after the minister accidentally was crushed to death by a bulldozer Tuesday. He was participating in a civil rights demonstration which began with about 150 pickets.

The judge had banned both picketing and further work at the sites until school and civil rights leaders met to work out a truce.

Corrigan, a 44-year-old jurist, stepped into the school integration dispute at City Hall Wednesday night. He helped work out a truce agreement at a closed-door meeting.

The judge's original court order was to have been extended for possibly a month under the terms of that truce, provided those in dispute attempted to find a solution.

Corrigan changed his mind and went ahead with the injunction hearing after the truce did not materialize. School Board President Ralph A. McAllister had attacked the truce as "a victory for anarchy." Some other board members privately said they were behind McAllister.

The main stumbling block seemed to be the appointment of a 10-man committee and some outside experts to study the whole school integration problem. Civil rights leaders were to okay the five proposed by the school board.

30 Towns In 20 Counties In Ohio Have No Doctors

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—"Is there a doctor in the house?" the comedian roars to shrieks of laughter.

But in scores of Ohio communities there is never a doctor in the house, because there is no doctor in the town.

A pamphlet of the Ohio State Medical Association lists some 30 towns in 20 counties with the story: "No physicians in the area."

And another set of figures shows almost 200 Ohio towns, with up to 5,000 residents, having only one physician.

"I don't know what's wrong. It's been 10 years since we've had a doctor here," said Mrs. Arthur Shull of Sugar Grove (area population, 3,000) in Fairfield County.

"We have to go to New Lexington," explained Glenn Dickson of Junction City, an area of 1,800 residents in Perry County. "It's only five miles, but the doctors there are so busy they don't want any new patients."

What's wrong, according to Hart Page who handles physician placement for the state medical association, is the town's inability to sell itself to a new young doctor.

Page explained the situation in these terms:

"A young physician usually meets his wife at the metropolitan medical center. She's a city girl and it would be a difficult adjustment for her in a non-progressive town. It's difficult to ask a young physician to invest his life in an area if the community is not interested."

In a recent survey conducted by the Ohio Academy of General Practice of Ohio's Chambers of Commerce, 60 per cent of the responses indicated a shortage of family doctors.

The Freeport area, in the southwestern corner of Harrison County, published a brochure to say that "4,000 worried people are looking for a new doctor."

The pamphlet explained the townspeople, nearby hospital facilities, pharmacy facilities, office space, homes, schools, churches and civic groups.

It worked.

In way, though, the problem is solving itself. "There is a tendency toward county seat medical service," Page explained." "The superhighway is changing the face of medical practice. It is just as quick for a doctor to drive 10 miles in a rural area than for a city doctor to get around in the traffic of a large city."

Page said new highways also make the doctor's office more accessible and heated automobiles allow transportation of more patients to the doctor's office where better equipment is available.

Dr. Frank M. Good of Toledo, reporting on a survey of the 1955 and 1959 graduating classes of three Ohio medical schools, said within that four year period there was a decrease of 12 per cent in the number of family doctors entering.

"The people of this state are entitled to more consideration," he said in his report to the academy. "I do not think they should be required to assist, through their tax dollars, medical schools which pay little more than lip service to community health needs.

Firemen In Glenmoor Hold Training Session

Nineteen attended a meeting of Glenmoor volunteer firemen Thursday night, when Chief Kenneth Mills conducted training on a portable pump and a truck at a nearby stream.

There will be no meeting of the department next Thursday night, although the executive officers will convene. Firemen are to attend a meeting of the Tri-State Firemen's Association at LaCroft.

Hookstown Firemen Get New Pickup Truck

A new $2,680 pickup truck, to be used as a fire truck, was delivered to the Hookstown volunteer fire department Thursday night.

Fire equipment will be installed on the three-quarters-ton Dodge which has four-wheel drive. It will be used for brush fires and other emergencies where a smaller truck could travel better than the large fire truck of the department.

Twenty attended. Next meeting will be April 23.

Trucker Cited For Collision

A Sewickley trucker was cited by police following a collision Friday night at Pennsylvania Ave. and Mulberry St., police reported.

Thomas P. Lively, 22, was accused of failing to stop within the assured clear distance and on a state charge dealing with reciprocity agreements, police said.

Police said the crash involved the westbound tractor operated by Lively and a stopped westbound sedan operated by Sandra J. Hancock, 17, of 1828 Michigan Ave.

The girl told officers she had stopped the 1961 sedan owned by Donald S. Hancock of the same address and was preparing to make a left turn onto Mulberry St. when hit in the rear by the tractor - trailer.

Lively maintained she had pulled from a position parallel to the curb into the path of his truck and then stopped almost immediately. He said he didn't even have time to apply the brakes. The mishap was timed at 10:13 p.m.

Cutting Torch Starts Fire In Lisbon Plant

Lisbon firemen said a cutting torch operated by an employe of an East Liverpool scrap metal firm caused a blaze in the roof of a transformer building at the former R. Thomas Works at Lisbon Friday at 2:15 p. m. Damage was estimated at $500.

Firemen said the torch operator for the Sam Caplan junk yard was cutting up an old transformer when the oil caught fire, igniting the wooden roof of the abandoned two - story brick building on the former H. K. Porter Co. property. The plant is being dismantled after sale of the equipment last Tuesday. The transformer house has not been used for over 15 years, firemen said.

Senior Citizens Plan Salem Trip On May 16

Plans to attend a hobby show in Salem May 16 were discussed at a meeting of the Senior Citizens Group Thursday afternoon at the Parish Hall of St. Stephen's Episcopal Church. The group plans to charter Two buses.

Guest speaker was George Shaw, business manager of The Review, who told of the production of a newspaper. A question-and - answer period followed. Charles Pirtchett, president, introduced the speaker and conducted business.

Refreshments were served 129, including four guests, by Mrs. Nettie Scheffer, Mrs. Vida Jordan, Mrs. Berland Sheets and Mrs. Martha Glass. Next meeting will be Thursday.

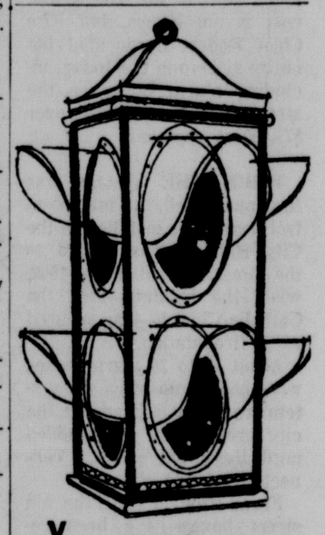

Midland Library Event Canceled

The program planned for the observance of National Library Week at Midland Carnegie Library next week has been canceled because of the recent death of School Supt. Ralph H. Jewell, Mrs. Thelma Wiegel, librarian, announced.

There will be a book display in the window of the McGeehan Agency on Midland Ave. during the observance.

Mrs. Wiegel said Midland residents may visit the library next week and view the new books. The theme for this year is "Reading is the Key."

Those with hobbies are asked to bring the items for display at the library. Hobby displays will also be appreciated after the observance. During the 1965 observance, Mrs. Aileen Benninghoff of Brecksville, Ohio, is scheduled to present a book review, Mrs. Wiegel said.

Judge Issues Injunction In Racial Crisis

CLEVELAND (AP)—Only 10 civil rights demonstrators may picket from now on at each new school construction site in Cleveland and they may not interfere with work or traffic in the area.

These two points are part of a permanent injunction issued Friday night by Common Pleas Judge John V. Corrigan. He acted after hearing both sides in the city's newest racial crisis state their cases at a five-hour hearing.

The judge's ruling lifts a ban on school construction he put into effect Wednesday. The ban followed the death of a young white Presbyterian minister which touched off a wave of violence.

Mayor Ralph S. Locher, who attempted to mediate the dispute, said he was pleased with Judge Corrigan's decision.

"The City of Cleveland will make sure the construction goes forward and that violence will be effectively dealt with," Locher said.

Corrigan made the order permanent at the request of attorneys for civil rights groups. They indicated they would appeal the order to the U. S. Supreme Court if necessary. The temporary order sought by the city could not be appealed.

Limited picketing will be allowed as long as it is restricted to sidewalks and as long as the demonstrators "conscientiously observe this order," the judge said.

Under the order pickets cannot participate in violence, trespass at sites where two grade schools are now under construction, or incite any "mob activity."

Violators may be fined up to $500 and imprisoned up to 10 days.

City officials sought a temporary restraining order after the minister accidentally was crushed to death by a bulldozer Tuesday. He was participating in a civil rights demonstration which began with about 150 pickets.

The judge had banned both picketing and further work at the sites until school and civil rights leaders met to work out a truce.

Corrigan, a 44-year-old jurist, stepped into the school integration dispute at City Hall Wednesday night. He helped work out a truce agreement at a closed-door meeting.

The judge's original court order was to have been extended for possibly a month under the terms of that truce, provided those in dispute attempted to find a solution.

Corrigan changed his mind and went ahead with the injunction hearing after the truce did not materialize. School Board President Ralph A. McAllister had attacked the truce as "a victory for anarchy." Some other board members privately said they were behind McAllister.

The main stumbling block seemed to be the appointment of a 10-man committee and some outside experts to study the whole school integration problem. Civil rights leaders were to okay the five proposed by the school board.

In Pamphlet Of Medical Assn.

30 Towns In 20 Counties In Ohio Have No Doctors

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—"Is there a doctor in the house?" the comedian roars to shrieks of laughter.

But in scores of Ohio communities there is never a doctor in the house, because there is no doctor in the town.

A pamphlet of the Ohio State Medical Association lists some 30 towns in 20 counties with the story: "No physicians in the area."

And another set of figures shows almost 200 Ohio towns, with up to 5,000 residents, having only one physician.

"I don't know what's wrong. It's been 10 years since we've had a doctor here," said Mrs. Arthur Shull of Sugar Grove (area population, 3,000) in Fairfield County.

"We have to go to New Lexington," explained Glenn Dickson of Junction City, an area of 1,800 residents in Perry County. "It's only five miles, but the doctors there are so busy they don't want any new patients."

What's wrong, according to Hart Page who handles physician placement for the state medical association, is the town's inability to sell itself to a new young doctor.

Page explained the situation in these terms:

"A young physician usually meets his wife at the metropolitan medical center. She's a city girl and it would be a difficult adjustment for her in a non-progressive town. It's difficult to ask a young physician to invest his life in an area if the community is not interested."

In a recent survey conducted by the Ohio Academy of General Practice of Ohio's Chambers of Commerce, 60 per cent of the responses indicated a shortage of family doctors.

The Freeport area, in the southwestern corner of Harrison County, published a brochure to say that "4,000 worried people are looking for a new doctor."

The pamphlet explained the townspeople, nearby hospital facilities, pharmacy facilities, office space, homes, schools, churches and civic groups.

It worked.

In way, though, the problem is solving itself. "There is a tendency toward county seat medical service," Page explained." "The superhighway is changing the face of medical practice. It is just as quick for a doctor to drive 10 miles in a rural area than for a city doctor to get around in the traffic of a large city."

Page said new highways also make the doctor's office more accessible and heated automobiles allow transportation of more patients to the doctor's office where better equipment is available.

Dr. Frank M. Good of Toledo, reporting on a survey of the 1955 and 1959 graduating classes of three Ohio medical schools, said within that four year period there was a decrease of 12 per cent in the number of family doctors entering.

"The people of this state are entitled to more consideration," he said in his report to the academy. "I do not think they should be required to assist, through their tax dollars, medical schools which pay little more than lip service to community health needs.

Hookstown Firemen Get New Pickup Truck

A new $2,680 pickup truck, to be used as a fire truck, was delivered to the Hookstown volunteer fire department Thursday night.

Fire equipment will be installed on the three-quarters-ton Dodge which has four-wheel drive. It will be used for brush fires and other emergencies where a smaller truck could travel better than the large fire truck of the department.

Twenty attended. Next meeting will be April 23.

Firemen In Glenmoor Hold Training Session

Nineteen attended a meeting of Glenmoor volunteer firemen Thursday night, when Chief Kenneth Mills conducted training on a portable pump and a truck at a nearby stream.

There will be no meeting of the department next Thursday night, although the executive officers will convene. Firemen are to attend a meeting of the Tri-State Firemen's Association at LaCroft.

Bulldozer Kills Boy

NEW LEXINGTON, Ohio (AP)—Terry Brown, 5, was crushed to death beneath a bulldozer Friday. The boy tumbled off the vehicle his father was driving on a farm at nearby Junction City.

Trucker Cited For Collision

A Sewickley trucker was cited by police following a collision Friday night at Pennsylvania Ave. and Mulberry St., police reported.

Thomas P. Lively, 22, was accused of failing to stop within the assured clear distance and on a state charge dealing with reciprocity agreements, police said.

Police said the crash involved the westbound tractor operated by Lively and a stopped westbound sedan operated by Sandra J. Hancock, 17, of 1828 Michigan Ave.

The girl told officers she had stopped the 1961 sedan owned by Donald S. Hancock of the same address and was preparing to make a left turn onto Mulberry St. when hit in the rear by the tractor - trailer.

Lively maintained she had pulled from a position parallel to the curb into the path of his truck and then stopped almost immediately. He said he didn't even have time to apply the brakes. The mishap was timed at 10:13 p.m.

Lions Delegation Attends Session At Steubenville

Representing the local club are Mr. and Mrs. George McCullough, Mr. and Mrs. Richard Walker, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Haugh, Mr. and Mrs. Donald Duke and Mr. and Mrs. Harold Howard.

Mr. and Mrs. Walker attended a Cabinet dinner - dance Friday night.

At the club's meeting yesterday afternoon at the Travelers Hotel, no nominations were made from the floor to add to the slate selected by the nominating committee.

Nominations also will be permitted next Friday with the election scheduled April 24.

Robert Rine of the Weirton Steel Co. spoke on "You Can't Kill the Umpire". Fred Yonz was program chairman.

Cutting Torch Starts Fire In Lisbon Plant

Lisbon firemen said a cutting torch operated by an employe of an East Liverpool scrap metal firm caused a blaze in the roof of a transformer building at the former R. Thomas Works at Lisbon Friday at 2:15 p. m. Damage was estimated at $500.

Firemen said the torch operator for the Sam Caplan junk yard was cutting up an old transformer when the oil caught fire, igniting the wooden roof of the abandoned two - story brick building on the former H. K. Porter Co. property. The plant is being dismantled after sale of the equipment last Tuesday. The transformer house has not been used for over 15 years, firemen said.

Teen-Age Duo Took City Car

An 18-year-old Pittsburgh youth and his 16-year-old companion were taken into custody in McConnelsville, Ohio, Friday afternoon in a 1956 sedan stolen Thursday night from E. 3rd St., police were advised yesterday.

The Morgan County sheriff's office advised local police they are holding Ronald G. Maurer, 18, and his 16-year-old companion after their arrest in the four - door sedan owned by Regis Watters of John St. The auto, which is in running condition, was taken to a McConnelsville garage.

Waters had reported to police Thursday night that his gold - colored Chevrolet had been taken between 7:45 and 10 p. m.

Police, meanwhile, are continuing to search for two other stolen autos.

A white Chevrolet convertible owned by Kathry T. Mills, 1317 St. Clair Ave., was stolen near her home between 10 p. m. Wednesday and 8:40 a. m. Thursday.

A red 1964 Plymouth hardtop with slightly more than 500 miles, reported stolen at 2:09 a. m. Friday by Richard Maylone, 426 W. 5th St., still hasn't been located, police said.

Papers In Police Test Due Grading

The Municipal Civil Service Commission is scheduled to meet today to grade the examination papers of three men who took a test Friday night to establish a new police department eligibility list.

Because of varying work shifts, members were unable to grade the papers when the examination was completed last night, P. K. Calhoon, clerk, said. Members were to try to work out a suitable time for today.

The test originally was scheduled for March 6 but was delayed until last night because only two applications had been received. Despite several reminders, only one more applicant filed to take the examination.

The eligibliity list will remain in effect for a year. There are no vacancies on the department at present.

New Supplement Updates Original City Code Books

Owners of City Code volumes issued in 1951 now may obtain copies of a new 1963 supplement containing summaries of all general ordinances enacted by Council since publication of the original book, City Solicitor Joseph W. Cooper said today.

The supplements are issued every few years in order to update the original volume. They are available free at the office of Council Clerk L. C. Applegate in City Hall for all persons who own the original volume, the solicitor explained.

The 1963 supplement contains all general ordinances passed between Oct. 22, 1951, and Dec. 31, 1963. It replaces the 1959 supplement.

Copies of the supplement already have been distributed to all city offices which use the code, but few others have called at City Hall for the 66-page publication.

Several dozen copies are awaiting distribution. They may be obtained Monday through Friday from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. and Saturday between 9 a.m. and noon.

Druggist Linked To 'Pep Pill' Case

An Oakland, Pittsburgh, druggist has been arrested in an investigation of a "pep pill" case in which an East Liverpool man allegedly is involved.

Samuel Heyden, 42, druggist, was held for the Federal Grand Jury at Pittsburgh Friday after Robert V. Deal of East Liberty, acting as an intermediary for police and federal agents said he purchased 1,000 of the pills for $35 on three dates last month.

Deal and Rocco Dino, 42, of East Liverpool were arrested March 9 at a truck stop in Mahoning County where sheriff's deputies said they found 2,500 stimulant pills the pair had been trying to sell at a Canfield service station.

Accused of possession of barbiturates and possession of dangerous drugs, Deal and Dino pleaded innocent and were released on bond pending a hearing before Mahoning County Judge Fred J. Gough April 20.

Information from the Mahoning sheriff's investigation and forwarded to Pittsburgh police resulted in the druggist's arrest.

Immunization Clinic Planned At Wellsville

The first pre-school immunization clinic will be held at MacDonald School in Wellsville Thursday from 9 to 11 a. m., according to Mrs. Jean Tipton, city and school nurse.

The second and third clinics will be May 7 and May 28. This is a change of dates for the sessions.

The clinics will be conducted by Dr. George Kemeny, health commissioner, and Mrs. Tipton.

Registered nurses who will assist include Mrs. Jean Marcin, Mrs. Concetta Longo and Mrs. Janet O'Hara. Others aiding will be Mrs. Edna McIntosh, Mrs. Pearl Duck, Mrs. Pat Morris, Mrs. Norma DeFalco, Mrs. Betty Salsberry and Mrs. Geraldine Ferrall.

Recorder Office Lists 547 Instruments Filed

LISBON — The Columbiana County recorder's office recorded 547 instruments, filed 445 and collected $2,503 in fees during March, according to the monthly report of Recorder Richard G. Brian.

Other activity included release of 185 real estate mortgages worth $1,435,432 filing of 403 financing statements and security agreements, with 214 chattel mortgages, financing statements and security agreements terminated.

Forty leases were recorded, of which 35 covered 4,636 acres for oil, gas and coal.

990 To Get Instructions

Election Board Prepares Data For Precinct Staffs

The County Election Board is preparing to mail detailed instructions to the 990 judges and clerks who will staff its 165 precincts for the primary elections May 5.

Frank R. O'Hanlon, clerk, said the three-page letter of instructions will be mailed to the polling place workers about Thursday, April 23.

The instructions will emphasize the need for strict compliance with the law in the voting procedure and a quick, accurate count after the polls close in order that figures may be relayed to Secretary of State Ted W. Brown, O'Hanlon said.

In making the count, precinct officials will be asked to tabulate returns in three sections, making a report to the Election Board or a district collector on each set of totals.

The first section of the count will cover the vote on a proposed state bond issue and the Republican and Democratic tickets from U. S. Senator through district congressman.

The second section will cover GOP and Democratic candidates for county offices. In the third section, the tabulation will be reported on the 7th District Court of Appeals, Common Pleas Court, state central committeemen and committeewomen, and at-large and district delegates and alternates to national conventions.

The lone exception to the general instructions on the count will occur in the East Liverpool district, where the precincts will make a "flash" count on returns on Democratic and Republican races for U. S. Senate nominations as soon as the polls close.

They will report the figures to the Election Board office by telephone. Then the East Liverpool district precincts will follow the order of count prescribed for all other areas in the county.

The instructions will point out that a person who will be 21 on or before Nov. 3 — the general election date — may vote in the primaries if he is qualified otherwise. The procedure is known as "voting on age."

But persons who will be 21 after May 5 do not have a right to vote on a state, county or local subdivision question or issue, the instructions will emphasize.

O'Hanlon said he will point out that law does not allow write-in votes for national convention delegates and alternates or for members of the state or county central committees. But write-in votes may be cast for state, district and county offices.

If a question or issue is submitted, all qualified electors, regardless of party affiliation, have a right to vote on the issue. A voter may obtain a ballot on a special issue, even though he declines to vote in a party primary, O'Hanlon pointed out.

NAACP, CORE Members Picket Paper In Akron

AKRON, Ohio (AP) — Members of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People and the Congress of Racial Equality have picketed the Akron Beacon Journal in a protest against the newspaper's editorial policies.

The orderly picketing was conducted by about 35 persons, mostly Negroes, from 4 to 6 p.m. Friday. It was this city's first racial demonstration.

Church Groups Plan Meeting At Industry

The St. Christine Guild and Confraternity of Christian Mothers will meet Monday at 8 p.m. in the church hall in Industry.

Seventh and eighth grade students will present a program on "The Life of Christ." Clyde Piquet, instructor, will be in charge.

Final plans will be discussed for the fashion show - card party luncheon May 16 in the hall. Mrs. Paul Schake is general chairman.

Mrs. Paul Udon Jr. will be hostess chairman for the meeting.

Checks UMW Pact

New Supplement Updates Original City Code Books

Owners of City Code volumes issued in 1951 now may obtain copies of a new 1963 supplement containing summaries of all general ordinances enacted by Council since publication of the original book, City Solicitor Joseph W. Cooper said today.

The supplements are issued every few years in order to update the original volume. They are available free at the office of Council Clerk L. C. Applegate in City Hall for all persons who own the original volume, the solicitor explained.

Copies of the supplement already have been distributed to all city offices which use the code, but few others have called at City Hall for the 66-page publication.

Several dozen copies are awaiting distribution. They may be obtained Monday through Friday from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. and Saturday between 9 a.m. and noon.

990 To Get Instructions

Election Board Prepares Data For Precinct Staffs

The County Election Board is preparing to mail detailed instructions to the 990 judges and clerks who will staff its 165 precincts for the primary elections May 5.

Frank R. O'Hanlon, clerk, said the three-page letter of instructions will be mailed to the polling place workers about Thursday, April 23.

The instructions will emphasize the need for strict compliance with the law in the voting procedure and a quick, accurate count after the polls close in order that figures may be relayed to Secretary of State Ted W. Brown, O'Hanlon said.

In making the count, precinct officials will be asked to tabulate returns in three sections, making a report to the Election Board or a district collector on each set of totals.

The first section of the count will cover the vote on a proposed state bond issue and the Republican and Democratic tickets from U. S. Senator through district congressman.

The second section will cover GOP and Democratic candidates for county offices. In the third section, the tabulation will be reported on the 7th District Court of Appeals, Common Pleas Court, state central committeemen and committeewomen, and at-large and district delegates and alternates to national conventions.

The lone exception to the general instructions on the count will occur in the East Liverpool district, where the precincts will make a "flash" count on returns on Democratic and Republican races for U. S. Senate nominations as soon as the polls close.

They will report the figures to the Election Board office by telephone. Then the East Liverpool district precincts will follow the order of count prescribed for all other areas in the county.

The instructions will point out that a person who will be 21 on or before Nov. 3 — the general election date — may vote in the primaries if he is qualified otherwise. The procedure is known as "voting on age."

But persons who will be 21 after May 5 do not have a right to vote on a state, county or local subdivision question or issue, the instructions will emphasize.

O'Hanlon said he will point out that law does not allow write-in votes for national convention delegates and alternates or for members of the state or county central committees. But write-in votes may be cast for state, district and county offices.

If a question or issue is submitted, all qualified electors, regardless of party affiliation, have a right to vote on the issue. A voter may obtain a ballot on a special issue, even though he declines to vote in a party primary, O'Hanlon pointed out.

NAACP, CORE Members Picket Paper In Akron

AKRON, Ohio (AP) — Members of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People and the Congress of Racial Equality have picketed the Akron Beacon Journal in a protest against the newspaper's editorial policies.

The orderly picketing was conducted by about 35 persons, mostly Negroes, from 4 to 6 p.m. Friday. It was this city's first racial demonstration.

Eldridge T. Sharpp Jr., chairman of the civil rights committee of the NAACP Akron branch, said the picketing was in protest against the newspaper's editorial stand on a proposed fair housing ordinance.

The ordinance would ban racial discrimination in all Akron housing and "other matters."

Church Groups Plan Meeting At Industry

The St. Christine Guild and Confraternity of Christian Mothers will meet Monday at 8 p.m. in the church hall in Industry.

Seventh and eighth grade students will present a program on "The Life of Christ." Clyde Piquet, instructor, will be in charge.

Final plans will be discussed for the fashion show - card party luncheon May 16 in the hall. Mrs. Paul Schake is general chairman.

Mrs. Paul Udon Jr. will be hostess chairman for the meeting.

Boston Dancers And Eason's Spring Jr. Tourney Upsets

Gengarella's, Gip's Round Out Semi-Final Field Tonight At MA

By BOB DUFFY
Review Sports Editor

There will be no Midland and Uniontown showdown as was expected in the 17th annual Nonpareil Club Junior Basketball Tournament.

Boston's Dancers took care of that very nicely Friday night by pulling the biggest of two upsets which marked the quarter-final round before 450 fans at Memorial Auditorium.

Eason's Insurance, which won the tournament five years ago in 1959, provided the other big surprise when the local combine mopped up the floor with the Stark County All-Stars, a team composed of Canton McKinley and Massillon Regulars, by a 58-46 margin.

GENGARELLA'S gained the semi-finals to defend its tourney crown by walloping White Insurance, 91-43 and Gip's All-Stars made it to the semi-finals the hard way, taking a well-played 74-70 contest from Cornecki A. C. of Beaver Falls in a overtime thriller.

The 17th champion will be crowned tonight and the lineup shows Gengarella's meeting Gip's in what should be a thriller at 7.

THE BOSTON Dancers swing into action at 8:30 against Eason's. Tonight's championship battle will get underway shortly after 10 followed by a gymnastic show between the semi-finals and final game.

Gengarella's, which entered Midland High School, and Riverview Florists had been picked as the pre-tourney favorites.

RIVERVIEW wasn't at full strength since Stu Lantz who played in the opening round Thursday was absent. The Florists had three Uniontown starters plus a few cagers from Youngstown.

Archie McGill of Schenley High School, an all-City selection in Pittsburgh, provided the big scoring punch for Boston's with 21 points. The big rebounder for the Dancers was a freshman by the name of Ken Durrett who is 16 and stands 6-4. He attends a junior high in Pittsburgh but was the top rebounder for both teams and scored 10 points.

The Stark County All - Stars were surprised by a scrappy East Liverpool, Oak Glen and Youngstown Cardinal Mooney combine.

Sam Simmons, Oak Glen's big gun this past season and Bob Forzano, No. 2 scorer for the Potters, paced Eason's with 17 and 16 points respectively. Bruce (Tiger) Burbick added 11 points for the local five.

Dewayne Lipkins and Ray Flannigan top scorers for Canton McKinley this season, led Stark County's losing cause with 20 points each.

THE CAGE fans were treated to an overtime in the opener when Gip's edged Cornecki's, 74-70. The two teams battled to a 67-67 tie at the end of regulation time as Mervin Steeles tied the game for Cornecki with nine seconds to go.

A fine looking sophomore Gregory Howard of 5th Ave. High in Pittsburgh scored five points for Gip's in overtime and wound up with 32 markers for the evening. The 6-7 youngster tallied 14 field goals and four fouls for his total.

IN DEFEAT, New Brighton's John Bane was outstanding and added 21 points to the Cornecki attack.

Larry Davidson, a 6-3 all-stater from Akron Central, joined the Midland varsity and hooped 22 points for Gengarella's while Ron Brown added 21 and Norm Vanlier 16.

BATON ROUGE, La. (AP)—The nation's top women golfers teed up for the first round in the $7,500 Capital City Open today with Mickey Wright trying a comeback after a five-month layoff.

Palmer Leads By 4 In Masters Golf

AUGUSTA, Ga. (AP) — Now Arnie's Army has an air force.

It buzzed the Augusta National Golf Course while Arnold Palmer burned it up down below, and when the "all clear" sounded Palmer had a commanding four-stroke lead after 36 holes of the Masters tournament Friday.

Player, who was even with Palmer in the five-man traffic jam for the lead after the first round, had par 72 for 141.

Champagne Tony Lema, who also had a 68 Friday, stood at 143, six shots behind Palmer, along with British Open champion Bob Charles, the left-hander, Dave Marr and Dow Finster-

Defending champion Jack Nicklaus, the Ohio golden bear, played the long par fives poorly —"I'm supposed to pick up strokes on those and instead I lost them," he said — and finished with a 73 for 144, seven strokes back.

Eleven other players also had 144, including three-time winner Jimmy Demaret and amateur Billy Joe Patton.

The field was cut to the low 44 players and ties. It took 148 to make it.

Nicklaus looked at Palmer's score, and said:

"If old 'One Putt' can shoot two 70's the next two days, nobody is going to catch him. Of course, he might shoot 73 and I might have a 73. I didn't, though."

Palmer, who is rapidly establishing tradition of winning here in the "even" years—he won in 1958, 1960, and 1962 — had the customary aid of the surging Arnie's Army on the ground Friday.

He also got air support.

He calls Nicklaus "Big Jack" in mock tribute to Nicklaus' booming drives. Nicklaus calls Palmer "One Putt."

Pastrano Retains Crown With TKO Over Peralta

By MURRAY ROSE
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — An inch-and-a half cut made a dream come true for light-heavyweight champion Willie Pastrano and ended a dream for Argentina's Gregorio Peralta.

It was the gash over Peralta's left eye that gained Pastrano a sixth-round technical knockout over the challenger in their 15-round title fight in Municipal Auditorium Friday night.

The TKO, in wily Willie's native city, may result in another New Orleans title scrap with Pastrano taking on Bobo Olson, the former middleweight ruler now engaged in a successful comeback campaign as a 175-pounder.

"I've always dreamed of winning a championship fight in New Orleans and now I've done it," said the jubilant Pastrano today. "Now I'd like to fight here again, maybe against Bobo Olson or Harold Johnson, or whoever Angelo says."

Manager Angelo Dundee said, "We'll wait to see what offers we get. Willie will fight anyone if the price is right."

"My dream is lost," moaned Peralta, the handsome contender who had hoped to become the first South American to win the world's light-heavyweight championship. "I could have continued. I was getting stronger. The cut wasn't bothering me too much. It's just bad luck."

The gash was inflicted in the fourth round from what appeared to be a solid right. Pastrano said it was a counter right while Peralta and Johnston claimed it was from a butt.

But, unfortunately for Peralta he is cut prone, and, because of his body-banging attack, wide open for punches to the head.

He suffered a seven-stitch cut over the same eye in his Jan. 24 victory over Californian Wayne Thornton. And he was cut in his upset victory over Pastrano in their nontitle bout Sept. 20.

Pastrano, leading going into the fourth round of the spirited scrap, ripped open the gash early in the fourth and kept peppering it in the rest of the round and in the fifth.

Dr. A. J. Italiano, the ring physician, inspected the cut after the fourth and fifth rounds. After the fifth he told referee Pete Giarrusso to end it. Under Louisiana Commission rules it was recorded as a sixth-round technical knockout.

Giarrusso had it even in rounds, 2-2-1. The two judges had Pastrano ahead. Francis Kercheval had it 4-1 and Herman Dutreix had it 3-1-1. The Associated Press gave Peralta the last three rounds and had him ahead, 3-2.

The defeat was Peralta's first in nearly four years and ended his unbeaten streak at 29. His record is 39-4-4. He was stopped once before on cuts — by Peruvian Mauro Mina. Pastrano, making the first defense of the title he won from Johnson last June 1, has a 62-12-8 record.

Peralta entered the ring as the 7-5 favorite after weighing in at 174¾ pounds. Pastrano weighed the same.

Another Dodger-Yankee World Series Predicted

By JOE REICHLER
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK (AP)—Both the odds-makers and the experts forecast a second successive World Series between the Los Angeles Dodgers and New York Yankees as the 20 major league clubs neared the starting gate for the opening of the 1964 season.

The Yankee managerial switch from Ralph Houk to Yogi Berra has made no difference to the Las Vegas handicappers, who have installed the Yankees as 1-3 favorites. The Dodgers are 6-5.

The concensus is the Dodgers have too much pitching and speed for the rest of the National League while the Yankees have too much of everything for their American League rivals. If the Yankees win, it will mark their fifth straight flag, under three different managers.

Oddly enough, the only new managers are in the American League. Hank Bauer will make his debut as manager of the Baltimore Orioles and George Strickland will fill in at Cleveland for Birdie Tebbetts, hospitalized with a heart attack.

Of the trades made since the close of the 1963 season, the most interesting to watch may be the one in which the San Francisco Giants swapped outfielder Felipe Alou, catcher Ed Bailey and relief pitcher Billy Hoeft to Milwaukee for pitchers Bob Shaw and Bob Hendley and catcher Del Crandall.

The Detroit Tigers, generally regarded as the most-improved club in the American League, made two major deals in which they acquired outfielder Don Demeter from Philadelphia for pitcher Jim Bunning, and second baseman Jerry Lumpe, along with pitchers Ed Rakow and Dave Wickersham, from Kansas City for outfielder Rocky Colavito.

Houston has picked up veteran infielders Nellie Fox and Eddie Kasko. The New York Mets have newcomers in outfielder George Altman, catcher Bob Taylor and infielder Amado Samuel.

In the American League, the Los Angeles Angels have acquired veteran first baseman Joe Adcock and pitcher Barry Latman. Baltimore obtained outfielder Willie Kirkland from Cleveland for Al Smith and first baseman Norm Siebern from Kansas City for Jim Gentile. Bill Skowron will make his bow with the Washington Senators, Leon Wagner with the Indians and pitcher Larry Sherry with the Tigers.

Redskins Get Sam Huff In Giants' Deal

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Washington Redskins, swinging their second major National Football League deal within 10 days, acquired Linebacker Sam Huff from the New York Giants Friday for two players and a draft choice.

Defensive End Andy Stynchula, Halfback Dick James and the Redskins' No. 5 choice in the next draft were sent to the Giants in exchange for Huff and George Seals, rookie defensive lineman of Missouri.

Ten days ago Coach Bill McPeak traded Quarterback Norman Snead and Defensive Back Claude Crabb for two veteran Philadelphia players, Quarterback Sonny Jurgenson and Defensive Halfback Jimmy Carr.

Huff, an eight-year veteran in the league, is rated one of the top middle linebackers in professional football and has been a key player on the Giant team that has won Eastern titles the past three years. He is a grad of West Virginia University.

"It's kind of like getting hit with a bomb," Huff said when informed of the trade. "It's so unexpected I haven't gotten over the shock."

Patterson Golf Loop Will Open April 17

The Patterson Golf League will launch league play April 17 at the Highland Country Club links.

Leafs And Wings Open Series For Hockey Title

By The Associated Press

The Stanley Cup, 71-year-old golden fleece of hockey, goes on the line tonight at Toronto when the defending champion Maple Leafs and form-defying Detroit Red Wings meet in the opener of a best-of-seven series for the National Hockey League post-season title.

The series is a rematch of the 1963 final round, won by Toronto in five games. The prize is $2,000 for each player on the winning team—about $1,950 more than the Cup's value when Canada's Earl Stanley donated it to the Western Canada Hockey League, forerunner of the NHL, in 1893.

The Leafs are favored to repeat—they are seeking a third successive Cup title and 10th in the league's 47-year history. Toronto fashioned an 8-3-3 season edge over Detroit. Furthermore, a fourth-place club has yet to win the post-season championship.

Detroit finished with a rush and nailed the fourth and last playoff berth. Toronto wound up third, beaten by surprise champion Montreal and Chicago.

The Leafs and Wings already have pocketed $1,500 per player for upending the Canadiens and Black Hawks, respectively, in semifinal sets, each of which went the seven-game limit.

The Canadiens, crippled by injuries to Jean Beliveau and Gilles Tremblay, bowed to the underdog Leafs in a bruising series that produced seven penalty records. The Leafs won the deciding game at Montreal 3-1, with Dave Keon scoring all three goals and goalie Johnny Bower stopping 39 shots.

Detroit, led by Norm Ullman's two hat tricks and the incomparable Gordie Howe with 11 scoring points, battled the favored Hawks on even terms for six games and ousted them 4-2 in the tie-breaker at Chicago. Howe had a goal and two assists in the finale.

Terry Sawchuk, Detroit's regular goalie, was in and out of a hospital, result of a pinched nerve in his left shoulder, throughout the series. If Sawchuck, who needs two shutouts to equal Turk Broda's playoff record, can't play, young Roger Crozier will fill in.

The Red Wings, seven-time Cup winners, haven't clicked since 1955. Four members of that club — Howe, Sawchuk, Marcel Pronovost and Alex Delvecchio—are still winging and a fifth, Red Kelly, wears a Toronto Jersey.

The second game of the final set will be played in Toronto next Thursday and Saturday. Other games, if necessary, will alternate between the cities.

Banquet Honors St. Stephen's Church Cagers

Seventeen attended a banquet honoring the basketball squad of St. Stephen's Episcopal Church Friday night in the Travelers Hotel, when awards were presented.

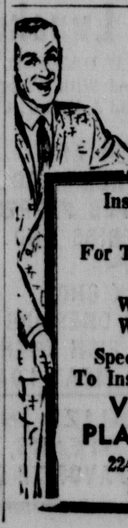

The team finished third in its division in the YMCA Church Basketball League.

Trophies were presented each member of the team. Warm - up jackets with the name of the church inscribed were presented to Jeff Clapsaddle and Dennis Lowe, graduating squadmen.

The Rev. D. Ross Salisbury, rector, was master of ceremonies. Also present were the three coaches of the team, Frank Hancock, Richard Manning and Atty. Jackman Vodrey.

There will be no Midland and Uniontown showdown as was expected in the 17th annual Nonpareil Club Junior Basketball Tournament.

Boston's Dancers took care of that very nicely Friday night by pulling the biggest of two upsets which marked the quarter-final round before 450 fans at Memorial Auditorium.

Ron Boston's team "waltzed" into semi-finals on the strength of a hard-fought 54-53 victory over Riverview Florists which had entered the Uniontown outfit.

Eason's Insurance, which won the tournament five years ago in 1959, provided the other big surprise when the local combine mopped up the floor with the Stark County All-Stars, a team composed of Canton McKinley and Massillon Regulars, by a 58-46 margin.

GENGARELLA'S gained the semi-finals to defend its tourney crown by walloping White Insurance, 91-43 and Gip's All-Stars made it to the semi-finals the hard way, taking a well-played 74-70 contest from Cornecki A. C. of Beaver Falls in a overtime thriller.

The 17th champion will be crowned tonight and the lineup shows Gengarella's meeting Gip's in what should be a thriller at 7.

THE BOSTON Dancers swing into action at 8:30 against Eason's. Tonight's champions hip battle will get underway shortly after 10 followed by a gymnastic show between the semi-finals and final game.

Gengarella's, which entered Midland High School, and Riverview Florists had been picked as the pre-tourney favorites.

Gengarella's made it but Riverview didn't.

In the smartly - played game, Boston's matched Riverview point - for - point and kept the game close finally grabbing the slim lead in the closing minutes and hung on for the victory.

RIVERVIEW wasn't at full strength since Stu Lantz who played in the opening round Thursday was absent. The Florists had three Uniontown starters plus a few cagers from Youngstown.

Riverview held a 27-25 halftime lead and was on top by the same margin at the end of three quarters.

Archie McGill of Schenley High School, an all-City selection in Pittsburgh, provided the big scoring punch for Boston's with 21 points. The big rebounder for the Dancers was a freshman by the name of Ken Durrett who is 16 and stands 6-4. He attends a junior high in Pittsburgh but was the top rebounder for both teams and scored 10 points.

—:—

The Stark County All - Stars were surprised by a scrappy East Liverpool, Oak Glen and Youngstown Cardinal Mooney combine.

Sam Simmons, Oak Glen's big gun this past season and Bob Forzano, No. 2 scorer for the Potters, paced Eason's with 17 and 16 points respectively. Bruce (Tiger) Burbick added 11 points for the local five.

Dewayne Lipkins and Ray Flannigan top scorers for Canton McKinley this season, led Stark County's losing cause with 20 points each.

THE CAGE fans were treated to an overtime in the opener when Gip's edged Cornecki's, 74-70. The two teams battled to a 67-67 tie at the end of regulation time as Mervin Steeles tied the game for Cornecki with nine seconds to go.

A fine looking sophomore Gregory Howard of 5th Ave. High in Pittsburgh scored five points for Gip's in overtime and wound up with 32 markers for the evening. The 6-7 youngster tallied 14 field goals and four fouls for his total.

IN DEFEAT, New Brighton's John Bane was outstanding and added 21 points to the Cornecki attack.

Gengarella's was expected to have a more difficult time with White's Insurance but won with ease.

Larry Davidson, a 6-3 all-stater from Akron Central, joined the Midland varsity and hooped 22 points for Gengarella's while Ron Brown added 21 and Norm Vanlier 16.

Women Golfers Eye Capital City Open

BATON ROUGE, La. (AP)—The nation's top women golfers teed up for the first round in the $7,500 Capital City Open today with Mickey Wright trying a comeback after a five-month layoff.

Miss Wright, leading money winner in 1963, was sidelined with a severe ankle sprain last November. This is her first official tournament appearance since then.

Palmer Leads By 4 In Masters Golf

AUGUSTA, Ga. (AP) — Now Arnie's Army has an air force.

It buzzed the Augusta National Golf Course while Arnold Palmer burned it up down below, and when the "all clear" sounded Palmer had a commanding four-stroke lead after 36 holes of the Masters tournament Friday.

Only a highly unlikely tail spin in the last two rounds can keep Palmer from an unprecedented fourth Masters victory.

Palmer mounted one of his fabled charges on the back nine of the 6,980-yard golfing course while a churning mass of fans swept him along. The 34-year-old golfing millionaire ripped off four birdies on the last six holes and finished with a four-under-par 68.

Added to his opening-round 69, it gave him a halfway total of 137, four strokes ahead of Gary Player of South Africa.

Player, who was even with Palmer in the five-man traffic jam for the lead after the first round, had par 72 for 141.

Gene Littler, former U.S. Open champion, and Don January, a 34-year-old Dallas pro who has never won an important title, were tied for third at 142.

Champagne Tony Lema, who also had a 68 Friday, stood at 143, six shots behind Palmer, along with British Open champion Bob Charles, the left-hander, Dave Marr and Dow Finsterwald.

Defending champion Jack Nicklaus, the Ohio golden bear, played the long par fives poorly —"I'm supposed to pick up strokes on those and instead I lost them," he said — and finished with a 73 for 144, seven strokes back.

Eleven other players also had 144, including three-time winner Jimmy Demaret and amateur Billy Joe Patton.

The field was cut to the low 44 players and ties. It took 148 to make it.

Nicklaus looked at Palmer's score, and said:

"If old 'One Putt' can shoot two 70's the next two days, nobody is going to catch him. Of course, he might shoot 73 and I might have a 73. I didn't, though."

Palmer, who is rapidly establishing tradition of winning here in the "even" years—he won in 1958, 1960, and 1962 — had the customary aid of the surging Arnie's Army on the ground Friday.

He also got air support.

"Big Jack said my wife was probably flying the plane Palmer said.

He calls Nicklaus "Big Jack" in mock tribute to Nicklaus' booming drives. Nicklaus calls Palmer "One Putt."

Friday the nickname fit. Putter's birdie string.

WINNER AND STILL CHAMP. Light-heavyweight champion Willie Pastrano raises his hands in victory as a happy trainer Lou Gross runs up to congratulate him. Pastrano Retains Crown With TKO Over Peralta

By MURRAY ROSE
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — An inch-and-a half cut made a dream come true for light-heavyweight champion Willie Pastrano and ended a dream for Argentina's Gregorio Peralta.

It was the gash over Peralta's left eye that gained Pastrano a sixth-round technical knockout over the challenger in their 15-round title fight in Municipal Auditorium Friday night.

The TKO, in wily Willie's native city, may result in another New Orleans title scrap with Pastrano taking on Bobo Olson, the former middleweight ruler now engaged in a successful comeback campaign as a 175-pounder.

"I've always dreamed of winning a championship fight in New Orleans and now I've done it," said the jubilant Pastrano today. "Now I'd like to fight here again, maybe against Bobo Olson or Harold Johnson, or whoever Angelo says."

Manager Angelo Dundee said, "We'll wait to see what offers we get. Willie will fight anyone if the price is right."

"My dream is lost," moaned Peralta, the handsome contender who had hoped to become the first South American to win the world's light-heavyweight championship. "I could have continued. I was getting stronger. The cut wasn't bothering me too much. It's just bad luck."

"I've never seen a fight stopped like this for a cut like this," he said, among other things.

The gash was inflicted in the fourth round from what appeared to be a solid right. Pastrano said it was a counter right while Peralta and Johnston claimed it was from a butt.

But, unfortunately for Peralta he is cut prone, and, because of his body-banging attack, wide open for punches to the head.

He suffered a seven-stitch cut over the same eye in his Jan. 24 victory over Californian Wayne Thornton. And he was cut in his upset victory over Pastrano in their nontitle bout Sept. 20.

Pastrano, leading going into the fourth round of the spirited scrap, ripped open the gash early in the fourth and kept peppering it in the rest of the round and in the fifth.

Dr. A. J. Italiano, the ring physician, inspected the cut after the fourth and fifth rounds. After the fifth he told referee Pete Giarrusso to end it. Under Louisiana Commission rules it was recorded as a sixth-round technical knockout.

Giarrusso had it even in rounds, 2-2-1. The two judges had Pastrano ahead. Francis Kercheval had it 4-1 and Herman Dutreix had it 3-1-1. The Associated Press gave Peralta the last three rounds and had him ahead, 3-2.

The defeat was Peralta's first in nearly four years and ended his unbeaten streak at 29. His record is 39-4-4. He was stopped once before on cuts — by Peruvian Mauro Mina. Pastrano, making the first defense of the title he won from Johnson last June 1, has a 62-12-8 record.

Peralta entered the ring as the 7-5 favorite after weighing in at 174¾ pounds. Pastrano weighed the same.

Another Dodger-Yankee World Series Predicted

By JOE REICHLER
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK (AP)—Both the odds-makers and the experts forecast a second successive World Series between the Los Angeles Dodgers and New York Yankees as the 20 major league clubs neared the starting gate for the opening of the 1964 season.

The Yankee managerial switch from Ralph Houk to Yogi Berra has made no difference to the Las Vegas handicappers, who have installed the Yankees as 1-3 favorites. The Dodgers are 6-5.

The concensus is the Dodgers have too much pitching and speed for the rest of the National League while the Yankees have too much of everything for their American League rivals. If the Yankees win, it will mark their fifth straight flag, under three different managers.

Oddly enough, the only new managers are in the American League. Hank Bauer will make his debut as manager of the Baltimore Orioles and George Strickland will fill in at Cleveland for Birdie Tebbetts, hospitalized with a heart attack.

Of the trades made since the close of the 1963 season, the most interesting to watch may be the one in which the San Francisco Giants swapped outfielder Felipe Alou, catcher Ed Bailey and relief pitcher Billy Hoeft to Milwaukee for pitchers Bob Shaw and Bob Hendley and catcher Del Crandall.

The Detroit Tigers, generally regarded as the most-improved club in the American League, made two major deals in which they acquired outfielder Don Demeter from Philadelphia for pitcher Jim Bunning, and second baseman Jerry Lumpe, along with pitchers Ed Rakow and Dave Wickersham, from Kansas City for outfielder Rocky Colavito.

Houston has picked up veteran infielders Nellie Fox and Eddie Kasko. The New York Mets have newcomers in outfielder George Altman, catcher Bob Taylor and infielder Amado Samuel.

In the American League, the Los Angeles Angels have acquired veteran first baseman Joe Adcock and pitcher Barry Latman. Baltimore obtained outfielder Willie Kirkland from Cleveland for Al Smith and first baseman Norm Siebern from Kansas City for Jim Gentile. Bill Skowron will make his bow with the Washington Senators, Leon Wagner with the Indians and pitcher Larry Sherry with the Tigers.

The Reds will be opposed by the Colts, who have right-hander Ken Johnson all primed to face either lefty Jim O'Toole or right-hander Jim Maloney. A sellout crowd of 30,000 is assured.

Redskins Get Sam Huff In Giants' Deal

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Washington Redskins, swinging their second major National Football League deal within 10 days, acquired Linebacker Sam Huff from the New York Giants Friday for two players and a draft choice.

Defensive End Andy Stynchula, Halfback Dick James and the Redskins' No. 5 choice in the next draft were sent to the Giants in exchange for Huff and George Seals, rookie defensive lineman of Missouri.

Ten days ago Coach Bill McPeak traded Quarterback Norman Snead and Defensive Back Claude Crabb for two veteran Philadelphia players, Quarterback Sonny Jurgenson and Defensive Halfback Jimmy Carr.

Huff, an eight-year veteran in the league, is rated one of the top middle linebackers in professional football and has been a key player on the Giant team that has won Eastern titles the past three years. He is a grad of West Virginia University.

"It's kind of like getting hit with a bomb," Huff said when informed of the trade. "It's so unexpected I haven't gotten over the shock."

Patterson Golf Loop Will Open April 17

The Patterson Golf League will launch league play April 17 at the Highland Country Club links.

Leafs And Wings Open Series For Hockey Title

By The Associated Press

The Stanley Cup, 71-year-old golden fleece of hockey, goes on the line tonight at Toronto when the defending champion Maple Leafs and form-defying Detroit Red Wings meet in the opener of a best-of-seven series for the National Hockey League post-season title.

The series is a rematch of the 1963 final round, won by Toronto in five games. The prize is $2,000 for each player on the winning team—about $1,950 more than the Cup's value when Canada's Earl Stanley donated it to the Western Canada Hockey League, forerunner of the NHL, in 1893.

The Leafs are favored to repeat—they are seeking a third successive Cup title and 10th in the league's 47-year history. Toronto fashioned an 8-3-3 season edge over Detroit. Furthermore, a fourth-place club has yet to win the post-season championship.

Detroit finished with a rush and nailed the fourth and last playoff berth. Toronto wound up third, beaten by surprise champion Montreal and Chicago.

The Leafs and Wings already have pocketed $1,500 per player for upending the Canadiens and Black Hawks, respectively, in semifinal sets, each of which went the seven-game limit.

The Canadiens, crippled by injuries to Jean Beliveau and Gilles Tremblay, bowed to the underdog Leafs in a bruising series that produced seven penalty records. The Leafs won the deciding game at Montreal 3-1, with Dave Keon scoring all three goals and goalie Johnny Bower stopping 39 shots.

Detroit, led by Norm Ullman's two hat tricks and the incomparable Gordie Howe with 11 scoring points, battled the favored Hawks on even terms for six games and ousted them 4-2 in the tie-breaker at Chicago. Howe had a goal and two assists in the finale.

Terry Sawchuk, Detroit's regular goalie, was in and out of a hospital, result of a pinched nerve in his left shoulder, throughout the series. If Sawchuck, who needs two shutouts to equal Turk Broda's playoff record, can't play, young Roger Crozier will fill in.

The Red Wings, seven-time Cup winners, haven't clicked since 1955. Four members of that club — Howe, Sawchuk, Marcel Pronovost and Alex Delvecchio—are still winging and a fifth, Red Kelly, wears a Toronto Jersey.

The second game of the final set will be played in Toronto next Thursday and Saturday. Other games, if necessary, will alternate between the cities.

Banquet Honors St. Stephen's Church Cagers

Seventeen attended a banquet honoring the basketball squad of St. Stephen's Episcopal Church Friday night in the Travelers Hotel, when awards were presented.

The team finished third in its division in the YMCA Church Basketball League.

Trophies were presented each member of the team. Warm - up jackets with the name of the church inscribed were presented to Jeff Clapsaddle and Dennis Lowe, graduating squadmen.

The Rev. D. Ross Salisbury, rector, was master of ceremonies. Also present were the three coaches of the team, Frank Hancock, Richard Manning and Atty. Jackman Vodrey.

Player trades between the National and American Leagues are permitted between Nov. 21 and Dec. 15, without waivers.

Ortiz Defends Title Against Lane Tonight

By LOUIS UCHITELLE

This is the fourth defense of the 135-pound crown Ortiz won from Joe Brown in 1962. The 27-year-old Puerto Rican, now living in New York, won his first three defenses by knockouts and he says, "If I hit Lane right, he'll go."

Nevertheless Ortiz adds that he will "be glad to win by decision" the 15-round outdoor bout at Bithorn Stadium where a year ago he knocked out Cuban Doug Vaillant.

The 32-year-old challenger from Muskegon, Mich., is confident, too. A southpaw who has been fighting 11 years and who gained a 10-round decision over Ortiz six years ago, Lane feels he is the better boxer and that will win for him.

Frisco Eyes Clincher In Hawk Series

By JACK STEVENSON
Associated Press Sports Writer

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—"We want to wrap it up right there in St. Louis on Sunday," declared San Francisco Coach Alex Hannum after his band of Warrior hospital cases whipped the Hawks 121-97 and took a 3-2 lead in their best-of-seven Western playoff finals.

Wilt Chamberlain hit for 50 points in the San Francisco victory which the Warriors insured by scoring nine straight points to open the second half after St. Louis had narrowed its deficit from 20 to nine points at the end of the second quarter.

Hannum isn't positive who he'll start in St. Louis, but probably the same five that opened before the 10,628 Cow Palace fans Friday night.

Much depends on the Warriors' physcial condition. Al Attles has two calcium deposits in his thigh, Gary Phillips and Wayne Hightower have injured ankles.

Cronin Orders Kansas City To Remove 'Pennant Porch'

KANSAS CITY (AP)—Joe Cronin, president of the American League, has ordered the Kansas City Athletics to remove the new "Pennant Porch" fence in right field at the Kansas City Stadium, it was learned from a reliable source early today.

Cronin has said the fence must come down or no American League games will be played in Municipal Stadium, it was reported.

Charles O. Finley, Athletics' owner, had the fence built this week to make the field conform to measurements of Yankee Stadium in New York.

Cronin, it was learned, sent a telegram to Pat Friday, Athletics general manager, stating that Cronin's decision was reached after receiving Hubbard's report.

Friday could not be reached immediately for comment.

The fence will be used for the first time today and Sunday in a pair of exhibition games between the Athletics and the St. Louis Cardinals.

Midland Wins, 5-4

Midland High's Leopards decisioned Ellwood City, 5-4, Friday at Midland. Pete Cilli was the winning hurler, besting Chuck Adam. The Leopards collected eight hits and showed five errors, with the losers getting five hits.

To Screen Movies

Coach Bob Hedmond will screen movies of the East-Westgate Junior High football game at a meeting of the Lady Potter Boosters Club Monday night at 7:30 in the YMCA. There will be a question period following the movie.

LEGAL NOTICES

LEGAL NOTICE
Regulation of The Board of Public Utilities

Rule No. 1. The Owner and/or the Occupant of the premises inside or outside the City which is connected with the Water and Sewerage System of the City of East Liverpool shall permit a Representative of the Sewer Department at reasonable times to enter upon the premises and buildings served by the Sewerage and Water Department of the City — for the purpose of inspection of all connections of said premises with the City Sanitary and Storm Water Sewers.

If the property is found to be connected illegally to the Sanitary Storm Water System, the expense of correcting the condition shall be borne by the property owner.

Upon failure of the owner and/or occupant to permit said entrance and inspection, the Inspector shall cause the connections of said property for sewer and water to be severed, and the premises will not again be connected until said permission is given, and all the expense incurred on behalf of the City is paid.

Customers found in violation will be given a 60-day Notice to conform to regulations.

Ortiz Defends Title Against Lane Tonight

By LOUIS UCHITELLE

This is the fourth defense of the 135-pound crown Ortiz won from Joe Brown in 1962. The 27-year-old Puerto Rican, now living in New York, won his first three defenses by knockouts and he says, "If I hit Lane right, he'll go."

Nevertheless Ortiz adds that he will "be glad to win by decision" the 15-round outdoor bout at Bithorn Stadium where a year ago he knocked out Cuban Doug Vaillant.

The 32-year-old challenger from Muskegon, Mich., is confident, too. A southpaw who has been fighting 11 years and who gained a 10-round decision over Ortiz six years ago, Lane feels he is the better boxer and that will win for him.

Frisco Eyes Clincher In Hawk Series

By JACK STEVENSON
Associated Press Sports Writer

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—"We want to wrap it up right there in St. Louis on Sunday," declared San Francisco Coach Alex Hannum after his band of Warrior hospital cases whipped the Hawks 121-97 and took a 3-2 lead in their best-of-seven Western playoff finals.

The winner meets Boston to decide the National Basketball Association title, and as of now the Warriors hold an edge despite their infirmities.

Boston's Celtics won the Eastern playoff 4-1 from Cincinnati and could now have a lengthy lay-off.

Wilt Chamberlain hit for 50 points in the San Francisco victory which the Warriors insured by scoring nine straight points to open the second half after St. Louis had narrowed its deficit from 20 to nine points at the end of the second quarter.

Hannum isn't positive who he'll start in St. Louis, but probably the same five that opened before the 10,628 Cow Palace fans Friday night.

Much depends on the Warriors' physcial condition. Al Attles has two calcium deposits in his thigh, Gary Phillips and Wayne Hightower have injured ankles.

Cronin Orders Kansas City To Remove 'Pennant Porch'

KANSAS CITY (AP)—Joe Cronin, president of the American League, has ordered the Kansas City Athletics to remove the new "Pennant Porch" fence in right field at the Kansas City Stadium, it was learned from a reliable source early today.

Cronin has said the fence must come down or no American League games will be played in Municipal Stadium, it was reported.

Charles O. Finley, Athletics' owner, had the fence built this week to make the field conform to measurements of Yankee Stadium in New York.

Finley has contended the short right field fence in New York enabled the Yankees to dominate the league for years with their pull hitters.

Cal Hubbard, American League supervisor of umpires, inspected the fence Thursday and went away shaking his head.

Cronin, it was learned, sent a telegram to Pat Friday, Athletics general manager, stating that Cronin's decision was reached after receiving Hubbard's report.

Friday could not be reached immediately for comment.

The fence will be used for the first time today and Sunday in a pair of exhibition games between the Athletics and the St. Louis Cardinals.

Midland Wins, 5-4

Midland High's Leopards decisioned Ellwood City, 5-4, Friday at Midland. Pete Cilli was the winning hurler, besting Chuck Adam. The Leopards collected eight hits and showed five errors, with the losers getting five hits.

To Screen Movies

Coach Bob Hedmond will screen movies of the East-Westgate Junior High football game at a meeting of the Lady Potter Boosters Club Monday night at 7:30 in the YMCA. There will be a question period following the movie.

LEGAL NOTICES

LEGAL NOTICE
Regulation of The Board of Public Utilities

Rule No. 1. The Owner and/or the Occupant of the premises inside or outside the City which is connected with the Water and Sewerage System of the City of East Liverpool shall permit a Representative of the Sewer Department at reasonable times to enter upon the premises and buildings served by the Sewerage and Water Department of the City — for the purpose of inspection of all connections of said premises with the City Sanitary and Storm Water Sewers.

If the property is found to be connected illegally to the Sanitary Storm Water System, the expense of correcting the condition shall be borne by the property owner.

Upon failure of the owner and/or occupant to permit said entrance and inspection, the Inspector shall cause the connections of said property for sewer and water to be severed, and the premises will not again be connected until said permission is given, and all the expense incurred on behalf of the City is paid.

Customers found in violation will be given a 60-day Notice to conform to regulations.

2 IN MEMORIAM

IN loving memory of Tomey Joe Renner who passed away April 11, 1962.
He is gone, but not forgotten and in our hearts we love him still. His memory is as dear to us as the day he passed away. The often sit and think of him. For memory is the only thing, that grief can call its own.
Sadly missed by mother, father and sisters.

SECTION 27. The City Auditor is hereby authorized to draw his warrant on the City Treasurer for payments from any of the foregoing appropriations upon receiving proper certificates and vouchers therefor, approved by the Board or Officer authorized by law to approve the same, or an ordinance or resolution by Council to make the expenditure; provided that no warrants shall be drawn or paid for salaries or wages except to persons employed by authority of and in accordance with law or ordinance.

SECTION 28. That this Ordinance is by this Council found and declared to be an emergency measure and shall go into immediate effect. Said emergency lies in the fact that it is necessary that this Ordinance be passed immediately so that the various employees of the various departments of the City of East Liverpool can be paid and the expenses of the various departments can be paid, and it is therefore necessary for the immediate preservation of the public peace, health and safety of said City.

Passed this 30th day of March, 1964.

2 IN MEMORIAM

IN loving memory of Tomey Joe Renner who passed away April 11, 1962.
He is gone, but not forgotten and in our hearts we love him still. His memory is as dear to us as the day he passed away. The often sit and think of him. For memory is the only thing, that grief can call its own.
Sadly missed by mother, father and sisters.

OFF THE RECORD

How Can I?

By ANNE ASHLEY

Q. How can I remove heat ring stains from the top surface of a table?

A. A paste of salt and olive oil, applied to these rings with a brush, will help. Let this stand on for about an hour before removing. Or, let a thick coat of petroleum jelly stand on the marks for about 48 hours before rubbing off with a soft cloth.

Q. How can I remove lead pencil stains from materials?

A. Work glycerin or a heavy detergent solution into the stains with a blunt-edged object, then apply a few drops of ammonia, and gently work into the stains. As the stain dissolves, flush it out with warm water.

Q. How can I cook quickly and tenderize a tough piece of meat?

A. Try sticking the meat full of spike nails, and it will cook in half the usual time. Be sure, of course, to remove the nails before serving!

Q. How can I remove old whitewash from a wall?

A. Here's one method that is much easier than washing it off with water. First, apply a thin wash coat consisting of starch, alum, and glue. After this has dried thoroughly, which causes the whitewash to curl up, you can brush it off quickly and easily.

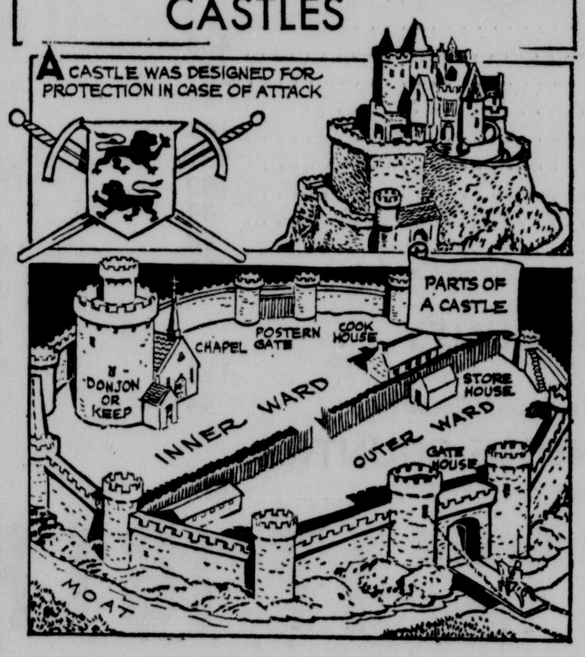

Q. How can I make a good glass cement?

A. Just melt common alum in a glass spoon — and you'll have a very efficient cement for mending glass, china, or metal articles.

Q. Is there any way I can resurrect a bamboo garden rake whose ends have become worn?

A. Try soaking the rake ends in boiling hot water for five or ten minutes to make them pliable, then bend the ends under again with a pair of pliers.

Junior Editors Quiz on CASTLES

QUESTION: Why were castles built?

ANSWER: Castles resulted from conditions in Medieval times when central governments were too weak to give protection to their people. The feudal lords and barons took their retainers, including knights and fighting men as well as various servants and workers, under their protection, and built castles which were something like very small, walled towns. Outside, the castle would be ringed with farms run by peasants who were also the lord's retainers, and in times of danger they would join the others inside the castle walls. For greater protection, a "moat" or canal often surrounded a castle. Across the moat was a "drawbridge" which could be opened or closed. The heavy walls had "battlements" from which square "merlons" stood up to shelter fighters while they shot arrows and threw stones and spears on an attacking enemy below. We show the plan of a typical castle.

The "donjon" or "keep" was the general living place, with retainers often housed on the ground level, while the lord's quarters were above. Many castles were built on high precipitous places (top picture) where they could easily be defended in these days of nearly constant warfare. Shields with devices such as we show helped identify the knights in time of battle.
